PULL IT UP BY THE ROOT.
"Father, here is a dock," said Thomas, as he was at work with his father in the garden; "shall I cut it off close to the root?"
No, replied his father, that will not do, I have cut it up myself many times, but it grows again stronger than ever, pull it up by the root, for nothing else will kill it.
Thomas pulled and pulled again at the dock, but the root was very deep in the ground, and he could not stir it from its place, so he asked his father to come and help him, and his father went and soon pulled it up.
This dock root, Thomas, said his father, which is an evil and a fast growing weed in a garden, gets me in mind of the evil things that grow so fast in the hearts of children. A bad passion, even when found out, is hard to be removed. It is of no use to trifle with it, there is no other way to overcome and destroy it but to pull it up by the spot.
You have often seen in our garden, Thomas that when the weeds are allowed to grow, they spoil all the plants and flowers that grow near them. So it is with evil passions in the heart of a child. If a little boy is ill-tempered, we must not expect to find in him good humor, cheerfulness, thankfulness, and a desire to make others happy. And a little girl, who is idle, we need not expect to be industrious, neat, or careful. As weeds injure flowers, so bad passions will injure good qualities. If a child is untruthful to his parents, and despises the commandments of God, we might as well look for a rose or a tulip in a bed of nettles as hope to find in his heart those graces and good desires that we love to see growing there. Now this is quite a sufficient reason why all bad passions should be pulled up by the root. Every bad habit, every evil passion, which troubles you, you should try with all your heart and mind to overcome; you should, if possible, tear it up. But you will find your own strength but weakness, and you must apply to that Almighty Friend, who alone is able to strengthen you and assist you. He can take from your heart the love of sin; and this is the only sure way of destroying it, as we have the dock, by pulling it up by the root.

THE CROSS.
Blest they who seek,
While in their youth,
With spirit meek,
The way of truth.
To them the sacred scriptures now display,
Christ as the only true and living way.
His precious blood on Calvary was given
To make them heirs of endless bliss in Heaven,
And 'on earth the child of God can trace
The glorious blessings of his saviours grace
For them he bore,
His father's frown;
For them he wore
The thorny crown;
Nailed to the cross,
Indured its pain,
That his life's loss
Might be their gain.
Then haste to choose
That better part,
Nor ever dare refuse
The Lord your heart,
Lest He declare
"I know you not,"
And ever despair
For ever be your lot.
Now look to Jesus who on Calvary died,
And trust on Him alone who thus was crucified.

At the time the British burned Portland in the revolution, an infant a few weeks old was removed from a house off Port street, and taken out of town for safety. The house burned down. During the late conflagration the same person now 90 years old, was removed from a house erected on the spot where had stood the one burned by the British. It was the venerable Miss Hannah Thorlo, daughter of Captain Peter Thorlo, who in her infancy and old age has had two such fire escapes.

There are two families living in a small market town in one of the midland counties, one of whom is named Yell, and the other Scroan. Their next door neighbor is a Mr. Ball, and a Mr. Noyes lives opposite. Nevertheless it is a very quiet neighborhood.

The editor of a country exchange says a correspondent writes, that if we desire it, he will send us something to fill up with. That is just what we want. Suppose that you commence now with a good roasting piece and a barrel of flour.

Some bibulous chaps at Rutland, Vermont, stole some pretty good whisky from a cask that nobody seemed to own, but found to their infinite horror and disgust, not long after, that the cask contained besides the whisky, the body of a negro preserved for dissection. All the aforesaid chaps are staunch temperance men now.

Meeting of the Governors—Is There Not Revolution Ahead?
From the New York Herald.
The secret convulse of the Radical Governors of the Northern States in Philadelphia, after the adjournment of the Convention on Tuesday last, is one of the most significant and alarming signs of the times. A portion of the proceedings leaked out, and the correspondent of the Herald gave the public the benefit of that on Wednesday last. But we have the strongest reasons for saying that the question then ventilated about dodging negro suffrage was not the only or most important one discussed by this convulse. It is understood that a revolutionary programme was entertained looking to future political contingencies—that is, to prepare arms and efficient armed State organizations for a conflict with the Conservatives, and possibly with the President, in the event of the Radicals being in danger of losing their power through the result of the fall elections. It is evident that these really dangerous leaders of a dangerous party are determined to hold on to their power at all hazards; for, as Governor Cony, of Maine, said, if they lose it now 'then all is lost.' They are doubtless prepared to impeach and remove the President and to place Ben Wade or some violent Jacobin in his place, and would resist the legitimate power of the Executive to the extent of calling out the militia of the States. The secret and threatening attitude of these Governors is the counterpart of the meeting of the Governors of the rebel States when they seceded and made war on the Union. In order that the people may know who these conspirators against the Union are, we give their names. They are as follows:
Governor Curtin, of Pennsylvania.
Ex-Gov. Buckingham, of Connecticut.
Gov. Cony, of Maine.
Gov. Yates, of Illinois.
Gov. Morton, of Indiana.
Gov. Marshall, of Minnesota.
Gov. Hawley, of Connecticut.
Gov. Smyth, of New Hampshire.
Lieut. Gov. Gross, of Illinois.
Gov. Fairchild, of Wisconsin.
Ex-Gov. Olden, of New Jersey.
Ex-Gov. Dutton, of Connecticut.
Ex-Gov. Newell, of New Jersey.
Gov. Crapo, of Michigan.
Gov. Gardner, of Vermont.
Ex-Gov. Andrew, of Massachusetts.
Ex-Gov. Clafin, of Massachusetts.
Ex-Lieut. Gov. Averill, of Connecticut.
Gov. Burnside, of Rhode Island.
Ex-Gov. Douglass, of Connecticut.
Eleven Governors of States, besides ex-Governors and Lieutenant Governors, composed this new secret Jacobin club. The violent declamations of the miserable firebrands, male and female, black and white, in the Convention and at public meetings in Philadelphia, might not be regarded as very serious; but it is far different with the secret meeting of a body of men who have the executive power of eleven Northern States in their hands. There is danger ahead, and it behooves the conservative masses of the North to look to it. As to the South, there is no danger there. The people of that section have experienced the horrors of civil war to such a degree, and are so thoroughly subdued that they will not try rebellion again. The danger is at home. We may have, before we are aware of it, a bloody civil war in every State, city, and county of the North. Incredible and easy going people may pooh-pooh such an idea, but it is nevertheless so. Did not the rebellion of the South commence in just this way? Do not all the rebellions, insurrections, and revolutions, begin in the same manner? Never was more violent language used than that now used by the Radicals; never were there greater efforts made to bring the Executive of the Republic into contempt; and never was there a more dangerous and wide spread revolutionary feeling worked up than at the present time. A flame like this, once lighted, spreads with increasing fury, and it is very difficult to arrest its progress. In all seriousness, therefore, we warn the people to watch these threatening events. We call upon them to arouse themselves before it is too late to avert the dangers that surround us. The power of the Radicals must be utterly destroyed, or we shall be plunged into revolution and anarchy.

The Louisville Journal says that the prospect of a tremendous corn crop has given an extraordinary impetus to the hog trade, and feeders all over the State are industriously engaged in buying up stock hogs for fall and winter feeding.

A Lebanonworth special says the Indians on the borders of Kansas are on the war path, robbing and murdering the settlers in the most atrocious manner. Troops have been sent to the scene of the troubles.

Won't you try. A Scotch old maid who was asked to subscribe to raise money for the King, during the last war, answered: "Indeed I'll do one such thing; I never could raise a man for myself, and I'm now going to raise me a King George."

Some bibulous chaps at Rutland, Vermont, stole some pretty good whisky from a cask that nobody seemed to own, but found to their infinite horror and disgust, not long after, that the cask contained besides the whisky, the body of a negro preserved for dissection. All the aforesaid chaps are staunch temperance men now.
