The fact that 72 more dogs than last year were registered is not a convincing argument that Barre is going to the "bow wow."

The danger arising from grass fires in the vicinity of houses is large at the present time, and corresponding care should be taken.

Of course the quarry owners and the workers will display the same good sound sense that has characterized their actions in the past.

The par value of second class license to sell liquor seems to have gone up in Montpelier, with the privilege of selling for the first class license. The law allows discrimination to the commissioners ranging from $750 to $1,500.

Lawyers, at least some of them, need to take to their cyclone cellars, after the verdict in Chittenden county court giving a client heavy damages for poor advice sagely counseled by an attorney. But the question arises as to what would be considered poor advice. Doubtless a large clientele considers advice poor after they are beaten in law suits.

The state forestry commissioner has issued his first bulletin, in which he announces his readiness to supply information to any who wish. Here is a matter which should not be allowed to let pass, and all who propose to set out trees will be greatly benefited if they communicate with the commissioner, Ernest H. Hitchcock, at Pittsford. According to Mr. Hitchcock the following species may be planted: White pine, red spruce, Norway spruce, chestnut, red oak, yellow birch, paper birch, sugar maple, rock, elm, basswood black cherry, white ash, white cedar, European larch, poplar, black locust and butternut. Planting may be done in April and May and sowing between the first day of October and the first day of June of the following year.

DEAD AT NINETY-TWO

Bradford, the third son of William and father of Wm. A. and Mrs. Newcomb Keteum, both residents of Barre city, took charge of drawing the granite from the quarries to Montpelier, and late in the fall of 1832 rented rooms in the house then called the Willard Hotel, located on the premises where the Horace Fifield buildings are now located, and moved his wife and furniture sufficient to convene himself and wife and two hired men or boys to drive teams. He also took down twelve horses and three double traverse sleds and the snow began to fall about as soon as he was ready for it. His hired men were Western Averill, the father of John W. Averill, and the writer, A. M. J., whose 21st birthday was to be the 2d day of the next March, thought that he would earn a little money to purchase his freedom suit, in lieu of going to school, was the other man or boy. One day's work began early in the morning. Our horses were fed and harnessed ready to hitch to the sleds before breakfast. We had our breakfast regularly at 5 o'clock, then we started for the quarries where we loaded our sleds and returned home to dinner and feed our horses. After dinner we started for Montpelier with our loads of granite, unloaded it and returned to Barre when we had our supper and our horses cared for it would be about 9 o'clock. The only way to get to those quarries in those days was to go to the upper village and up the Sterling Hill which is very steep and on the east side near a very deep gully and it was necessary in order to get down the hill safely with our heavy loads of granite to chain or clog each runner and have an extra pole to each of our sleds that the four horses could help in holding back our heavy loads and we were very thankful when we were safely at the foot of the hill.

"I have stated the Bradfords were not granite men and I will tell you how they lost money in the contract to draw the granite for the State House. Before they made a bid for the contract they had a cubic foot of granite cut and weighed and on the weight of that cubic foot the bid was made for the contract, expecting to be paid the price bid for every cubic foot of granite they drew to Montpelier. The granite on the quarry was in blocks of different sizes, some larger and some smaller, and were in piles scattered over the quarry. Each block had its number of cubic feet marked on it, the contract for cutting the granite was by the cubic foot measured after cut and ready to be laid in the walls, the result was that the Bradfords drew hundreds of cubic feet that they received no pay for and there is where they sustained their loss."

WEBSTERVILLE.

The funeral of Kathleen McLean, daughter of Daniel and Mrs. McLean of this village, was held from St. Sylvester's church Sunday at 2:30 and buried in the Catholic cemetery in Barre city. The bearers were Hector McIntyre, George Blaisdell, Joseph Bolesey and Jeremy Bushey. There were many beautiful floral tributes.

Henry F. Cruickshank, a respected citizen of this place, died at his home Monday, March 27, at 3:30 p. m. On March 20 Mr. Cruickshank was taken with a severe attack of bronchitis which developed into pneumonia. During his sickness he received the best medical care obtainable, but it was all to no avail, for the time had come for him to join the great majority. The deceased was born in Maple Hill, Province of Quebec, March 4, 1849, where he lived until seventeen years of age. He then went into the northwest and after traveling through the western states and Canada, returned east and settled in Websterville, Vt., where he lived for upwards of twenty years. He leaves a wife and four children, also a sister, Mrs. McElroy of Island Pond, Vt., and four brothers, Fred, of Davis, West Virginia, William, of Inverness, P. Q., and Robert, of Lowell, Mass. The funeral was held from the church in Graniteville Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and the burial was in Wilson cemetery. The burial was in charge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, of which lodge the deceased was a faithful member.

TAXES

The Granite Savings Bank and Trust Company pays the taxes on all deposits not exceeding $2,000. We paid the State of Vermont last year a little more than $6,300 on our deposits, and Vermont Savings Institutions paid into the State treasury, as taxes on their deposits, the large sum of $312,503.82. If this money was not paid into the State treasury by the Banks it would have to be paid by individuals. Every tax-payer gets a benefit from this tax on deposits in a reduction of his State tax.

BUT

NATIONAL BANKS pay no tax whatever to the State on their deposits, and every dollar deposited in a National Bank is liable to taxation,—there is no $2,000 exemption.
