Several other buildings were slightly damaged and many costly plate glass fronts were broken by the heat.

Jefferson City Bridge Completed,

The last span of the steel bridge across the Missouri River at Jefferson City has been completed and the event was marked by the blowing of all the steam whistles on the river and bridge works. Only the approaches, which are well under way, remain to be com-pleted, and they will be pushed by arge forces of men on each side of the river, and the bridge will be open for traffic by the 1st of April, but the formal dedication will not take place until some weeks later. The Chicago and Alton Railway has a corps of sur veyors at work selecting a route for a spur track from its terminus at Cedar City to the north approach of the bridge, so that passengers by that line can be transferred in ten minutes. It sixty years. is very likely that the Missouri, Kansas and Texas will also put in a spur track to the bridge and become an active competitor for freight and pasnger traffic with the Missouri Pacific. The bridge complete will cost $250,000, and is owned exclusively by Jefferson City people.
