NEWS FROM ALL OVER IMPERIAL MISSOURI

Interesting Happenings Which Have Taken Place In the Greatest State in the Union

The Product of the Scissors, the Pen and a Very Little Actual Labor

Miss Dimple Moore lives in Lamar. I. Lier is a respected citizen of Moberly.
Becoming convinced that it was injuring his health, a Kirksville man has given up smoking to help win the war.

A Springfield company has secured a contract for building thirty-seven miles of hard surfaced road in Boone County, Arkansas.
A severe hailstorm in Springfield broke in one of the churches a stained glass window worth $1,000 and in another one worth $500.

Oliver Roe, a 14-year-old Orrick boy, is one of the lucky. Oliver found a dynamite cap, and in attempting to straighten it lost only three fingers.
The foreign born residents of Springfield are planning a big Fourth of July celebration as a declaration of their patriotism and loyalty to this country.

Remember, that when addressing a letter to a soldier in France a 3-cent stamp is required. If addressing a civilian there a 2-cent stamp is required.
It is reported that Mrs. Warren Blackwell, who recently killed her husband in Pike county, has gone insane and is confined in a cell in St. Louis.

E. E. Tilton of Maryville was appointed today deputy state game and fish commissioner to succeed Alexander Gibbs of Turkey, who died a few weeks ago.
The Brookfield health board's order for a clean-up calls for the removal of "rubbish of any kind," and the town barbers are urging that it be enforced to the letter.

Maybe it is fortunate that so few Missouri poets can afford motor cars. Father Henry B. Tierney of Trenton apprised his writing hand trying to crank one the other day.
Rob Roy Godsey must have taken to going to bed late earlier than he used to. He is urging the Webb City council to make cat owners either pay license on their cats or kill them.

Judge James T. Blair Friday was elected presiding judge of Division No. 3 of the supreme court, to succeed Judge Henry Bond, who declined to accept the election as chief justice.

The most unpopular men in Missouri just now are the committee of doctors and dentists in Springfield who examined more than two hundred babies the other day and announced that no one was perfect.

Nodaway county's biggest wheat crop will be harvested next month. With over 40,000 acres planted and with an estimated yield of 16 bushels to the acre, the return to the farmers will be $1,750,000.

A West Plains soldier who was in a recent battle in France, writes the Quill that he was too busy to be frightened till it was all over and he had a chance to look back, but doesn't say where from.

Thirty convicts were sent to Franklin and twenty to Henry county Friday of last week to work on the highway. The state will receive $1.50 per day for each convict from the counties where they are employed.

When twin girls arrived at a Holden home Editor Hobart of the Progress felt somewhat discouraged and exclaimed: "God give us men." The next week, twin sons arrived at the home of another prominent Holdentite.

The state poultry experts are emphatically right in assuring the farmers that this is the time of year when they should kill all their roosters. What can beat thoughts of fried chicken in stimulating a back-to-the farm movement?

Wm. Meier, last Sunday evening at nine o'clock, counted 155 cars parked in the city. He had no more than turned his back until nine more were spied by Red Bunker, making a total of 167 in the city at that time. Mound City Journal.

year will be 7c per bushel. This rate was established at the meeting of threshing machine owners who met at Platte City Saturday. There were 62 men present, representing nearly as many machines.—The Landmark.

The Carroll County Council of Defense has arranged a schedule of wages to be paid harvest hands: For shocking, $3.50 to $5 a day, twelve hours to be a day's work and overtime to be paid for extra work. For work in threshing, $3 to $4.

A Richmond family was hauled up by the County Flood Administrator for having too much food on hand, and the good housewife said she couldn't help it as there was a negro man employed on the farm who ate 22 biscuits in one day besides corn bread.

Supt. Blakey of the state reformatory is fast placing that institution on a self-supporting basis. The boys are cultivating 225 acres of corn, 50 acres of potatoes, and 30 acres of garden stuff. The 220 acres of growing wheat are expected to yield nearly 5,000 bushels.

Lightning struck the lantern on the dome of the new state capitol a few nights ago and knocked a piece of stone out of the Southwest corner, six by four inches. The electricity had evidently followed the anchorage which fastened the stone in position and had skinned the outer part off.

Mrs. Charles Perreten, of Carrollton, a native of Switzerland, who was rescued forty-three years ago by a crew from a sinking craft in mid-French vessel and landed safely in America, now has four sons in the United States army on the way to France. Mrs. Perreten has lived in that county for many years and is the mother of twelve children.

Two South Americans from Uruguay have been studying cattle conditions on the Rankin Farms, this last week. They have been staying at Walnut Inn. They are making these observations for the Uruguay department of agriculture. Their names are Eugenio Noriega and Y. C. Urrioste.

Bowling Green Chapter of the American Red Cross lays claim to the banner chapter in the country in the last Red Cross fund drive. The quota of the Chapter was $4,250 and the people subscribed to a total of $15,000, 353 per cent of the quota. It is claimed this is the largest per cent in the United States.

Doc Bryden, former representative from Stoddard county and secretary of the Democratic state committee, has been appointed state land reclamation commissioner by Governor Gardner. He succeeds Dr. Bullock, who has been named chairman of the Kansas City board of health under Mayor Cowgill.

The First Baptist Church, negro, of St. Louis, was wrecked early Friday morning by a bomb explosion. Pews were hurled into the streets, windows were shattered and the detonation was heard two miles away. Men were seen running from the church shortly before the explosion, according to witnesses. Police today declared the explosion an outgrowth of race feeling.

An average Hereford crowd attended the cattle sale of O. Harris & Sons at Harris, Mo., Tuesday and enjoyed a beautiful day and saw one of the best bunches of cattle ever offered for sale at auction. One hundred head of bulls and calves, as pretty as was ever seen, were placed on the block and when the last one was sold the average per head totalled $1,080.

After dragging along in the courts of the land for many years, the suit nominally involving the legal title to the Missouri Valley college at Marshall, Mo., and in reality hinging upon the legality of the union of the Presbyterian and the Cumberland Presbyterian churches has been by the Supreme Court of the United States decided in favor of the union.

On 12,000 acres of Ray county farm land the hail destroyed all growing crops one day last week, says a Richmond paper. Every stalk of corn, wheat, oats and garden stuff was beaten into the ground and all the leaves were stripped from the trees. A cloudburst washed the soil terribly; pigs were drowned on a hilltop and pigs lambs were beaten to death by the hail on the Broughton farm and calves were killed on the Harrison farm—all in the Hickory Grove neighborhood.

A very unusual proceeding was had in Henry county last week. A warrant was issued for the arrest of a 17-year-old girl who was charged with having abandoned her husband. The young husband made application to the prosecuting attorney for the warrant, and the wife was brought back to Clinton and put in jail from Kansas City, Kansas.

A wealthy farmer near Leeton refuses to give to the Red Cross or buy Liberty Bonds because he says "the millennium is near and he is saving up his money for God's thousand-year reign on earth." But his neighbors decided he must mean God's millennium, kidnapped his motor car, painted it yellow and with the owner's name and paraded it through the town.

Chas. E. Butler died at Washington one day last week with hydrophobia. About two months before he was bitten by a hound dog while working on a railroad section. Before his death he was taken to the city hall in Washington and two guards put over him so that there would be no danger of his hurting anyone. He leaves a wife and four children.

At a Kansas City convention of club women the door of a popular cafe was crowded with ladies awaiting admission to the dining room that was already crowded to the limit. "I feel like Moses, looking into the promised land," observed one woman outside. "And I am afraid, like Moses, we will never live to enter the promised land," exclaimed a neighbor when she was joking.

Washington is the largest and most enterprising town in Franklin county. Its citizens are largely of German descent, and about one year ago the town was referred to as a "slacker town." But Washington citizens have established their loyalty in more ways than one. In an impassioned, well-written editorial in the Franklin County Observer last week it is shown that the city has more than done her duty in every war fund campaign, whether buying Liberty Bonds, subscribing to Red Cross or Y. M. C. A. funds or what not.

Four men, all evidently novices at the business, were felled in their attempt to rob the Rocheport bank Monday night. About midnight they exploded a charge of glycerine in an attempt to blow open the vault door. The explosion aroused the town marshal who dressed and went to investigate. He was met by one or two men and a fight began with revolvers. The would-be robbers ran toward the railroad tracks and escaped. A young lady operator at the telephone was struck in the arm by a bullet from the revolver of one of the robbers.

Some patriotic city hater near Marceline is likely to think he is either seeing things from the heat or suddenly has been transported to some smiling lake in the sunny South. The other day an alligator in captivity there broke through the iron netting surrounding it, tore down a door, disappeared and is believed to be hiding in a wheat field near town. The occurrence is said to have caused a dearth of negro labor in the fields, the negroes confessing an atavistic superstition that alligators prefer dark meat. The farmers are combatting this by spreading the report that the alligator has been seen in a popular fishing stream near town, hoping to start a back-to-the-farm movement among fishermen who fear being submerged.
