The custom of exposing the dead at the close of a funeral for the public gaze of a curious public has been discontinued in itself and should be discontinued by law if common sense is not strong enough to stop it; but the habit of lifting up the members of the stricken family in order that they may give public evidences of their grief is nothing short of barbarous. The churches lodges and schools of our race should make an unrelenting war upon this gruesome practice to the end that it be entirely forgotten.

Lyric Hall is the acknowledged headquarters for the social activities of the city and it is certainly due to the liberal patronage which it receives that it is maintained in such manner as to meet the greatest possible demands for convenience and comfort. The facilities for checking wraps could not possibly be worse unless there were no conveniences at all as is the case on the ladies' side of the house. Those in charge of the hall ought to take advantage of the summer and add some long over-due improvements.

The Negro Business League of Greater Kansas City held a very well attended meeting last Tuesday evening. A very large attendance and progressive step was taken when the league joined hands with most of the leagues of every town and city in the Union when they voted to exempt teachers and preachers from paying dues when they are not engaged in any business. Every teacher and preacher in the state should join the league and help make opportunity for Negro youth. You owe it to our rising generation to make efforts now for their success in the battles of life, love and Union will pay the way.

Now all the schools are busy preparing for their public closing exercises and graduations. Simplicity should be the rule in all cases. Anything which bears the mark of extravagance whether in dress or in attempted literary efforts does the children more harm than good. There is already too much vanity and venter in the life of our people. The schools should be fully aware of this and should be a strong fortress against it. Let the children be children. They are not expected to be philosophers. Abstractions do not concern them, neither are they expected to be wizards of economical sciences. There are just children of an infant race.

Mr. Murphy of Baltimore, Md., Grand Imperial Potentate of the Shrines, made a visit to the Daughters of Isis and Nobles of the Mystic Shrines (Allah Court No. 6 and Allah Temple No. 7) last Saturday, May 9. He was a guest while here of Past Grand Master Noble and daughter R. G. and Mrs. Coles.

ANNNOYED THE GOOD FOLKS

Surely New York Chauffeur Might Have Been Just a Little Bit Accommodating.

"New Yorkers ain't what you would call neighbors," Mrs. Bates summed up to her friend, Mary Abby Thomas, at the end of a dramatic account of her ten days' sojourn in Manhattan. "No, nor even humanly accommodating as one man to another," she added, "they're plain stuck-up."

"How so?" inquired Mary Abby, with eager interest.
 "In more ways than one, but one'll do," Mrs. Bates answered, with dignity, her long, thin cheeks flushing as with some poignant recollection. "The last morning but one before we left, as Hiram and I were starting out for the day, he noticed a spot on the front of my gray skirt. You know how particular he is, and I expected he'd send me back to the hotel. But he didn't. He seemed to have a quick idea, near 's I could make out from his face, and before I could ask what he was doing, he stepped up to a public chauffeur, pulled up at the sidewalk in a big automobile. We'd seen him lots of times, and noticed that he favored our Alice's Frank considerable, and there was no reason why he shouldn't have recognized us. Besides, he'd ought to have known we wa'n't the borrowing kind of folks, but meant to pay."

"Young man," Hiram says to him, "can you spare us a little mite of your gasoline? My wife's got a grease spot on her dress."

"What's s's he. But it wasn't a question, he understood what Hiram said well enough, for he began to snicker, and before I could pull him along that boy was laughing fit to split."

"I call him stingy," said Mary Abby, with an air of furnishing a fresh interpretation of character. "It wouldn't have taken more than a drop or two of his old gasoline."—Youth's Companion.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

It costs one dollar yearly to be a member of the Y. W. C. A.

"I am come that they might have life and that they might have it more abundantly," John 10:10—National Y. W. C. A. Motto.

Owing to funeral services of two young women we did not deem it wise to hold Vesper service last Sunday. The Tuesday night Bible class continues with interest and we shall be glad to increase its membership. Any woman can join this class.

Mrs. Dr. Dibble will be our speaker at the Vesper service tomorrow—Sunday, May 17, at 3 o'clock in the rooms of the Y. W. C. A., 5th and State avenue. Mrs. Dibble will speak on David Livingstone and our girls will do well to come with the women to hear her. We close at 4 o'clock.

Miss Anna H. Jones, one of the best known educators among the women of America will be the speaker at our monthly public Vesper service which is to be held at Mt. Pleasant Baptist Church, 3rd street, Rev. J. R. Richardson, pastor on the fourth Sunday or May 24. All people are invited to attend.

In her recent letter to girls, Miss Grace H. Dodge, our national president of the Y. W. C. A. gave among other beautiful quotations the following: "Hear no evil, see no evil and speak no evil. Teach the hands to work, the mind to think and the heart to love. Do the best you can and leave the rest." Both women and girls would do well to appropriate and practice this advice.

The Yates Branch of the Young Women's Christian Association, located on the second floor of our building at 5th and State Avenue on the

There is a reason why the larger per cent of Cabinet Stationery used by Kansas City's "400" is turned from the Arthur W. Harris Printing Establishment. First their workmanship in this class of service is unexcelled by any of the larger and best equipped printing establishments in this city, since they all but make a specialty of this class of work. Second, while their prices are not always the lowest, they are always the fairest. They have "delivered" with accuracy and dispatch to over 90 per cent of the classy weddings and receptions during the past year and now when a function of class is announced it is a ten-one shot that Harris will handle the job.

BE STEADFAST.

Do not be alarmed because you heard that some one said something not complimentary about you. People have always said ugly things about those who struggle to be, and are achieving something; those against whom there is nothing said, are negligible quantities—people talk about those who are doing good. You go ahead, like the ancient philosopher who, when he was asked by an apparent friend, who really desired to help the old sage, what he could do for him, replied: "Please stand out of my sunshine." That is all the alert, energetic aspiring young person asks; "stand out of my sunshine."

GREAT THINGS AT THE DELMONICO.

That we are fairly approaching the "De Luxe" service in style and quality must be acknowledged by the most conservative. The recommendation to our business is the evident satisfaction of our customers which clearly shows that recent improvements made by us are duly appreciated. Aside from maintaining a high standard in cafe service and an enlarged selection of Bakery Goods our Musical innovation has made the "hit" with the people. We are fortunate in having Miss Corsetta Kingsberry, a local teacher, pianist and singer of pleasing songs to entertain you while you eat. "Who Knows" (by Dunbar), "When the Sands of the Desert Grow Cold" and "Jale D'Honour" are some of the favorites called for and furnished from the repertoire of the young lady who, to say the least, is a versatile entertainer. While the clever-toned victrola waits out selections of every sort all the way from the ridiculous to the sublime. Remember this is our standard service! Music on Sunday afternoons and every evening. Read our weekly ad.

SQUIRE HAD SIZED HIS MAN

Pompous Lawyer Got Little the Better of Interview With Keen Old Justice.

To a certain southern town, on legal business, came a most pompous young lawyer, who, notwithstanding his name was McNaught, had an excellent opinion of himself. He found it necessary to talk with Squire Gardner, an unpompous justice, who had no good opinion of anything, and especially of anyone who had a good opinion of himself. The squire had never heard of his visitor till he called and he was a poor hand at remembering names, but he was an expert in human measurements.

The young lawyer proceeded promptly to say what he had to say, the squire listening, but watching. Presently he thought it was time for him to say something.

"Hold on, Mr. McNaught," he began. "My name is McNaught," the lawyer stately corrected him.
 "Excuse me, excuse me," apologized the squire, and finished his remarks. It was not long before the squire again fell called upon to speak.
 "Well, now, Mr. McZero—" he started to.

"I said my name was McNaught," the lawyer interrupted, sharply.
 Again the squire apologized, doing so profusely, and the lawyer concluded his consultation. He was not feeling very kindly towards the squire, but he thought it wise not to manifest his feelings, and said good-bye with a fair degree of politeness.
 "Good-bye, Mr. McNothing," said the squire, as innocent as a lamb, and as the visitor walked pompously out of the office the squire chuckled.

CANNOT FIGHT THE MEMORY

Real Reason Why Contributions to "Conscience Funds" Come in More or Less Regularly.

Practically every government in this country, local, state or national, has what is known as a conscience fund. Contributions are continually being received for this fund from unknown sources. They dribble in day after day, sometimes in amounts of a few cents and sometimes in sums of substantial proportions.

Each contribution means that some person has found the memory of dishonesty so troublesome that he goes to considerable trouble to get rid of it. Of course, those who make restitution are probably far fewer than those who have taken what does not belong to them and escaped detection. The conscience fund is an illustration of the way in which a guilty memory must interfere with efficiency.

FIRST TO "DISCOVER" LOTI

Afterward Celebrated Author Owed His Introduction to the Public to a Woman.

It is not generally known that Mme. Edmond Adam introduced Pierre Loti to the public.

One afternoon in 1880 the editor of La Nouvelle Revue dropped in at the publishing house of Paul Calmann-Lévy and while rummaging through the newspapers on a table said:

"Haven't you anything new? Just now I have no novel that I think would please my subscribers. Can't you find me a white blackbird?"

Paul Calmann-Lévy picked up a manuscript entitled "Aziyade" that had just been received from the provinces.

"By whom is it?" asked Mme. Adam.
 "A naval officer, I believe, who wishes to keep his identity a secret," the publisher replied.

Mme. Edmond Adam skimmed through several chapters and exclaimed: "But this is delightful; may I have it?" And shortly afterward there appeared in the Revue the first work of the writer who later signed himself Pierre Loti.

"Le Mariage de Loti," which followed, was a revelation. The author described his own adventures under the romantic skies of Tahiti. All Paris went mad about Rarahu, the little savage, who in the despair of unrequited love, cut off her own hand. Loti was famous!
