"Times, of Course"

That's what all the newsboys say when asked which Barre paper sells the best. There is no doubt about it.

It is scarcely safe for a man to travel around among the hills near Northfield these days. Every man has the "same build" and "acts like" this Martin the police are seeking. The next searcher may level something worse than a spy-glass. Besides it isn't pleasant being mistaken for that wretched individual.

Some of the residents of Lynchburg, Tenn., lived up to the name of their town last week when they lynched a negro accused of assaulting a white woman. It is interesting to note, however, that the grand jury brought in an indictment for murder against 27 of the lynchers and that 14 of them have been arrested. The name of the town may be changed.

The head bailiff of the village of Bellows Falls was walking along on a Bellows Falls sidewalk the other day expatiating to a friend on the great improvement made on the village sidewalks when he stepped on a loose board. After the smoke had cleared away there remained a man, a decidedly ruffled temper and a pair of trousers that looked as if they had seen rough usage. Verily, "pride goeth before destruction," etc.

The Boston Transcript has the following to say of the advantages of "village improvement," and they are strong: "Village improvement is a movement that must elicit hearty interest from all thinking citizens. It furnishes a focus for the town's desire to be cleaner, healthier, more beautiful and more sociable. It can to some measure, by developing those features of a village that give it its advantageous characteristics, check the exodus of population to the already congested cities. As no other organization or group of townspeople can, it brings the various classes and interests of the village community together to work for a common aim, and associate in a common social spirit."

There are some severe penalties for the licensee who violates the provisions of his license, as is well shown by this action of the license commissioners of Brattleboro. The licenses in this case were revoked when they had run only six months, and what is a severe penalty still no one of the persons nor any member of their households may receive another license in any town of the state. Furthermore the law provides that fines may be collected of violators of their licenses. There is, however, an opportunity for the licensee. He may appeal to the county court. But the license shall remain void pending the appeal. Such a course is unlikely in this Brattleboro case as the violations were proven beyond peradventure.

If there is professionalism in the Goddard seminary foot ball team it should be incumbent on any team bringing that allegation to make specific charges so that the truth or falsity of the charges may be determined. Such an allegation has been made by the high school manager at Burlington but there is no definite or specific statement back of it. What the professionalism consists of the local school is un-informed. In the field of athletics such a charge is a serious one, and the school making it should be backed up by reliable information regarding it. Furthermore when a specific accusation is made it is equally as incumbent on the school so charged to explain its position in the matter, either to deny or admit the charge. The good of amateur sport in the state is concerned, and it is hoped that in the interests of that the matter may be cleared up.

Rhode Island Democratic Ticket.
 Providence, R. I., Oct. 2.—Two hundred and twenty delegates, representing the Democracy of Rhode Island, have met here in annual convention to nominate a state ticket. Before the convention it was generally conceded that the following would be nominated, as there were no contests: For governor, L. F. C. Garvin of Cumberland; for lieutenant governor, Adelaar Archambault, Woonsocket; for secretary of state, J. J. Gilmartin; for attorney general, C. A. Aldrich, Providence; for general treasurer, Clark Potter, North Kingstown.

How many men know what should go into the inside making of a good coat—our kind?
 First—there is the hand padded lapel.
 Then the lapel stay.
 And the button and button-hole stay.
 The hair cloth.
 The left.
 The shoulder pad.
 Coats and watches depend for value on the inside works!

With this addition Mr. Lincoln now has one of the finest estates in New England.

Mrs. Louise Loveland, who was 94 years old Sept. 8, is visiting Dr. J. M. Huse, her son, the health officer in Berlin. Mrs. Loveland is widow of a Mexican war veteran and resides in Woodstock. She did not mind the journey to Montpelier and rode to Berlin with the rural mail carrier. She can read without glasses and is as spry as a woman of 50. She has a pension as widow of a Mexican War veteran, her husband having been in the service with Franklin Pierce, afterward president.

George T. Childs of St. Albans has received a bronze medal which is one of an issue authorized by the Massachusetts legislature of 1902 to be distributed among those soldiers who answered President Lincoln's first call for volunteers April 15, 1861. Mr. Childs enlisted on that date as a private in Co. K, Mass. Inf. The medal which is a pendant from a bronze bar inscribed "Massachusetts Minute Men, 1861," bears the coat of arms of the state of Massachusetts on the obverse side.

An Autumn Note.
 Blithe autumn paints in tones of fairy gold
 And shining scarlet all the hazy hills,
 And, while the poet gazes wistfully
 Admiring the leagues of silence and obscure
 The outlaw crow that circles o'er the wood,
 His soul is lighted by a rosy flame
 That leaps and dances round the bars of steel
 On which, to make him caracole with joy,
 He and stings the mannaed pig-twig.
 —R. K. Munkittrick in New York Times.
