In memoriam.
Turn out to aid the veterans tomorrow.

Sunday appears to be a great fighting day on the water.

Mary Rogers' petition for a new trial was presented on a Friday, and she is sentenced to be hanged next Friday.

Governor Douglass of Massachusetts follows an illustrious example when he decides not to be a candidate for chief executive of that state another year. No less a personage than Roosevelt has made a similar declaration. It remains to be seen if Gov. Douglass' determination will be shaken.

It is welcome news to learn that a bunch of Spanish swindlers has been rounded up, and the gang which has attempted for years to work the "poor girl incarcerated in a Spanish dungeon" racket on supposedly gullible Americans. A number of people in this vicinity have been tried, but so far as known none was so gullible as to forward money to the writer of the plaintive note. The affair generally goes only so far as a translation of the poorly written letter, but the scheme was a nuisance.

THE VETERANS' MEMORIAL.

Those whose memories go back forty years and more have a mental picture of a band of men, battle-scarred and worn with months and years of warfare, returning to their homes. They were a part of the heroes who, when the stern call came for volunteers to preserve the entity of the nation, rallied to the summons and offered their services, their lives if need be, to the end that the United States might be preserved. Then there were those who enlisted in the great struggle, never to return, and who now occupy unknown graves in the Southland, where they fought so well. Whether they be living or dead, the people of the nation owe an immense debt of gratitude to these soldiers of the War of the Rebellion. Again and again is the responsibility of this debt brought home to those who were living to note the horrors and privations of the war; and again and again is the same debt of gratitude impressed upon the minds of the younger generation, whose conception of the sacrifice can be but inadequate at the best.

And now another twelve-month has sped past, and we find ourselves on the eve of another Memorial Day. Tomorrow the living heroes will pay tribute to their dead comrades. And we can do no more fitting service, can express our gratitude in no more touching way, can cheer the hearts of the veterans still left to us in no more tender manner than by joining with the living in the memorial to the dead. Memorial Day should be fraught with deepest significance here in Vermont, for the little state gave liberally of its young men for the Union's cause. No state north of the Mason and Dixon line has a more proud record to point to, for, although Vermont did not furnish so many men for service, it did furnish largely in proportion to its population. And in the quality of that contribution there is the more reason for Vermonters to take pardonable pride. For what ignoble part did Vermont troops ever play in the great Civil War? There is none, but, on the contrary, wherever history records the deeds of the regiments from the Green Mountain state, there one will find records of daring, of gallantry, of stability, in short, of the soldier's true attributes.

So there is much cause why Memorial Day should be observed, and generally observed, in every hamlet in the commonwealth. Each community has its soldier dead and its living heroes, to whom this small recognition should be paid. Let us not be unmindful of our duty. Let us join in the public exercises tomorrow as the veterans silently decorate the graves of their comrades and then gather for the memorial service.

He Made a Mistake.

A well known druggist says: "After childbirth in his family a trained nurse insisted upon having Comfort Powder. He thought it a fad, and when she left decided to try some other kind on baby. But they were soon glad to go back to Comfort Powder as it made such a difference in baby's comfort." The best physicians and trained nurses insist upon Comfort Powder for the toilet and nursery.

EAST BARRE.

Miss Harriman is at Corinth for a day or two. She returns Tuesday night. German measles seem to be the disease of the day at present. Many children and grown folks have been thus afflicted recently.

There seems to be a slight misunderstanding regarding the next meeting of the Lady Foresters. It will be held on the evening of Tuesday, June 6, in the Foresters' hall. It is hoped all members will be present as there is important business to be transacted.

Rev. Mr. Stewart closed his services for the East Barre church yesterday. We hope to have Mr. Abercrombie here to conduct the services for next Sunday, with a view to a settlement here, though of course there is nothing certain as yet.

MARRIAGE AT MONTPELIER.

Rennie B. Luke Bride of Attorney Clarence H. Senter, Today.

Miss Rennie B. Luke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Luke of Montpelier, was married to Clarence H. Senter of the same city this afternoon, by the Rev. A. N. Lewis, the ceremony taking place at the bride's home and there being none but the relatives in attendance. Mr. and Mrs. Senter will leave this evening on a wedding trip to New York. On their return they will reside in the Scott house on Loomis street in Montpelier.

Both were graduated from the Montpelier high school, the groom in 1898 and the bride one year later. Mr. Senter then attended the University of Vermont for a time, later entering the law office of his father, John H. Senter. He is now a member of the firm of Senter & Senter. The bride is one of Montpelier's popular young ladies.

CAL-CURA FREE IF IT DOES NOT CURE.

So uniformly successful is Cal-cura Solvent, Dr. David Kennedy's latest medicine, in curing kidney disease, as well as ordinary backaches, that we feel there is no risk to us in offering to pay for the medicine ourselves should it fail to cure. Its wonderful power to cure diseases of the kidney and bladder is the happy result of the efforts of that skilled physician and surgeon, Dr. David Kennedy, to make a medicine that would dissolve and expel from the system stone, gravel and uric acid. In this way, Cal-cura Solvent not only cures the disease but also removes all irritating causes.

You run no risk whatever in buying Cal-cura Solvent. Write to The Cal-cura Co., Kingston, N. Y., for a free treatment bottle.
