Novel Summer Coat For Men.

This summer has witnessed many varieties of thin summer coats of wash silk, brought out for the comfort of man and intended strictly for use and not for ornament, but nothing has yet been offered in the way of a coat quite as gay as the new kimono smoking and office jackets of gauze trimmed in plain bands or fancy borders to suit the taste of the wearer.

ALMOST HOME AGAIN.

Dr. H. Nelson Jackson Completing Phenomenal Automobile Run.

Dr. H. Nelson Jackson of Burlington, who has the honor of being the first person to cross the country from San Francisco to New York in an automobile, will leave New York Thursday for the last lap of his journey, to his home in Burlington.

Dr. Jackson is a nephew of Mayor J. Henry Jackson of Barre, with whom he has frequently visited, and a son of Rev. S. N. Jackson, formerly Congregational pastor here.

Dr. Jackson said: "We left San Francisco May 23 and first ran through California to the Sierra mountains. From the range we proceeded to the north central part of Oregon, going practically 1,800 miles north. We then went southeast, almost directly, striking the railroad at Ontario, when we followed the State line to Postello.

"We then ran to Granger, where we struck our first rain, and we have been in it ever since. We ran to eastern Omaha and thence east to Chicago. From Chicago we ran to Buffalo, and over what is the new State road through New York.

"We have traveled 6,000 miles, during the latter part of which we have been hindered a great deal by the excessive rains. During the time we have been on the road we have been idle about 19 days. Part of that time it was for pleasure that we stopped, and again to allow our express to catch up with us."

Through the entire trip Dr. Jackson was accompanied by a bull pup, "Bud." The dog has a pair of goggles to protect its eyes from the dust.

"While we were in Oregon desert we lost all our provisions. It was 36 hours before we came to a place where we could obtain food. Fortunately we were able to carry a supply of drinking water with us, but at times this became exhausted. The first meal after we lost our provisions was secured at the camp of a sheep herder. No banquet ever gave me half the enjoyment. The man had seen me one for 10 days and would take no pay. I gave him my rifle."

Montpelier, July 27.—The trial last September in Washington County Court of the case of State against Alex Glinney for embezzlement has been brought to mind by the discharge of Mr. Glinney from the employ of C. P. Gill and company, granite cutters. Mr. Glinney was found not guilty, as he was a partner in the granite cutters' union and could not embezzle his own money.

A REAL PASTOR.

The Rev. Lynn P. Armstrong Finds Practical Way to Do Good.

Bennington, July 27.—The Rev. Lynn P. Armstrong, a young clergyman of Brooklyn, is spending his vacation in a novel way. He has brought with him fifteen poor women, members of his church, many of them with children to enjoy a three weeks outing among the hills of Vermont.

The party is quartered in a large tent, pitched on the farm of his father, in the west part of the town. They are supplied with fresh milk, butter, etc., from the farm and are as happy and contented as could be. There is a cook with the party, and a manager, while Mr. Armstrong is continually looking out for their welfare. To most of the mothers it is a long time since they were in the country before, while to the children the surroundings are a great revelation.

RELIANCE IS CHOSEN

Will Defend America's Cup.

NO MORE TRIAL RACES

New Boat Has Led in Every Contests and Lost But Few on Time Allowance.

Newport, R. I., July 17.—After today's race between the Reliance, Constitution and Columbia, in which the former boat again demonstrated her superiority over the other two, the challenge committee of the New York club selected the Reliance as the defender of America's cup.

It was also decided to discontinue further trial races as unnecessary. Commodore Bourne and Messrs. Forbes, Cormack and Robinson of the cup committee and C. Oliver Iselin, managing owner of the Reliance; E. D. Morgan of the Columbia, and August Belmont of the Constitution were at the meeting.

Morgan and Belmont were perfectly satisfied with the choice of the committee as both are of the opinion that the Reliance is the fastest of the trio.

In every race the Reliance has crossed the finish line ahead, and has lost but few events on time allowance. It is probable that the defender will proceed to Bristol for a thorough overhauling and then go to New Rochelle. What will be done with the Constitution and Columbia could not be learned.

The three yachts sailed over a leeward and windward course today in a puff 15 knot westerly.

The Reliance was first across the line, with Constitution next and Columbia last.

Constitution pulled rapidly by Reliance and Columbia was on even terms with the new boat, when Capt. Barr, by a shift of canvas, got a favorable slant of wind and a mile from the turn passed the Constitution and left Columbia astern.

After rounding the outer head the Reliance pulled steadily away while Columbia gained on the Constitution.

Communication with Jackson was cut off, several poles being blown down. This afternoon the temperature rose rapidly.

HENRY WOOD.

By His Books and Magazine Articles Has Come to Be Considered Leader.

The Cambridge, Mass., Press, the paper conducted entirely by women, has an appreciative article on Henry Wood, a native of Barre and the owner of the Wood block and other real estate in this city. Among other things the article says: "In the Dunvegan there lives a retiring, modest man, Henry Wood; a man who has gained almost absolute mastery of himself, both physically and mentally; a man by the force and virility of his writings has come to be recognized as one of the leading authors who are making articulate one of the grandest movements of the century, the so-called New Thought."

"At first after he graduated from the academy of his native town, Barre, Vt., a business career called him and he came to Boston to study in a commercial college from there going West and building up a successful business in Cedar Rapids and later in Chicago. Had he not, unfortunately, been forced to abandon his work because of ill health he doubtless would never have become a phraser of metaphysical thought. He tried all kinds of medicines and nearly all sorts of physicians, spent a year in Europe in a futile search for health and strength, and it was then that he was persuaded to put himself into appreciation of the New Thought. The results were so remarkable that he decided to devote his life to the study and expressions of its messages."

"His books treating of this New Thought are 'Ideal Suggestions Through Mental Photography,' 'The Political Economy of Humanism,' 'God's Image in Man,' 'Studies in the Thought World,' 'Victor Serenus,' a novel, and his newest book, 'The Symphony of Life.'"

REQUIEM MASS FOR LEO XIII

Celebrated at St. Monica's Church.

A LARGE CONGREGATION

Eulogy Delivered by Fr. P. M. McKenna--Visiting Pastors Assisted in Services.

St. Monica's church of this city this morning participated in the observance of the general mourning over the death of Pope Leo XIII, by means of the solemn services of requiem, and a large crowd of people filled the church edifice. Four organizations attended in a body, the Ladies' Altar society, the Ladies' Aid, St. John's Court, C. O. F., and Barre Council, Knights of Columbus. The seats were designated by the various colors of the organizations, the Ladies' Aid by purple and white, the Knights by purple alone and the Foresters by black and white.

The decorations of the church, both interior and exterior, were in black and white. The interior decorations were completed this morning. The altar was decorated in black with just a little touch of white. The large pillars were also wound with black. The windows were covered also with black, giving the church a sombre appearance. Fr. Leonard of Waterbury was celebrant. Fr. O'Neill of Northfield was deacon and Fr. McKenna sub-deacon. Fr. Hickey directed the choir. Miss Annie G. Sullivan was organist.

The eulogy of Pope Leo was given by the pastor, Fr. McKenna, who had enjoyed the privilege of conversation with the late pontiff, so that he was well fitted to speak of him. Fr. McKenna said in brief, "Today we are called upon to endure the greatest loss that can come upon us in this world. Leo XIII, the great and good pontiff, has passed away. The church is now without a visible head, without a helmsman, but it is not alone the church which mourns. The whole world mourns, too. It is not like a national loss as when President McKinley fell at the hand of the vile assassin and when the queen of England died. Nor is it the same as when Israel mourned 30 days for Moses."

"The death of Leo has cast a shadow not only over one nation but over the whole world. Moses was the law-giver and the guide. Leo was the guide, the father and the teacher, not alone of one race or nation. Great are the powers of the successors of St. Peter, the representative of God, of Jesus Christ, living, teaching and working among men with God's authority and power."

Every bishop and every priest acts under the jurisdiction of the supreme pontiff, or his acts are either null or sinful. The office and the power have passed down to many popes for 1900 years, and many of the names are memorable in the world's history, some of the greatest men the world has ever seen or ever will see. If you will, there may have been greater popes than Leo XIII, but never has one left the papacy more universally beloved than Pope Leo XIII."

When Leo succeeded to the position the church was in great trouble. It was persecuted. But Leo, true to his name, did not despair, knowing the church of God had weathered many a storm. He had faith in God's promises, and he patiently awaited God's time. Though nominally a prisoner in the Vatican, without an army or navy, and without the shedding of one drop of blood, this man overshadowed the temporal government. He forced the whole world to realize that the papacy is the most powerful on earth. Pope Leo entered with vigor into the spirit of the world, for the church and for humanity."

He taught wherein was error and truth, ruin and salvation. He loved the poor with his whole heart and yearned to better their condition. He denounced divorce, the cruelty of the great corporations, anarchy and socialism. He was idolized by the world chiefly on account of his personality, his tenderness of heart, his fatherly affection and his gentleness."

Fr. McKenna then went on to tell of his audience in private with Leo, and how he counted it among the greatest pleasures of his life. He told how cordially he was received by Leo, and was given his blessing.
