Hadley's exhibition of moving pictures of Wednesday evening surpassed the rosiest anticipations of the management. The drill-room floor was completely filled and each number was received with well-deserved applause. The buttering or flickering was not nearly so noticeable as in previous exhibitions. All the pictures were not only satisfactory, but it was also evident that they had in Mr. Hadley the guiding spirit of a master-hand.—Wilkes-Barre News, Oct. 9, 1903.
