YOUNG MAN A SUICIDE

John E. Duke of Montpelier Ends Life.

DESPONDENCY THE CAUSE

Body Was Found Suspended From a Hook in His Father's Barn Saturday Afternoon.

Montpelier, Oct. 26.—John E. Duke, a young man 21 years of age, died by his own hand Saturday afternoon. His body being found suspended from a hook in his father's barn on Franklin street. A brother, Carroll, made the discovery at 4.30 o'clock. No cause is known for the young man's act unless it may have been despondency over ill health.

The young man was elevator operator at the National Life Insurance company's building. He was at his post Saturday afternoon as usual. He had Saturday forenoon off and the time until he committed the deed was spent at home. The boy's father, Levi Duke, had just started on a hunting trip to North Hartland, his mother was in Barre shopping and no one was at home with him except a ten-year-old brother named Charles.

At about four o'clock the young man started up and said to his young brother "Now that I am alone I guess it is time to shoot myself." The little fellow became frightened and started for another brother, Carroll, who is employed as a clerk. But instead of shooting himself John went to the barn and arranged the means whereby he might hang himself. Here the two brothers found himself with a hitch-rope around his neck suspended from a harness hook. Both feet touched the floor and one arm was extended above the head, the hand grasping the rope.

Three little children stood in the open door watching the young man, and as the two brothers rushed in, one of the children said, "See, Johnnie's playing with the rope." Carroll cut down his brother's body and while the youngest boy was dispatched for a physician, Carroll and a neighbor, Daniel P. Kerin, endeavored to revive the young man by throwing water in his face, etc. After some delay Dr. H. E. Templeton arrived and soon after him Dr. C. E. Chandler. It was too late, however, as the young man was dead. One of the men present declared that the unfortunate man was alive when cut down as he detected a slight movement of the heart.

The reason for the deed was despondency over a sickness, he having been afflicted with curvature of the spine. Two years ago the young man was in the hospital for treatment, and was for a time compelled to wear a plaster cast. He was 21 years of age last June. Previous to four years service as elevator boy in the National Life building he was employed in F. M. Corry's market. He had a large number of friends in Montpelier and was a young man of a jovial disposition.

He leaves a father, mother, two brothers and one sister, Charlotte. After the body was found an attempt was made to get a message to his father who had gone into the woods for deer, and it was not until today that he received word of his son's act.

SUIT AGAINST C. H. BIGELOW

Alleged Deficiency in Accounts is $4,132.52.

BROOKFIELD TREASURER

Town Brings Action For Him to Appear in Court in December—Matter Taken Into Special Town Meeting.

Brookfield, Oct. 25.—The town of Brookfield through its selectmen has brought a bill against its town treasurer, Charles H. Bigelow, for an accounting in equity of alleged deficiencies of $4,132.52 in his accounts, covering a period of ten years, and all the bondsmen of the treasurer for that period have been enjoined. Judge Watson has also issued an injunction against Mr. Bigelow's destroying any books or documents relating to the transaction of his business as treasurer of the town. The papers were served Saturday and Mr. Bigelow is summoned to appear before the court of chancery to be held at Chelsea the first Tuesday in December. The papers were served by Officer W. H. Sprague.

It is related that those representing the town officials that just before the March town meeting this year a discrepancy of $204.17 was discovered in Mr. Bigelow's accounts. At first he claimed they were correct and that they had always been kept that way, but later admitted he was in error and made good the $204.17 to the town.

The selectmen soon after began to look further into Treasurer Bigelow's accounts and when they asked for selectmen's stubs and treasurer's books for the past years they could not be found. Mr. Bigelow stating that they must have been accidentally burned with other old papers he had destroyed in cleaning up. This caused the selectmen to more vigorously prosecute their search into the old accounts and James W. Hall of Barre was employed to go over the books with the result that he reported a discrepancy of $4,132.52 in the treasurer's accounts.

So great has become the public interest in the affair, a special town meeting was called for this forenoon, the warning containing articles to see if the town would like to arbitrate its differences with town treasurer C. H. Bigelow and to see if it would instruct its selectmen to bring suit or not against the treasurer.

The town meeting adjourned this forenoon without having taken any action other than to dismiss the articles of the warning. Soon after the meeting was called to order an attempt to adjourn was made but it failed.

The first article to see if the town "will appoint a committee to investigate the claims that exist, or may have, to date, against C. H. Bigelow as treasurer of said town of Brookfield, from March, 1889, to the present time, and make report thereof to the town at some future meeting" was dismissed.

Then article number 2, "to see if the town will vote to direct the selectmen of said town to arbitrate or endeavor to arbitrate on matter of difference now existing between said town and the said treasurer" was also dismissed. Following this an attempt was made to dismiss all seven articles but this failed.

Mr. Bigelow was called upon. He responded but said that as long as the town had already sued he didn't think it was proper for him to explain now. Mr. Bigelow's daughter in-law died this morning and for that reason, too, he was not pressed for any further statement. The selectmen, J. A. Untiedt, A. E. Churchhill and A. D. Reed, explained the town's side of the case and then the whole list of articles was dismissed, and the meeting adjourned.

The articles dismissed were as to the appointment of arbitrators, to see if the town will settle and on what terms, to see what action the town will take regarding such claims the town may have against its treasurer, to see if the town will bring suit. This last article was dismissed as the town has already sued. The action of the town meeting was taken to be backing up the selectmen.

WHAT ANIMAL IS THIS?

Strange Beast Scaring People Near West Street in This City.

A wild animal of some sort, about the size of a dog, is making its headquarters in the center of the city off North Main street. At any rate, John Connick, the lurch cart man, and Policeman Frank Hamel are ready to take oath as to his existence. Both declare the animal is not a cat nor is it a dog. However, the residents near the corner of North Main and West streets need have no particular fear for their safety.

Mr. Connick had the closest acquaintance with the animal. Last Thursday morning after 2 o'clock, as he was going home from business and had almost reached his door on West street, he was startled by a hissing sound which was so sudden and fierce that he dropped two pails and some plates which he was carrying. The racket scared the animal, whatever it was, and it jumped away with long leaps. Mr. Connick recovered from his scare soon enough to get a glimpse of the animal which he says was about the size of a dog. And to add to his proof he says the animal made so much noise that he could hear him as he leaped along.

The next day he told his experience to the policemen but received a laugh and a declaration that it was only a cat. However, he told the policemen that they might have a similar experience, and sure enough, the following night as Policeman Hamel was coming up Main street, near West, he was startled by a fierce hissing not a great way from him. He could not see the animal but he declares that the hissing was too strong for a cat.

This is not the first time that the strange beast has been seen as it is reported that two young men saw what was probably the same animal on Merchant street a short time before. They reported the unusual actions of the animal but they were unable to make out what it was.
