Mr. Z. "You're right. Add my name to your list. A, C., M. and E. are friends of mine, and I see you've insured them." Ballard & Co., reliable insurance.

Seats Now on Sale.

The sale of seats for the presentation of "David Harum" at the Opera House October 4 which begins this afternoon promises to break a great many local records. This deduction is drawn from the number of inquiries which have been made regarding the play. It would seem as if everyone who has read Westcott's book had decided to see the play taken from between its covers.

Consequently the interest taken in the coming of this play is said to be one of the greatest successes now before the public. Since its production it has been praised as the best dramatization made in years and it reproduces in marvellously faithful way all of the principal scenes incidents and characters of the book. One of its scenes is described as being excruciatingly funny. It shows the sanctimonious Deacon Perkins behind the balky horse he bought from Harum during a heavy downpour of rain, the horse balking in front of Harum's bank. The company to be seen in the comedy is one of much all around cleverness.

Home For Sale.

The Templeton homestead on Currier Park must be sold at once to close estate. Apply to R. S. Currier, administrator.

By One of Barre's Poets.

A Barre poet contributes the following:

The first of October a hunting we'll go
The rocks and the hills of New England
you know

The hare and the partridge, the fox and the coon

The end of a long road will come too soon.

The red and the rose, the violet and blue.

The brown and the scarlet and most every hue;

Yellow and gold and all shades of green—

The woods are such "pictures" as I've ever seen.

The moon in the morning, the dew on the grass,

The red and white farm houses still as we pass;

The corn in the shock, the beans on the pole,

The wood chuck in winter goes into his hole.

The red and the rose, etc., etc.

The fog o'er the lakes from the mountains we'll see,

As Solent arrives from the East country;

Younger and younger the older we grow,

The first of October a-hunting we'll go.

The red and the rose, the violet and blue.

The brown and the scarlet and most every hue;

Yellow and gold and all shades of green;

The woods are such "pictures" as I've ever seen.

Having sold my house and as I am going South will sell at auction all of my household goods on Saturday, Oct. 8th, at 38 Summer street. Sale to commence at 1 p. m. G. I. Jackson.
