Next week is Labor's week in Barre.

Russell Sage of New York didn't entertain on his 89th birthday yesterday; he had figured up the cost. He simply didn't work.

Sheriff Peck of Windsor gets a hard one from the St. Albans Messenger, which says that he does not show up much bigger than a half-pint.

The sins of the foster-parent seem to have been passed down to the child in the case of the disclosure of graft in Manila. Graft is one of our national sins.

It was found necessary to remark concerning the meeting of the Lake Mitchell club at Sharon that politics were tabooed. Such is the reputation of sporting clubs in Vermont.

The Venezuelan and French representatives to the Plumley arbitration court are being shown extraordinary hospitality by Burlington people. Is Burlington looking ahead to the next time?

Col. Albert Clark of the Vermont Association of Boston says that their visit to Rutland was the most pleasant trip taken by the association in his time, which must be gratifying to Rutland and to the state in a general way. But it seems unfortunate that the members of the party had to return to Boston almost as soon as they had reached Vermont.

The Bellows Falls Times gives a little inside information as to the reason the town of Rockingham refused Carnegie's offer of a public library. The contemporary says that it was a combination of issues that defeated the proposition, among which were prominent, the fact that the town is heavily in debt and that no effort is being made to meet it, that the voters do not like the looks of the two-dollar tax which stares them in the face, that the "tainted money" cry scared a few, and that some of the voters thought Carnegie's offer of $15,000 was not enough to erect a library building sufficiently large for the needs. These were given as the reasons, and then the Bellows Falls contemporary slyly adds that if someone had volunteered to donate a site for the building, the voters would undoubtedly have voted the yearly cost of $1,500 for the maintenance of the building. By this, the early suspicion that the town was waiting for Hetty Green to give a site is confirmed. But Mrs. Green has other uses for her money.
