WILL NOT HANG TOMORROW

Mary Rogers Will Escape The Gallows

AND PROBABLE FOREVER

Judge Hoyt Denies Habeas Corpus Writ But Allows Case to Go to United States Court.

Brattleboro, June 22.--Mary M. Rogers will not hang tomorrow for the murder of her husband, Marcus Rogers. Judge Hoyt H. Wheeler of the United States circuit court will grant her appeal tonight, when the case will be taken to the United States supreme court.

Judge Wheeler denied the petition to dismiss Mrs. Rogers on the writ of habeas corpus, but said he would grant the appeal and that it would be issued tonight. Attorney General Fitts asked that the appeal be not granted until he had met Governor Bell at White River Junction tonight, when a reprieve would be granted staying the execution until after the supreme court has acted.

This will keep Mrs. Rogers in the custody of the state of Vermont and prevent complications with the federal authorities. Mary Rogers was brought to this village on the 2:17 train from Windsor, accompanied by Supt. W. S. Lovell, Sheriff H. H. Peck, Deputy Sheriff J. H. Kiniry, Miss Durfee, matron, and Raymond Wood, a guard of the state prison, and U. S. Marshal H. W. Bailey of Rutland.

Her coming had not been announced and there were comparatively few people at the station when the train arrived. Closed carriages were in waiting and the party accompanied by Attorney General Fitts, who joined the party at Bellows Falls, entered the carriages and were driven directly to Mr. Fitts' office.

After a brief consultation here Mrs. Rogers and the others walked to the probate office, where the hearing was held before Judge Wheeler on a petition for a writ of habeas corpus. An extended argument in Mrs. Rogers' behalf was made by Judge M. F. Butler of Rutland. He claimed that Mrs. Rogers is now confined in prison on a writ issued by Gov. C. J. Bell and not under a sentence from a competent court; that the law of 1892 taking the supreme court away from Bennington county had abridged the right of trial under the constitution of the United States.

He alleged there had been no opportunity to have the laws in a court of appeals, therefore the judgment was not final and the execution issued from that court is void. Attorney General Fitts answered briefly Mr. Butler's argument. He said that her lawyers were simply trying to secure a delay, nothing more. He referred to their action as a mere subterfuge and said they were trying to get into the United States supreme court by the back door, when if they had any case they could get in by the front door.

A RAINY OUTING.

But Children Enjoyed It With Unusual Zest.

Despite the heavy clouds and threatening rain yesterday morning, about 50 of the children and a goodly number of the mothers started for Caledonia park for a day's outing. Just as the train moved out 10 or 15 more arrived at the depot. They with the best of courage took an electric car and arrived at the park in season for dinner which was very much enjoyed. It was not just on European plan. This plan was: "If you can find anything you prefer, take it." They took. Nearly one hour and a half was necessary to satisfy the appetites. The remnants were devoured before the return.

The children were too eager for a good time to give up for a rainy day. The swings were kept moving, base ball and Rugby were enjoyed by both girls and boys. The pavilion was large and roomy and games were entered into through the heaviest showers. One could hardly distinguish the difference between the ages of the mothers and the children. Lemonade was relished, also Moxie, and when the time for return came it was all too soon. The children were promised another picnic, not similar to this, but on a pleasant day when all could enjoy the woods and grounds. At four o'clock the train whistled and the party was off for home. All declared they should remember the birthday picnic.

The names of those who birthdays come in April, May and June, are as follows: Maggie Barclay, Otis Cutler, George Kent, Dean Brock, Leila Cole, Ethel McFarland, Annie Aborn, Richard Grigg, Margaret Mills, Gwendolyn Pitkin, Howard Miles, Ulric Libouveau, Ruth Humphrey, Mabel Green, George Whitson, Helen Mackie, Mea Noonan, Frank Noonan, Newell Parker, Morris White, Harold Morse, Claire Miles, Christina Reid, Dana Church, Morris Bugbee, Ralph Kent, Emily Benedict, Marion Taylor, Gertrude Cheney, Hattie Houston.

The couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. William Gerard, Mrs. Gerard being a sister of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Kerney left this morning for a few weeks' tour.
