Returning from the fire this noon the firemen weighed the chemical on the scales in front of Reynolds' store. It weighed 5,500 lbs. This does not take in the weight of the men who ride on it. ### CUTTING THE PENSIONS.

Equitable Life Had Ten Per Cent Loss of Business.

New York, Aug. 31.—The board of directors of the Equitable Life Assurance society yesterday decided to abolish the $25,000 pension now enjoyed by Mrs. Henry B. Hyde, widow of the founder of the society; also to abolish the prospective pension of $18,000 to Mrs. James W. Alexander, wife of the former president, who recently resigned, which she would have received in case she survived her husband.

President Paul Morton reported that the Equitable society business had fallen less than ten per cent in the United States and Canada during the seven months ending August 1, 1905, as compared with the corresponding period of last year. The actual cash decrease in life insurance written was over $8,000,000. Mr. Morton also announced that the Equitable system of making advances to agents, which was made the subject of one of the charges in the suit now pending against the Equitable directors had been changed so as to add $150,000 per annum to the society's income. Formerly these sums aggregating about $6,000,000 were carried by the Equitable Trust company of New York and by the Commercial Trust company of Philadelphia.

No News at Birdville.

When Mr. Read was a newspaper reporter he covered Birdville, Ark., for his paper, by interviewing citizens from that village and its vicinity. One day he met old Bill Simmons, who resided near Birdville, and asked him if there was any news in the neighborhood.

"Nope," replied Bill, "everything as quiet as death."

"No weddings, or anything of a social sort?" asked Opie.

"Wall, no," said Bill, "the' would 'a' be'n a marryin' over at Sim Smith's place las' night, 'ceptin' that Si Jones wuz plum gone on Sim's darter, which Hank Thompson wuz gwine ter marry, an' jess afore the hitehin' up wuz ter take place Hank met up with Si on the Yellville turnpike an' shot his right arm off, an' then Si tuck his gun in his left hand an' dropped Hank ter the ground, an' jess then old man Thompson, Hank's paw, came up an plunked three bullets inter Si, an' Si's stepuncle, Jim Rivers, come a-lop'in' down the creek bottom an' shot old man Thompson's head clean off his shoulders afore he could say Jack Robinson. Course that sp'iled the weddin' plans, an' so I hain't got no nooze fer ter-day."

"Wait a minute, Mr. Simmons," urged Opie, who wanted to get the story in detail.

"I can't wait," replied the man from Birdville, where it was quiet as death, "I got ter go over to the undertaker's shop an' order three coffins right off. I'll let ya know when the's any nooze down Birdville way."—Portland Oregonian.

THE BEGINNING OF A NEW ERA.

The nearest approach, heretofore, to a colored prepared roofing has been the ordinary material with a coat of paint applied after the roofing has been laid. This has always been a more or less unsatisfactory proposition, for the reason that the paint could not be depended upon to last. Not being an actual part of the roofing, it dried up, faded out and soon demanded renewal.

The subject of colored painting is not a factor in the consideration of Ruberoid Red and Brown Roofings, since the material is already supplied with a constitutional color, which remains active and beautiful for years. The color is not applied in the form of paint. It is not merely laid on, not even by a mechanical process. It is an actual saturation of the weather surface of the roofing itself—embodied in it, not on it, during the actual process of manufacturing. This is the fundamental principle of the Ruberoid Colored Roofing. The color is as actually a part of the roofing as is the internal saturations of the material, and, so far as efficiency and durability are concerned, it is equally reliable. Uncolored Ruberoid Roofing needs no recommendation. Even our competitors admit, by attempted imitations, its superiority.

Therefore when we state that in Colored Ruberoid Roofing we offer a material with a weather surface just as good as that of the uncolored material we believe that the strength of that claim will be fully and universally appreciated. Ruberoid Colored Roofings have not been offered to the public without the manufacturers having satisfied themselves of the durability of the colors and having demonstrated during the past five years the absolute reliability of the material. The manufacturers of Ruberoid Roofing regard the colored roofings as the crowning efforts of their manufacturing career and the beginning of a new roofing era.

Ruberoid Colored Roofing is for sale only by W. H. Pitkin & Co., Blanchard building, Barre, Vt., who will be pleased to submit samples and prices upon request.
