FAMOUS WOMAN SCOUT.

How "Calamity Jane" Got Her Name, One of Her Daring Feats.

The late noted female character "Calamity Jane," who had been known on the western frontier since 1870, was christened Calamity Jane in 1872 by Captain Egan, then commander of the army post at Goose Creek, S. D., whose life she had saved, says the New York World. Captain Egan was shot from his horse by an Indian. The woman scout killed the Indian and, picking up the wounded officer, she placed him across her saddle and rode off to the fort under the fire of other Indians. When Captain Egan, who was unconscious at the time, learned the circumstances of his rescue, he said to his preserver:

"You are a good person to have around in time of calamity, and I christen you Calamity Jane, the heroine of the plains."

Buffalo Bill (Colonel Cody) tells the following story of Calamity Jane:

"In 1876 Jane, by a daring feat, saved the lives of six passengers on a stagecoach traveling from Deadwood, S. D., to Wild Birch, in the Black Hills country.

"The stage was surrounded by Indians, and the driver, Jack McChaul, was wounded by an arrow. Although the other six passengers were men, not one of them had nerve enough to take the ribbons. Seeing the situation, Jane mounted the driver's seat without a moment's hesitation and brought the stage safely and in good time to Wild Birch.

"Jack McChaul afterward recovered, and some time later, while in Deadwood, he assassinated Wild Bill, one of Calamity Jane's best friends. The murder was a cold blooded one, and it was the general opinion that lynching was only too mild for him. Calamity Jane was in the lead of the lynching party, and it was she that captured the desperado. She had left her rifle at home, but with a butcher's cleaver she held him up, and a very few minutes later McChaul's body was swinging from the limb of a cottonwood tree and his soul had passed over the great divide."

A New Plan For Huckleberry Pickers

William Gilbert, near New Paris, Ind., is running his twenty-five acre huckleberry marsh on a novel plan, says the Indianapolis News. Instead of giving the pickers a share of the berries Mr. Gilbert has invited the public to pay 25 cents admission to the marsh and pick as many berries as they can during their stay. At the opening of the marsh there were forty-six teams and 125 people awaiting entrance. People are flocking thither from all directions and are taking away immense quantities of berries, which are fine and plentiful.

Our First Steel Maker.

The first steel manufacturer in the United States was Cornelius Atherton, born in Cambridge, Mass., in 1736, he went into the iron business early and made his first successful experiments in the manufacture of steel in 1769. He died at South Rainbridge, N. Y. (now Afton), in 1808.
