

IN STATE OF TERROR

Hebrews in Hourly Dread of Death.

NEW RIOTS AT PENTECOST

Whole Province Seems to be in a State of Fanatical Fury Against the Jews.

Berlin, May 22.—The singular state of mind of the townspeople of Kishineff, Bessarabia, while they were killing the Jews there is described in a letter from a non-Jewish German of Odessa, received by the relief committee here. He said:

"The leaders of the bands on entering Jewish dwellings often addressed the occupants good naturedly, saying: 'Poor brethren! We must kill you! It is so ordered.' 'Monstrous things were not done until robbers began to participate, and when they with the Christian zealots became intoxicated.'"

The state of terror of the Jews at Kishineff, the letter adds, continues. A fresh massacre is expected there, and the Jews of Odessa and of all the large towns of Bessarabia are living in hourly dread of death. The whole province seems to be in a state of fanatical fury against the Jews.

"It is the czar's will." The writer of the letter then says: "The excitement is intensified through proclamations distributed in the streets and the tone of the bitter anti-Semitic newspapers. The Russians say to their educated and tolerant countrymen who urge keeping the peace: 'It is the czar's will that the Jews be everywhere robbed. Orders have been given that we start again at Pentecost.'"

"The situation has become all the worse since the important Russian papers have been prevented by the censorship from freely expressing their opinions. Their behavior, almost without exception, has been excellent. Unless the St. Petersburg government develops a more energetic policy the events at Kishineff will undoubtedly be repeated in other towns. As indicating the complete disapproval of the best classes, respectable Russian lawyers are assisting the sufferers to obtain redress."

Can Trover to Recover be Maintained When Identity is Not Certain?

Burlington, May 22.—A suit in trover brought by Jacob Fine vs. George Robinson to recover $10 stolen from the plaintiff by a burglar on the night of April 20 was tried yesterday afternoon in city court.

The defendant did not put in any evidence but relied upon a point of law as to whether trover could be maintained for a sum of money when the plaintiff admits he could not identify the money and at the close of the testimony Attorney Vilas moved that the action be dismissed on the ground that trover could not be maintained upon such testimony. The court ruled that trover could be maintained.

The defendant took exceptions and it is expected the case will go to the supreme court.

MAGNIFICENT EXHIBITION

Reliance Outsailed the Columbia.

CLEARLY A BETTER BOAT

New Boat Had Some Luck Mixed in With Good Sailing, Beat Columbia 14 Minutes and 44 Seconds.

New York, May 21.—By a combination of good luck and splendid sailing qualities the new cup yacht Reliance today inflicted such a defeat upon the former cup defender, Columbia, as she had never before suffered, leading her over the finish line of a 25 mile course, off Glen Cove, by 14 minutes and 53 seconds, official time.

Not all the glory of that rosy victory was fairly earned by the new boat. If it had been, there would be no doubt that the Reliance would be the next cup defender. But, despite the Columbia's ill luck, the Reliance convincingly showed herself to be the better boat.

The race was an exasperating start and a flying finish. The course was triangular 11 miles to the eastward along the Long Island shore to Eaton's Point, three miles north northwest across the sound to Green's Ledge light and 11 miles southwest by west to the finish line off Glen Cove.

Fifteen minutes after crossing the line the Reliance began to draw slowly away from the Columbia and steadily increased her lead during two hours and a half. Her sails seemed to catch every breath of air. Both boats changed their head sails to stay sails and reaching jib topsails. They were merely drifting. After sailing about three miles the Reliance set a balloon jib topsail and thereafter gained more rapidly.

When half of this leg had been sailed and two hours after the start Reliance caught a light air and moved away quickly while Columbia still drifted and gradually dropped astern until Reliance was leading her by nearly three miles. The breeze freshened and the Reliance romped away for the first turn at an eight-knot clip, but Columbia did not feel the increased wind until after 15 minutes later. Then she began to gain, and in half an hour's sailing had out the Reliance's lead to a little more than a mile. The wind had headed them slightly and balloon jib topsails had given place to smaller ones. Designer Nat Herreshoff took the wheel on the Reliance as the boat approached the first turn.

Reliance took the turn going like a bird. Once filled away on the three mile run across the sound she caught a stiff puff from the southwest and put her rull down into the smoother, rolled out her polished bronze bilge and drove away for the turn.

Reliance was half way across to next turn before Columbia had circled about the first.

Columbia was dropping astern again, not having carried so good a wind on the short leg. Reliance covered the three miles in 13 minutes and 50 seconds; the Columbia in 15 minutes and 5 seconds, having lost one minute and 15 seconds in the three miles.

Shortly after the turn the tack of the Columbia's baby jib top sailed parted and the little sail went aloft in a bundle to the topmast head and hung flapping for three minutes. Reliance was sailing at a 10 knot clip within three and a half points of the wind. She fetched half a mile to the leeward of the finish line and after two short tacks swept across it and through a lane of welcoming steam yachts that greeted her and acknowledged her victory with ear splitting whistles.

Columbia was a good three miles to leeward but hanging on gamely. She also received a greeting from the assembled fleet.

Salvation Army Self Denial

The well known self-denial week of the Salvation Army will be observed by that body from May 24th to 30th. Unusual activity has taken possession of the Army's energetic members in anticipation of this great effort.

The Army's beneficent operations are maintained purely by the free-will offerings of the people. The need of its vast missionary labors among the heathen abroad and the down-fallen at home are chiefly met through the agency of self-denial. The Army is doing splendid work in its industrial homes, Rescue and Maternity Homes, Men's and Women's Shelters, established in different centers in this country, while the world over for the fallen and destitute.

The enthusiasm with which the Salvationists themselves enter into the S. D. week is remarkable and it would probably be hard to find a wearer of the uniform who has not in addition to pecuniary sacrifice denied himself of some luxury or partial necessity of food or clothing by way of discipline.

The S. D. fund is considerably augmented by assistance from outside friends far and near and this worthy effort should not be forgotten by those who are in a position to assist. We wish the army every success.

New Magazines.

Country Life in America with its sumptuous illustrations and wealth of practical information covers an astonishing range of subjects in its June number. "A Pleasant Hunting Vacation," shows some wonderful orchids and rare wild flowers which have never been so beautifully pictured before. "First Principles of Poultry Raising" has some wise caution and good common sense that beginners should heed. "Discovering a Country Home" is a breezy story by a man and wife who abandoned a city flat, tried a rented house in the suburbs and found happiness in the real country.

The June World's Work is the annual "World at Play," number with many vigorous and practical articles on timely vacation topics and with perhaps the most remarkable illustrations the magazine has ever published. Outside of the recreation ideas are such important and interesting articles as Mr. Carnegie's "The Secret of Business," Guy Morrison Walker's thoughtful "Railroad Mileage and Wealth" and a resume of the report of the Moseley Commission of English workmen who visited America in the winter showing the difference between English and American working conditions.

TROUBLES MULTIPLIED

Lane Arrested After Being Hit by Train.

GOES TO JAIL FOR 10 DAYS

Man Struck by Train Yesterday Had No Bones Broken But Was Considerably Cut Up.

After being struck by a train yesterday afternoon, and having his face driven into the ground by the force of the impact, the climax of Thomas Lane's misfortune was reached when he was placed under arrest for intoxication by Chief Brown. After working over the man for some time Dr. W. D. Reid decided to defer further examination until later, and the man was taken to the police station.

Last evening Dr. Reid again examined him and found that there were no bones broken in the collision with the train but that the man had received a bad cut over the left eye as the result of being hurled through space into a pile of rocks. Two stitches were taken in the cut, and it was decided that the man's side where the car steps hit him was not injured beyond a few black and blue spots.

This morning Lane was taken before Judge Fay. He pleaded guilty to a charge of intoxication and will spend ten days in jail, on top of his experience with the train.
