TUESDAY, JUNE 5, 1906.

The average daily circulation of the Barre Daily Times for the week ending Saturday was copies, the largest paid circulation of any daily paper in this section.

A lower tax rate in Barre would make a fine present to the citizens.

There is a Morales in this bomb episode in Madrid, which can be easily read.

It is no longer "tainted money" in the public discussion, but it is "tainted meat." We prefer the former.

The county canvasses will not be held next Saturday night, but will be called at a later date. Voters should bear this fact in mind.

One credit mark should be put down for the unexpected inspection of the excursion boats in New York harbor. Remember the Flood disaster!

There's a terrible stench coming from Chicago way, but most people were not aware of it until President Roosevelt unloosed the cork through the Reynolds-Nell report.

It must have been a brave effort on the part of the new queen of Spain to attend a bull fight as one of the wedding fetes. But she is showing herself to be brave in several ways.

Orville Ballard will be missed at the State House next fall. As one of the veterans of the legislature, he delighted to return and see how the younger legislators conducted affairs. His suicide at Georgia on Sunday must have been prompted by insanity.

The Barre Times says that some of the streets of the Granite City make excellent speedways. The driving and motoring public would like to know in what part of the city they are located. —Montpelier Argus.

If you would come out of your provincialism and take an unbiased look at something outside the limits of Montpelier you would know. But as it is, you don't look over the top of your crib, neighbor.

BLAMELESS!

By what sort of a deduction the police came to the conclusion that there is no blame on the motorman of the wrecked car near Providence, R. I., Sunday morning, in which accident eleven persons were killed, is not apparent. Here was a placed in charge of a party of merry-makers on the return trip from their jollities, a man who, according to the reports, had never guided a car over that particular section where the accident occurred, albeit he was an experienced man at the lever and brake. A man with any kind of a bump of caution would have applied the brakes when he struck a decline and that, too, while traveling in the dead of night, with nothing but the faint glimmer of street lamps to guide him. On the contrary this motorman, whom the police say is not responsible, applied never a brake, but allowed his car to coast down the hill, gaining momentum as it sped, until the car struck the fatal curve. Previous accidents had occurred here, and the inevitable happened this time. When the man at the helm felt the push of the wheels against the rails he brought all his force to apply to the brakes, but his efforts were too late. The terrific momentum of a heavily-

A NATION OF CRIPPLES RHEUMATISM BEYOND CONTROL

The Only Hope to Rheumatic Sufferers is URIC-O Treatment.

If rheumatism continues to spread as it has in the past few years, it would seem as though we would before long become a nation of cripples. The terrible destructiveness of this disease is apparent on every side of us. Almost nine out of ten of the cripples one meets had their affliction brought on by Rheumatism. How many thousands more there are who are hopelessly bed-ridden and whom we never see, Rheumatism from the very nature of the disease, can never cure itself and if neglected, is bound to grow worse rather than better. If you ever have any twinges of Rheumatism go to the Red Cross Pharmacy right here in Barre and get a bottle of URIC-O, the wonderful new Rheumatic Specific. It will cure you and it is the only treatment in the world that will cure you permanently and thoroughly. URIC-O cures by its direct action on the muscles, blood and kidneys. It seeks out the poisonous Uric and Rheumatic Acid and drives it from the system and it is only a treatment of such a nature that will ever cure Rheumatism. Liniments and plasters only serve to drive it from one spot to another. They never cure Rheumatism, because it is primarily a blood disease, and until the blood is cleared from the poison, a cure cannot take place.

There never was a case of Rheumatism that URIC-O could not cure and you should not put off taking it because it is in the end by far the cheapest method. You can test URIC-O free of charge if you wish. Just cut out this advertisement and send it to the Smith Drug Co., Syracuse, N. Y., and state that you have heard of URIC-O and would like to try it. They will send you a free sample which you can test and try free.

loaded car, coasting, could be stopped by nothing short of a derailment, and that is what took place, as chronicled in yesterday's paper—and eleven lives were lost and fifty persons were more or less seriously injured. And yet they say that the man in control was not so much to blame as to warrant his arrest for even a preliminary hearing. This is contrary to the custom in most places, especially where the loss of life was so large. What should warrant the authorities in saying that the motorman was not at fault in a certain measure at least? The fact that somebody higher up may have been more culpable in placing him, unsound to the road, in charge does not shift the immediate responsibility from his shoulders. There was undoubtedly a fault in allowing the motorman to run the car. But in accepting charge of the public vehicle the man took upon himself a certain responsibility, and for that responsibility he should be held the same as the New York motorman who runs over a little child in Hudson, at least, until the causes are known exactly. There were eleven lives here sacrificed by this man's recklessness in running his car beyond his power to control when occasion arose.

JINGLES AND JESTS.

A Bad Appendix. I was a happy little worm, So snug within my man, But evilly I leaped to squirm As only unclean germs can. Or naughty microbes can. They took me from my native place And placed me in a jar, And here I've fallen far from grace; I'm going the alcoholic pace; I'm pickled—yes, I am! —Lippincott's Magazine.

They Jerk Away. Molly—I always wear a few pins sticking out around my waist. It's safer. Her Chaperon—That's poor policy, my dear! You can catch people on barbed wire, but you can't hold them that way! —Detroit Free Press.

The Explorer. A gas leak he sought with a lighted match. And he searched and he searched all around it. And, though he has never seen him again, There's indisputable proof that he found it. —Chicago Inter Ocean.

His Laid Style. The Lady Interviewer—And you brought that lovely parrot from the ill-fated ship? What a beauty! Does it talk at all? The Sailor Man (embarrassed)—I'm! Er, yes, quite a bit, mum, but not for publication! —Brooklyn Life.

If I Were You. [A man's standpoint.] You ask what I would do if I were you? Dear heart, I'd try my best to be Your own sweet self. And when I came to woo I think (if I were you) I'd marry me! —Lippincott's Magazine.

The Return Humany. Mrs. Wozzie—You don't seem to understand me, but there was one man who did. Wozzie—He must have been an expert in insanity. —Detroit Free Press.

Hard Lines. The more we get—your's heard before—"The more we want," and yet it always works this way: The more we want the less we get. —Philadelphia Press.

A New Word. Mrs. McCall—You haven't got that poisonous butter any more? Mrs. Nutch—No. We discharged him. He didn't—er—bottle to suit us.—Catholic Standard and Times.

Agreeable. The kind of girl with whom to go through life, your life to bless, Who never says yes when you say no, Nor no when you say yes. —Brooklyn Life.

An Inquiry. Mrs. Black—Mah husband am gittin' better. He'll soon be able to go to work. Mrs. Johnson—Am he worryin' about it?—Puck.

Penitence. I've put my favorite sin away, For I am penitent. But hope to get it back some day. You see, it's merely Lent. —Catholic Standard and Times.

Getting Along in Years. "My dear, tomorrow is your birthday day." "Well, it's very disagreeable of you to remind me of it." —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Says Mr. Youngpop. Is sleeplessness contagious? Why, There's no disease to match it! Whenever baby gets it I. Am always sure to catch it. —Philadelphia Press.

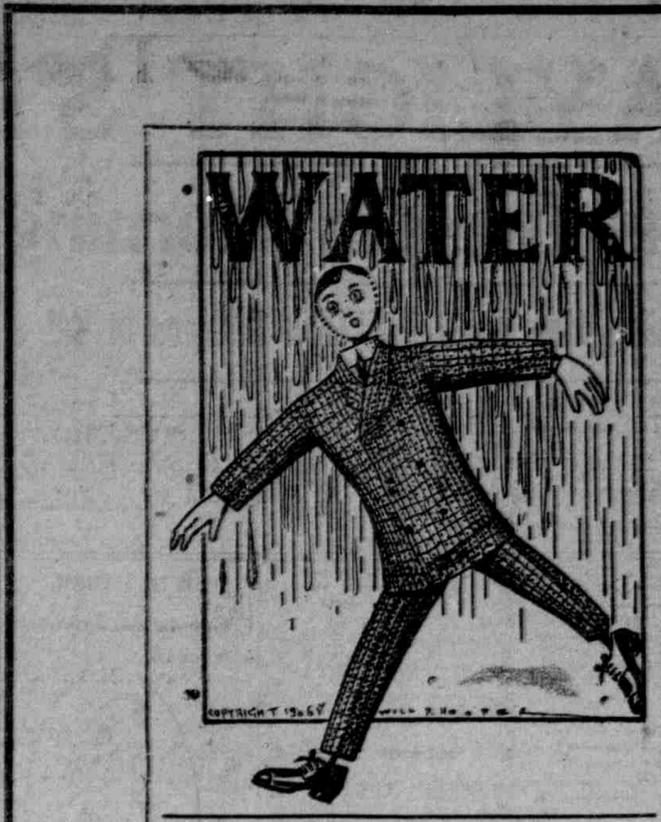

Two Views. Optimist—Isn't the sunshine bright and lovely this morning? Pessimist—Hub! It's casting shadows somewhere. —New York Times.

They Would. Oh, time and love and money Are just the three big things Which would be even more sunny If we could slip their wings! —New York Press.

Taken by Surprise. "Maw, when did you first get acquainted with paw?" "Several years after I married him, dear." —Chicago Tribune.

Its Specialty. Let others strive with arm and brain And learn what'er may balk. The senate sees I'm duty plain— Its duty is to talk. —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Benedict's Verdict. Hewitt—Do you consider marriage a civil contract? Jewett—No, criminal. —New York Press.

EVEN THE DUMMY ESCAPED.

It's surprising to us to find how much of our stock escaped all damage by the fire, smoke and water. The more we have examined into it, the less real injury we find. Nevertheless, every article in the store—Hats, Shoes, Suits, Overcoats, Shirts, Hose, Underwear, Handkerchiefs, Gloves, Scarfs, Bathing Suits, Pajamas, Collars, everything—is to be sold at a half, a quarter, a third off the real values. We are absolutely going to clean out everything. Then the painters, carpenters and decorators will go to work untrammelled, and then we will open with the finest, latest, newest and most complete stock of Clothing ever shown in Barre.

Today all our Summer and Winter Underwear at twenty per cent off.

All our Collars at 10c each.

Three dozen Men's Straw Hats at 25c each. They were $3.00 each.

Lots of odds and ends in good merchandise at 5c, 10c and 15c each. Everything must go.

F. H. ROGERS & CO.,

SIRE AND SONS.

Andrew Carnegie has rented a cottage at the Virginia Hot Springs for the summer.

Rufus Bullock, once governor of Georgia, is spending his declining days at Albion, N. Y., his boyhood home. He is helpless from paralysis.

M. Fallieres, the new president of France, is a bibliophile and often strolls among the bookshops bargaining with the dealers for some volume of worth.

Antonin Dubost, who has been elected to succeed M. Fallieres as president of the French senate, is the ninth senator to hold that office since the establishment of the constitution of 1875.

Congressman Gillespie of Texas elected congress on his first term on the tip of a coin. Three candidates were tied, and after innumerable ballots Gillespie won the toss to decide the tie.

Charles E. Hughes, who recently conducted the insurance investigation in New York city, as a child was too delicate to attend school, so his mother attended to his early education. His father was a Baptist preacher.

Walter Wellman, the newspaper correspondent who says he will try to get to the north pole with an airship, broke his leg on one of his dashes to the pole. He fell into a crevice in the ice and has limped painfully ever since.

Professor Karl Harko von Noorden of Frankfurt, Germany, has been appointed by the minister of education of Austria as the head of the Vienna clinic, the place made vacant last summer by the death of Professor Nollmann.

Baron Sonnino, the new Italian premier, is of Jewish extraction on his father's side. His mother was an English Protestant. The baron's writings on agrarian questions have attracted much attention. He was the founder of the Giornale d'Italia.

William Weldon Laidis, professor of mathematics at Dickinson college, Carlisle, Pa., has been made a member of the Mathematic Circle of Palermo, Italy, in recognition of his scientific attainments. The organization is the most exclusive mathematical society in the world.

Dangerous Waters. The most dangerous waters in the world for the purpose of ships lie off the east coast of England, Cape Lashant, in France, and, Cape Finisterre, in Spain.

SPELLING REFORM.

No system can be devised which shall represent the pronunciation of all those who speak English. The reason is the simple one that English is not everywhere pronounced the same way. —Chicago Tribune.

There could be nothing so absurd or so ruinous to literature as a wholesale reformation. Everybody should encourage the spelling reform a little, but let us "endure it with great moderation." —Chicago Chronicle.

It is not to be denied that abbreviated spelling has its advantages. It saves ink and time. A purely phonetic system is out of the question without a much larger alphabet than we have now. —Pittsburgh Press.

What Professor Lounsbury said of the addition of words and locations to a language is also true of spelling changes. They cannot be made arbitrarily. They must be the outgrowth of needs felt by the cultivated and must commend themselves to taste and intelligence. —Albany Times-Union.

FREE OF CHARGE. "Not only will I sell a 50-cent bottle of Dr. Howard's Dyspepsia Specific at half price, but I will agree to refund the money if the customer is not satisfied with the remedy," said D. F. Davis, the popular druggist, to a Times man. "In other words," he continued, "the specific is free if it does not cure."

Mr. Davis has sold hundreds of bottles on his special half-price introductory offer, and has a few left for those who are fortunate enough to call at his store before they are all gone. It is the regular 50-cent size, containing sixty doses, and is the one remedy for constipation and dyspepsia that makes permanent cures.

Dr. Howard's specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia is not an ordinary tablet or powder that simply relieves. This remarkable discovery makes complete and permanent cures. Mrs. Charlotte W. Wallace of Manchester, N. H., writes: "A few years ago I had a very severe attack of dyspepsia. Water distressed me as much as food and I could find no relief. My druggist recommended Dr. Howard's specific very highly. This great medicine gave me relief at once and I have never had another attack of dyspepsia."

When a magazine editor states that he has poems and stories on hand, accepted, that have been waiting to see the light for fifteen years, it does look as if there's mighty little hope for authors to gain a reputation in this day and time. —Atlanta Constitution.

SHARP POINTS OF VIEW. Never try to sink your troubles with anything having a cork in it. Strange that it is the conversation without any point that bores us. Many a man finds he has not heard enough to fill his predecessor's shoes. The man afflicted with a cornet in his family should be thankful it isn't a trombone. —Boston Transcript.
