Hardwick wants more water. We can't blame Hardwick.

Kuro-pai-kin is not standing by his name. He is running.

The season is long gone by, but David B. Hill of New York is said to be still 'making hay.'

The militia boys will lose their votes in the state election this year, but they will be more than paid back in valuable experience at Manassas.

'Put the biscuit diet of the Fort Arthur garrison against the rice and water food of the Japanese, and we will bank on the rice and water. Still the biscuits are holding out well.

The local electric road showed the proper disposition when the grievances of the Montpelier city council were plainly presented. They agreed to settlement, and furthermore agreed to not dig up the streets of that city until they had permission.

The Vermont house of correction is nearly as good as some business institutions. It is almost paying expenses, as during the past two years the state has had to pay only about $4,000 for its maintenance. The inmates are given experience in muscular employment that results most successfully.

MIXED, ALSO ACIDULOUS.
Things are mixed in St. Albans. They are also slightly tinged with the acidulous. Fuller C. Smith, Republican, writes to ex-Governor E. C. Smith, Republican, in regard to his preference for city representative—Fr. O'Sullivan, Democrat, or Col. Hall, Republican. The last named Smith replies that it is "really none of your business," which is decidedly plain English and not to be misunderstood. But the ex-Governor then softens somewhat and says that he himself shall labor for the election of Fr. O'Sullivan and that he hopes all his friends will do the same, at the same time not having anything against the Republican candidate for city representative. This brings to light a peculiar state of political affairs. The Republicans of St. Albans elected E. C. Smith to the legislature and the Republicans of Vermont elected him governor of the state. It may not be ingratitude on his part to now lend his vote and influence for the election of a Democratic nominee for city representative—however good—but the Republicans of St. Albans so consider it. Leaving the motives aside, ex-Gov. Smith's attitude may be classed as decidedly "independent."

WHAT EACH STANDS FOR.

Editor Times: Will you kindly tell me what is the difference between the Republican, Democratic and license-local option county tickets in reference to the present existing local option law? A Voter.

The Times hasn't any further knowledge than that contained in the platforms of the different parties. The Republican county convention reaffirmed the Republican state platform, which is as follows on the local option law:

We believe the law should be given a full, free and fair trial. We therefore recommend to the general assembly that it be so amended as to give force and efficiency to its fundamental principles.

The Democratic county convention adopted the following:

"We especially adhere to the principles of license-local option as the best method of dealing with the traffic in intoxicating liquor, and we pledge ourselves and our candidates to the support of this principle."

The license-local option, so far as the Times is aware of, has no platform and there is nothing to indicate what it does stand for. Mr. Clement who was at the head of the local option movement two years ago, has expressed his approval of the Republican platform, but the license-local option party in Washington county this year is apparently opposed to Mr. Clement on the local option issue.

ABOUT THE STATE.

Items of Interest Cleared From Our Exchanges.

Fire broke out Tuesday afternoon, August 30, in the Kenison broom factory at Hardwick, now used as a shingle mill and paint shop. The building is an old one and dry, but through the good work of hose company No. 1, the main building was saved. The loss is estimated at from $800 to $1,000.

Superintendent D. L. Morgan's annual report shows that the house of correction cost the state only $4,000 during the last two years, the output of the shops, the garden truck, etc., and visitors' fees aggregating the amount within $4,000 of the total cost of operation. There have been 1,800 prisoners committed during the two years and ninety-one have been paroled in that time. There are now 214 prisoners there.

Dr. Walter D. Berry and Mrs. M. E. Berry have severed their connection with the State Hospital for the Insane at Waterbury as clinical director and pathologist, matron and superintendent of nurses training school respectively. Dr. and Mrs. Berry left Friday for Burlington where they have purchased the Lake View Sanitarium of Dr. J. M. Clark. Dr. Berry's position has been made vacant and so much of his duties as are related to the pathological department will be assumed by Dr. Watson L. Wasson in connection with his duties as assistant physician.

The Farmers' Mutual Creamery company of St. Johnsbury has failed and will be obliged to go out of business as it has no money to pay its several hundred creditors. It will be a serious blow to the dairy interests of this vicinity as it is estimated that of the total liability of something like $17,000 at least $10,000 is due the nearly 500 farmer patrons in sums from small amounts up to bills of several hundred dollars each. There seems to be no blame attached to the local manager, I. G. Rolfe, for the condition of affairs, but the failure is due to the New England Creamery company of Boston, with which the local concern is closely allied.
