BEAUTIFUL! NEW EAGLE MARKET

That's what everyone says who visits our elegant Market and Grocery that has long been the most popular and satisfactory business of its kind on 18th street. A massive and magnificent new Meat Cooler has been installed as well as new heavy plate glass top counters and shelves with comfortable revolving seats for the convenience of our customers. Everything that can be obtained at the big first-class markets downtown can be found here at a cheaper rate for the reason that we are out of the high rent district. Our berries, fruits and vegetables are received FRESH every day. Our meats are of the choicest selections of the standard brands. Our fish and poultry are unlimited and the best on the market. And in fact all our goods are ABSOLUTELY GUARANTEED. Our record for quick, prompt and courteous service is unequalled. Come in—look around and we are fully convinced that you will agree with us that it is the handsomest, best stocked and most satisfactory place to trade in Kansas City.

CHILLICOTHE, MO.

(By B. O. Longdon.)

Mr. Edw. Caswell of Chicago, Ill., is visiting relatives and friends. Mrs. Nora Benton of Kansas City, Mo., is the guest of Mrs. Ann Clayton. Mr. Oliver Shields and Miss Marguerite Estes, two prominent young people in social and religious circles, were united in marriage at the Methodist parsonage Sunday evening, June 11, 1916. Rev. L. D. Doveil officiated. The bride and groom succeeded in reaching Chicago, Ill.; where they will reside, before their host of friends were aware of the wedding. We wish them a happy voyage. We doff our hats to Mercedes Alnutt, age 12, one of the four prize winners in the "Clean-up" contest on the subject, "Little Citizens, What They Can Do to Make Chillicothe the Most Beautiful and Progressive Town in Missouri." She was presented a pair of shoes by the Hawley Shoe Co. at the Majestic Theater Monday evening, Golden Rule Lodge No. 77 A. F. & A. M. recently elected the following officers for the ensuing year: V. E. Williams, W. M.; B. V. Longdon, S. W.; Edw. Brown, J. W.; Jas. Burton, treasurer; James Banks, secretary; Henry Williams, chaplain; Charles Johnson, Tyler. When the Sir Knights and Daughters of Tabor and the Maids and Pages had filed into the seats reserved for them at their annual service last Sunday afternoon the front and central portions of the Baptist church were filled by them and the congregation was forced to rear. We make this remark to give you an idea of the numerical strength of the order. Mr. Wm. Moore and Mrs. Margaret Hicks, the honored and much respected charter members, were enabled to be present at this service. The annual service delivered by Rev. L. L. Tally proved a rare treat. Opening last Wednesday morning, the Baptist Sunday school convention was favored with ideal June weather to its triumphant close, Saturday afternoon, June 17. It would be hard to say which of the several sessions of the convention was greatest. Each had a feature of its own and all were high in interest. But the Thursday and Friday evening sessions brought out the greatest crowd. Many prominent ministers and laymen were represented on the program of speakers, and the sermons, addresses and papers seemed to be inspirational and informational to the delegates. And we confess that alike helpfulness is a portion of all who were fortunate enough to get into personal touch with the convention. Prof. and Mrs.

Clyde Black and Rev. O. T. Redd were among the former Chillicotheans in attendance.

Inexhaustible Supply.
Oh, Hope is never left behind,
Though bitterly assailed;
New theories we always find
In place of those that failed.

Hard to Tell.

"You have made a good many nice sales this season," said the manager. "Thanks."
"You must know when to grasp the psychological moment for closing a transaction."

"Oh, I manage all right with the customers. But what is the psychological moment for striking the boss for a raise?"

A Sad Blow.

"Well, the blamed railroad company has found my lost grip."
"You should be glad."
"Would you be glad to get a six-dollar grip back in place of seventy-five dollars' damages you had expected to collect?"

Anything But Quiet.

Parker—I understand your wife is financially interested in your business.
Harker—That's correct.
Parker—Sort of silent partner, eh?
Harker—Silent! Say, you evidently don't know my wife.

Two of a Kind.

"Do you know," said the giddy young maid, "that I don't believe I could ever learn to love a man."
"Our ideas seem inclined to shoot the same chute," rejoined the sarcastic youth. "I'm positive that I couldn't, either."

Doing Her Worst.

He (after the quarrel)—I suppose you are going back to your mother's.
She (triumphantly)—I shall do no such thing. On the contrary, I am going to the most expensive hotel I can find and let them send you the bill.

The Young Wife.

"Hubby, didn't I understand you to say that the produce exchange is near your office?"
"Yes, my dear."
"Well, I just wish you'd stop in there and exchange these eggs for something fresher."

Not a Steady Job.

Sandy—I suppose you're heard about 'em laying MacGregor off the docks after thirty years' service?
McTavish—Tut, mon! you're his ain fault. I told him when he takt the job 'twould no' be steady work.—Judge.
