JAPAN'S FUTURE POLICY.

What the War Will Mean to Her in Case of Victory.

Jihel Hasbiguchi tells as follows in the November World's Work what effect the war will have on Japan's future policy in case she wins:

However great the loss caused by temporary economic disturbances, the gain in the expansion of the sphere of influence of the nation will more than counterbalance the loss. In case of Japan's victory the protectorate already acquired over Korea will afford the Japanese a considerable field of activity. Already the government is at work regulating the Korean policy. An enterprising Japanese recently applied to the Korean government, whose policy will be decided by the Japanese government, for a monopoly of the work of breaking up the uncultivated soil. Although he has not yet succeeded, somehow the Japanese government will find a way to start such work. Rice, which is imported from Korea, will be produced there on a greater scale and with improvement in quality after the Japanese begin work in the Korean rice fields, for the Koreans hitherto have not cultivated them with the characteristic thoroughness of the Japanese. The Japanese cultivate rice by the intensive method; hence Japanese rice is very much superior to Korean rice. In case rice becomes scarce in Japan the improved Korean crop will relieve the scarcity. Moreover, rice can be imported from the southern countries of Asia, such as Siam, Anam and Burma, whence Japan has long been importing it.

Furthermore, the recent improvements in rice production of the southern states of the United States will in time supply Japan. The colonization of Texas by the Japanese, already started last year, may be further extended. Already there are a hundred Japanese rice farmers in that state. The colony may grow in the course of years to furnish places for thousands of Japanese farmers who may after the war leave their own country to try their fortune in the new world.

But Japan, which hitherto has been an agricultural country, now gives every indication that she will become a manufacturing nation before long. China has abundant natural resources. These Japan will draw upon as raw materials for her manufactures. In Manchuria after the war, even though the territory be returned to China, the influence of the Japanese immigrants will be dominant. They will enter into various enterprises. And in a generation they will doubtless establish a permanent colony and then make a new nation, as the Anglo-Saxons have done in America. They may become powerful enough to protect the interests of both the old and the new country against the grasping hand of Russia. Thus they will relieve the old country of the greater part of her military responsibility in the new country.

LAST BUT NOT THE LEAST.

Ladies of the Episcopal Church Will Have a Fair as Usual.

The Ladies of St. Elizabeth's Chapter of the Episcopal church will hold a fair in Hale's pavilion Dec. 7-8. They will place on sale a variety of useful and fancy articles suitable for Xmas gifts, also a large line of dressed dolls, doll's clothing and small toys. The lovers of home made candy can have their wants supplied. An excellent programme has been prepared for each evening. The opening evening the boys of the choir under the direction of Mrs. A. W. Allen will give a Lullaby Minstrel Show. The second evening, an entertaining farce will be presented by local talent. A fish chowder supper will be served Thursday evening from 5 until 7. Admission to the fair, 10c. Super tickets, 15c. The fair will be open Thursday afternoon. The ladies cordially invite the public and hope for a continuance of their generous patronage.

GRANITEVILLE.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Presbyterian church will hold their third annual fair at Miles' hall, December 12 and 13. They will have the usual useful and fancy articles for sale at numerous booths. A first class entertainment will be given each evening. A program of the entertainments will appear later. The admission prices are: Adults 25c, children 15c.

Look Out for This

If Anyone Tells You He Can Give You a Remedy the Same or Just as Good as Dr. Chase's Blood and Nerve Food, Don't You Believe It.

This is the preparation that made the name "Chase" famous by its wonderful cures of paralysis, locomotor ataxia and all diseases of the blood and nerves, and for many years it enjoyed the distinction of being the only remedy advertised and sold under the name of Chase. The genuine is made only by The Dr. Chase Co., Philadelphia, Pa., from their own private prescription. To guard against imitations, note that the packages you buy are made in Philadelphia. To convince you that it is the richest of all restoratives and that it makes solid flesh, muscle and strength, weigh yourself before taking it, and see what wonders it will do. This is the only remedy that has been able to stand such a severe test. It builds you up. Each dose means new life, vitality and strength. Try it. You can't go wrong. Price 50 cents, five boxes, enough to give it a fair trial, $2.00. Book free.

Sold and guaranteed by E. A. Drown.

THRONE LIGHTS.

At one time King Peter of Serbia was a red-hot Socialist. That was while he was living a comparatively obscure life in France. He is believed to be the first Socialist to mount a throne. The Kaiser was so pleased over shooting a fine stag at Bontimon the other day that he gave $6,000 for the orphans and widows of the foresters and had his two beaters to dinner with him, placing one on each side of him.

King Edward has taken up the royal Stuart tartan for himself and his servants at Balmoral, and the white league is quite excited. Queen Victoria never used the Stuart plaid, but her servants at Balmoral wore the so-called Balmoral plaid designed by the prince consort.

Princess Christian of Schleswig-Holstein, who went out to Pretoria to visit her son's grave, is finding her days filled with engagements. In one day she is said to have laid the foundation stone of a home for the aged poor, opened a park, planted a tree, and started a bazaar in aid of church charities.
