NEW INDUSTRIES WANTED.

One Rutland firm has been compelled to call in its travelling salesmen on account of the rush of business it has on hand. The firm has sold all the wares it can manufacture between now and the middle of the summer.

FALL OF PORT ARTHUR INEVITABLE.

With the landing of the Japanese troops on the Liao-Tung peninsula, on both the east and west coasts, the event for which the Japanese have been striving—the fall of Port Arthur—seems to be on the point of being realized.

Cannon expects to fire his shot for the presidential nomination in 1908; therefore he doesn't fancy being sidetracked now by being nominated for vice-president.

The Brattleboro Phoenix says, "Let's nominate DeBoer."

His Plea.

Harold—Please, mister, won't you play something classical? My little sister over there is a musical prodigy, and those ragtime melodies grate harshly on her refined ear.—New York Evening Journal.

ABOUT THE STATE.

Items of Interest Gleaned From Our Exchanges.

The state board of railroad commissioners was in St. Johnsbury May 4 investigating the accident in which Fred Foy was killed, supposedly by being struck by a night train.

Dr. J. M. Allen of St. Johnsbury, who was seriously injured in the automobile accident last September, has gone to St. Margaret's hospital, Boston, to have his left leg examined and treated by a specialist.

A call has been issued for a meeting and banquet of the alumni of Norwich University, Northfield, in Vermont, to be held at the Pavilion hotel in Montpelier, May 20, when it is proposed to form a permanent organization and to give the endorsement of the alumni to the plan to erect an alumni hall.

The Bellows Falls Times, in the current issue, says: "In the event George M. Powers of Morrisville, is appointed by Governor McCullough a justice of the supreme court to succeed Judge W. P. Stafford, resigned, the position of supreme court reporter will be vacated. If the vacancy happens, Charles H. Williams of this place, will receive the endorsement of the Windham county bar as a man amply qualified to perform the duties of the office."

JINGLES AND JESTS.

The War of Crests. I wish that they'd make peace, Manipulating and all the way. The thought of them in my dream, And makes me feel that I'm oppressed.

And yet it's only fair to state It never gives my vote again. For those who dare to legislate Against the trust I have in June, —Arthur Crawford in Hopkinton Life.

Disparagement.

"Mrs. Higgins says she never gossips." "No," answered Miss Cayenne. "She hasn't enterprise enough to get any news of her own. She is merely an audience."—Washington Star.

Brave Men.

Some seek for glory on the battlefield. Through breathless day and watchful, sleepless night. Some all the wealth of courage have revealed. Before the "kill him" of the bleacherite. —Detroit Free Press.

Happy Days.

Oh, the hours of wild elation that have come upon the nation. Since the good old baseball season blossomed out in glad array! How we've revelled in cessation of each duty and vacation, Giving every threadbare reason from our tasks to get away!

In our wild intoxication we have merited relation— Sisters, cousins and grandmothers, most too numerous to state— And each trilling obligation that exists in every station. We have passed along to others while we watch the Giants' fate.

How our pulses bound and tingle as with thousands we commingle. On the stand— if we have money— or among the "bleacherites!" How we go in droves, in single where the sods missus jangle. And perch on the benches, sunny, where we best can see the sights!

How we foster laryngitis and acquire endocarditis. Through our long continued bellova and that rapture none can check. While the pensile bring gastritis and, of course, appendicitis. As we watch the other fellows get it swiftly in the neck. —Lurans W. Sheldon in New York Times.

PARKER'S POLITICAL VIEWS.

Elliot Danforth Says Judge Would Fight Trusts.

Washington, May 7.—Apparently designed to place before the public the views of Judge Parker on the issues between the parties, Elliot Danforth of New York city, one of the closest friends of Judge Parker and David B. Hill, has given an interview in which he expresses the jurist's opinions as follows:

He is in favor of reducing custom duties wherever they shelter the trusts and wherever they enable lawless capital to wring extortionate prices from the consumer.

He insists that wherever American manufacturers by means of a monopolistic tariff are enabled to charge at home prices higher than those accepted abroad duties should be reduced.

He would "smite the subsidy monster wherever it might lift its head." He believes that the solution of the trust problem would be facilitated by a wise revision of the tariff.

He would insist on the use of state powers to regulate the trusts when these are within state boundaries.

Wherever the interstate law or anti-trust law was violated he would enforce the federal law.

He would let the south solve its own problem and is in heartiest sympathy with it.

Stranded Schooner Rescued.

Chatham, Mass., May 7.—The tugs Mercury and Dallas have accomplished an unusual feat in floating the three masted schooner Future after she had been stranded on Nauset beach for seven days and when hope of saving her was very slight. The vessel came off, however, comparatively uninjured, though she was leaking slightly. Vessels very rarely are saved after striking the dangerous Cape Cod coast unless they are floated immediately. Continuous fine weather favored the Future.

Indicted For Murder.

Ballston, N. Y., May 7.—Victor E. Millward of Saratoga Springs has been indicted by the grand jury for the murder of his wife and infant son on March 27. It is alleged that Millward beat his wife and child to death with a station and then fired his home. Their mutilated bodies were found in the burning house while Millward was running down the street crying "Fire!"

Expelled From Consolidated Exchange.

New York, May 7.—The expulsion of three members of the Consolidated Stock and Petroleum Exchange was announced at the opening of business. The expelled members are W. Grant Houge, who is said to have been connected with the firm of Loxley, Hale & Co.; M. E. Hulley and A. H. Pige. The expulsions were made on charges that these members had engaged in irregular transactions.

Hailstones Bother the Sunset Limited.

Bertram, Tex., May 7.—The Sunset Limited of the Southern Pacific encountered a severe hailstorm near Welsh, La. All of the windows on one side of the train were shattered and the hilloosework was splintered by the hailstones. Passengers were panic stricken. Several of them were cut about the face and J. Kohn of Houston was seriously injured by flying debris.
