Published Every Weekday Afternoon.
 Entered at the postoffice at Barre as second class matter.

THURSDAY, JULY 9, 1903.

The average daily circulation of the Barre Daily Times for the week ending Saturday was copies, the largest paid circulation of any daily paper in this section.

2,652

A Thousand A Day

more copies of the Times are printed and sold than of any competitor in Barre.

The Daily Times

is the only daily in Washington County that publishes its circulation so that all readers and advertisers may know what it is.

Do you have an advertisement in it?

There are those who say that the new 60-footer which was built to defend the America's cup was well named the Reliance, and there are few to dispute the assertion thus far, in the light of the boat's performances.

The Rutland News gives some timely advice by warning fond parents to teach a little real patriotism to their precocious offspring before the latter are too dead to be benefited thereby. Any time before the Fourth will do, but the sooner the better.

Those towns which are announcing that their Fourth of July celebrations are likely to be "quiet" are reckoning without consideration of the small boy. If he has his way there will not be a "quiet" celebration anywhere, and we are inclined to think he will have his way.

By an inadvertence, in yesterday's editorial column the Times had Grover Cleveland "resting comfortably in the shade of Oyster Bay," instead of basking blantly in the dir of obliquity at Princeton, N. J. President Roosevelt should have been placed at Oyster Bay instead, and we hasten to extend apologies to—either one.

The decision to place the telephone wires which are strung along the main streets of this city underground is a commendable move which, when consummated, will make a decided improvement on the business thoroughfare of the city. It is along progressive lines adopted in other cities, and most certainly Barre needs the innovation if any city does. Now is the proper time to do the work, as has been decided, as it will do away with the necessity of digging up the granite pavement which is to be laid this summer between Prospect and Seminary streets.

Recently many of the New England colleges have come to a realizing sense that they need endowments and that they must have the endowments to keep up the work of their institutions. The most recent college to announce that it will attempt to raise $1,000,000 is Wesleyan University, the announcement closely following that made by the University of Vermont alumni last week. Those who are at all interested in the advancement of education will wish success to all these projects, but to Vermonters, in the state and out of the state, the call of the University of Vermont appeals particularly. Here is an institution ideally located at Burlington, quite well equipped so far as buildings are concerned, with an able corps of instructors and with the enrollment of students constantly increasing. But just at present there is an urgent demand for funds to meet the requirements that are pressing for recognition. The institution is one in which we may all take a large measure of pride as it ranks with the best of the small colleges in New England. And all friends of Vermont, of the youth of the state and of education in general should rally to its support in this attempt to raise a million dollar endowment by the centennial celebration of the college next June.

Presidential Pardons.
 The president of the United States cannot pardon a person convicted under the laws of any particular state. His pardoning power refers only to crimes against the federal laws.

Candy and Water.
 As candy eaters and water drinkers Americans rank first.

Perfumes.
 Perfumes, according to a Frenchman of science, have a great antiseptic value, but otherwise they act like alcohol, producing an excitement which is followed by a reaction.

"Twas July 26, 1776, that the Declaration of Independence was adopted by the Continental Congress, but it was not made public till July 4."

Our Declaration of Independence in this business means we are under no obligations to buy from any one manufacturer. We buy where we can get the best goods on the best terms; and that means we can give you advantages that you cannot get from any store that is "under the influence" of a wholesale manufacturer.

ABOUT THE STATE.

Items of Interest Gleaned From Our Exchanges.

The annual meeting of the Morgan Horse Breeders' Association is being held at the Broad Loaf Inn, in Rippon today.

A cable from Porto Rico says the condition of Paymaster G. P. Auld has taken a turn for the worse, blood poisoning having developed.

Twenty horses were sold at auction at Shelburne Farms, the home of Dr. W. Seward Webb, Tuesday. The sale attracted several hundred bidders and animals brought high prices.

The grand list of St. Johnsbury for 1903 shows a gain of $118,111 over last year, and a gain in polls of 15, with at least 100 soldiers exempt. The grand list for 1902 was $42,670.03 and for 1903 was $42,788.74.

On account of the scarcity of hay, the farmers of Swanton and vicinity are mowing portions of their meadows to feed their stock, and will plow and sow for late crops. The windrows as the rake leaves them, resembles the usual "scatterings" in an ordinary season.

Myron Barton, one of the best known men in Bennington county, died at his home in Shaftsbury yesterday morning. He was 82 years old. He was born in that town, and always lived there. He and his father before him held the office of town clerk for over 80 consecutive years. He represented his town twice in the legislature, was county sheriff two terms and had filled nearly every town office.

The body of William Dixon, who was drowned Saturday afternoon at Franklin, has not been recovered, although the pond has been thoroughly dragged each day since. Circumstances in the case have prompted the authorities to hold an inquest on the body of Edward Conklin, who was drowned at the same time and Justice of the Peace A. D. Horskins has issued warrants for the same.

Fred Worrell, who is about 20 years old and a resident of Bartonville, fell about 60 feet here Tuesday from the belfry of St. Luke's church while at work painting. He was on a staging at the time, and in trying to move himself to one side the board slipped off, letting him down. When about 20 feet below the staging his foot caught in a rope, which broke the power of his fall somewhat, otherwise it would undoubtedly have killed him outright. He struck the ground on his right side on a grassy plot. Young Worrell was taken to the Fullerton house, where Drs. Ray, Havens and Stevenson made an examination; they found no bones broken, but are afraid of serious internal injuries.

A serious and probably fatal accident occurred on Saturday morning on the barn now being built by Lawrence Farrington in Cabot. H. L. Sortwell, one of the carpenters, built a staging about 15 or 20 feet from the ground and while at work on it found himself out of nails. He put one nail in the end of a board intending to nail it more firmly later. This he neglected to do, and a few hours after the staging gave way with Mr. Sortwell's weight and he fell to the ground, breaking his back. He is totally paralyzed below the point of injury but is in no pain. The doctors think he cannot live. His family, a wife and three children are with him, also one brother.

A skull with an alleged bullet hole in it and almost all the other parts of a human skeleton was unearthed by an employee of the Gas company on North street, Burlington, Monday afternoon. The skeleton was dug up about four feet underground. The thigh bone, arm and leg bones, skull and several ribs were in a well preserved condition. The skeleton was that of an undersized man, possibly an Indian, as the forehead was very low and receding, and apparently had been buried many years. The soil where the gruesome discovery was made is sandy and from time to time during the past few years, various parts of human skeletons have been dug up.

The Marine Lamprey.
 The marine lamprey's adhesive power is such that twelve pounds may be raised without forcing it to loose its hold. It is so tenacious of life that its head remains for hours attached to a stone when its body is severed.

JINGLES AND JESTS.

What She Thought.
 John—with his arm around her:
 "The rose is red,
 The violet's blue,
 Sugar is sweet,
 And so are you."

She—struggling.
 "Now, don't! Let go!
 Upon my soul,
 You want to break
 The sugar bowl!" —Comfort.

Comparing Notes.
 "So Mr. Smilax told you his heart was broken when you refused him," said Maud.
 "Yes," answered Mamie.
 "The impudence of him to offer me damaged goods the next day!"—Washington Star.

Through the Pines.
 Friend—What's happened to the human jollyfish?
 Manager—He took a bath today and accidentally turned on the waste cock. They've taken out the pipes, but they can't find him.—Toledo Blade.

Done in Colors.

"I was surprised to see so much paint on your face last night. I never saw anything like it in my life."
 "Well, if you can't afford to buy a mirror I'll lend you one."

A Minute Volume.
 A complete translation of Dante's "Divine Comedy" was exhibited at the Paris exhibition of 1882, the volume being so tiny that it measured less than half an inch square. It comprised 14,328 verses and was contained in 500 pages.

England's Biggest Hedges.
 The biggest hedges in England are at Hall Barn, in Buckinghamshire. They are of yew, thirty feet high.

The New Proposal.
 [The Thomas S. Clarkson School of Technology confers a degree of "bachelor of science in domestic engineering" upon young women who complete the course in household sciences.]

Priscilla, when I gaze upon
 The azure of your eyes,
 I see the glory of the dawn
 And peace of twilight skies.
 Please note my blushing and my sigh,
 And, oh, Priscilla, dear,
 But say the word that you'll be my
 Domestic engineer.

What joy! Your knowledge so exact
 Would ever charm my soul;
 You know just how best to extract
 Heat units from the coal.
 No grim bacilli could get by
 If you were watching near.
 Priscilla, oh, say you'll be my
 Domestic engineer?

A life with you—it could be but
 A fate serene, divine,
 For even pain must all be cut
 On geometric lines!
 No janitor could me defy;
 His voice I should not fear.
 Priscilla, please, will you be my
 Domestic engineer?
