The friends of W. A. Smith, formerly of this city, will appreciate the following from the Whittier, Cal., News, of which Mr. Smith was formerly editor: "There are some people who are always popular, who are always welcome and who always bring a ray of sunshine with them. Such a man is Will A. Smith, who steered the News through sunny paths during the first four years of its existence that its many readers might see and feel the brighter side of life. William has been way down east, seen the Big Fair, visited the Windy City and had a good time generally, but he was glad to get back, and—well, you may think the News force wasn't glad to have him back. As the sun rises in the east—so came Will." The sketch was accompanied by a good likeness of Mr. Smith.
