MANAGEMENT OF WIVES.

What the Taciturn Husband Does When His Helpmeet Weeps.

One thing the taciturn husband does is to let his wife cry. I don't mean that he drives her to crying or that he lets her weep while he stands unpathetically by with his hands in his trousers pockets, his feet apart and grinning sardonically. I mean that when an emotional woman needs a good cry he realizes that it will relieve the tension. He does not get up and rage about and kick footstools out of the way and say, "Oh, for heaven's sake, stop crying or you'll drive me to drink!"

No. He goes and pats her shoulder soothingly and says:

"There, little woman! I'm sorry the cook has left and your new gown looks up crookedly. But cheer up. Let's go out and have a jolly little dinner, and tomorrow I'll write that tailor a letter that will make his hair curl."

Then she locks up through her tears and thinks how handsome and big and strong and glorious he is, and before the dinner is over she has thought up two ways in which to economize and so pay for the extravagance of his order to the waiter, for the common purse is not elastic, and she knows it.

—Lillian Dell in Harper's Bazar.

Imposing.

"I'll have you know that I belong to Chicago," said the stranger.

"Deed, an' whid hne thocht it?" quoth the skeptic Scot. "Frae the way ye've been speaking I thocht Chicago belonged tae you."—Glasgow Times.

Putting Him Right.

"Next time I marry," said the widower, "I'll get a wife I can make shut up."

"You don't want a wife," replied his friend. "What you want is a folding bed."—Houston Post.

MUST BELIEVE IT

When Well-Known Barre People Tell It So Plainly.

When public endorsement is made by a representative citizen of Barre the proof is positive. You must believe it. Read this testimony. Every backache sufferer, every man, woman or child with any kidney trouble will find profit in the reading.

O. A. Churchill, contractor and builder, residence 49 Merchant street, says: "I gave an endorsement for publication in our Barre papers in the winter of 1897, which stated that Doan's Kidney Pills, sold at E. A. Drown's drug store, had acted with me as represented, and I recommended them to any resident needing a remedy for his kidneys. Since that time I have had no reason to change my opinion and you are welcome to again use my original endorsement so that others may know what to do if annoyed with a steady pain across the back like I had for two years—one that prevented me from remaining in any position for any length of time, which was always noticeable in the morning and caused me annoyance to dress myself, for which I used physicians' treatments and a great many medicines, but never received any permanent benefit. I cannot remember whether I took two or three boxes, but this I know, I have never had occasion to use the preparation since."
