THE NEW VINE STREET THEATRE
Owing to the fact that we are "Jim Crowed" in, or barred from the best theatres and moving picture houses in this city, we are more than pleased to welcome the re-opening of the New Vine Street Theatre under its present management, and especially since the manager, Mr. George W. K. Love, seems to understand and appreciate the needs of the people of this community.

The external and internal improvements, the mellow lights, the soft strains of music which do not disrupt attention from what is being presented on the screen, but act as a subtle force contributing to the pleasure and delight of the patrons, all show that the manager has an innate artistic sense, and that he likewise appreciates the fact that the members of his audience have been endowed with the same capacities.

Attending the theatre is very much like reading a good book. At the end or conclusion, one should feel that he has gotten something, in the way of pleasure or food for after-thought, out of what has been presented. And, if he does not have this feeling at the conclusion the author of the book or the play, as the case may be, has utterly failed in his purpose.

As a people, we owe it to ourselves to enjoy the high-classed art of all the star actresses and actors in this country. If the "other fellow" denies us this privilege, there is nothing left to be done but to secure them for ourselves, or worse yet, to go without. We are often too easily satisfied. We often accept that which is not particularly pleasing to us without murmuring. This characteristic has been in keeping with the treatment we have been compelled to accept in other days. But, the time has now approached when we have a right to demand that which is best both in the field of labor and in pleasure.

Mr. Love caters to all. He has comedy and fun for the fun-lovers, that which makes the jolly more jolly, and which acts as a balm to the tired and care-worn mind, bringing at least a temporary respite from the burdens that have oppressed during the day. He has melodrama and tragedy for those who like to fathom the deeper emotions, analysing human nature under the most trying circumstances. There is music for those who perhaps, care more for this side of the programme. If, however, our patron be indifferent, then, there is a comfortable seat in a clean, spacious auditorium where he may sit unmolested, as he shares in the delight of those about him.

Whatever the idiosyncrasies of the many different patrons may chance to be, I am confident that as long as Mr. Love presents such pictures as "The Unchastened Woman," "Alimony," "A Daughter of the Gods," and Charlie Chaplin in "A Dog's Life," the theater lovers of this city will be found filling this large auditorium to capacity every evening.

We appreciate and thank Mr. Love for this great and worthy effort.
Signed,
Mrs. J. Robert Williams,
2418 Vine St.

The Negroes of Kansas City and the Western States are preparing to celebrate the three hundredth anniversary of the coming of their race to America, by giving here in Convention Hall an exposition of their accomplishments, on January 29, 1919.

A local committee has been appointed to take charge of the arrangements of which Rev. Wm. H. Thomas is chairman, and it will be assisted by persons from the various large cities of the West. A publicity committee composed of Nelson C. Crews, Thomas Kennedy and C. A. Franklin, and a committee on exhibits with Rev. F. Jesse Peck as chairman, will assist the executive committee. The celebration is fortunate in having here at hand several groups of trained workers who will take the lead in the preparation of the exhibits. Rev. Peck is the president of one such group, Western University, at Quindaro, Kan.

Women's work will play a prominent part in the exhibition. Both because of the new appreciation of the value of women in community life, and because Negro women have long contributed to industry, far more than other women, according to the U. S. census, this feature alone will justify the exhibition.

The celebration idea is born of a resolution adopted by the bench of bishops of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, and the one to be held here will be representative of all the states in the Fifth Episcopal District of that Church. They are all the trans-Missouri states and their presiding bishop is Rt. Rev. H. B. Parks.
