MAN AND HIS WAYS.

Scientists have always contended that the odor of gasoline is fatal to Jersey's chief product, the mosquito. THE NEXT ATTRACTION.

Coming to the Barre opera house on Thursday evening, June 14, are moving pictures of the great San Francisco disaster. These pictures, which were exhibited in the Columbia theatre in Boston all last week, filled that playhouse at it was never filled before, and so fascinating in their vivid realism were they that many went time and time again.

The pictures first show the beautiful city of the Golden Gate in all its splendor before the awful catastrophe, one picture depicting the scenes in the city when President Roosevelt was a guest. The busy thoroughfares with their bustle and excitement; Chinatown, perhaps the most famed portion of the city, is also shown on the canvass; other interesting points pictured before the disaster are the Cliff house, the splendid mansions in the aristocratic portions of the city, the office buildings on Market street and the "Frisco tenderloin."

All these scenes of gaiety give way to deepest gloom as these same places are pictured in flames or in smouldering ruins. It gives a faithful portrayal of the dynamiting of the tall office buildings, the frenzied populace fleeing for shelter, the homeless victims in the parks and the public squares, the famous bread line, where the holed and the millionaire met on common ground, and other equally interesting and sad scenes.

As an added feature, the management has secured the famous European music hall singer, Mlle. Fougere, fresh from her London and Paris triumphs, who will sing the songs which have made her name a household word on the other side of the pond. The singing of Mlle. Fougere alone is worth going to hear, aside from the Frisco moving pictures.

GRANITEVILLE.

THE WRITERS.

Jerome K. Jerome has the middle name of Klappa.

Kipling was christened Rudyard because his father proposed to his mother on the lake of that name.

H. G. Wells in his youth often wrote 8,000 words a day, but now he confines himself to 1,000 words—300,000 words a year—two books.

Mark Twain is very fond of collecting old obituary poetry and has a scrapbook, which he prizes very highly, containing 3,000 specimens.

The memoirs of General Kuropatkin, a work covering the Russo-Japanese war, are being published in Moscow under the direction of the author.

The most remarkable thing about the career of Justin McCarthy is the tremendous amount of work he has been able to accomplish. Novelist, journalist, historian, politician and party leader, he has found time to travel widely and to cultivate delightful social relations with most of the leading literary, artistic and political people of his time.

LIGHTNING'S WORK.

Killed Two Horses in Shaftsbury on Saturday.

Bennington, June 11.—Reports received here yesterday are to the effect that the electrical storm that raged in this section Saturday afternoon was one of the most severe this season.

In Shaftsbury the lightning struck the end of a barrow pole, with which Mr. Stockwell had been harrowing and which he was trying to get to shelter. Both horses attached to it were killed, the harrow was splintered and the driver severely injured.

In the village of Pownal, where the storm seems to have been worst, the damage is estimated at from $300 to $500.—Another severe storm, which lasted about an hour, occurred yesterday afternoon. Just previous the mercury registered over 90 in the shade.

THE UNION MAN'S MONEY.

Should Never Be Spent For Products of Unfair Labor.

Experience has shown the organized movement of labor that the working masses, being the vast army of consumers of all the products of labor, can by organizing their purchasing power to promote the sale of the products of union and fair labor and to restrict the sale of the product of non-union and unfair labor exert quite as effectual an influence and control over conditions of employment as by endeavoring to control the supply of labor at the factory door, says Shoo Workers' Journal.

The employer is in business for profit, and if his market is sufficiently restricted through the demands of organized workers for union label goods he will be compelled to give due recognition to the just demands of his employees or to go out of business.

The union label is a concrete expression of the desire of unionists that other unionists and all sympathizers shall be able to discriminate between the unfair products of the penitentiary, the nonunionists, the tenement house and pest hole and the product of workers engaged in the same movement and sharing the same hopes and aspirations as themselves. The growth of the union label movement in recent years is evidenced by the fact that so many of the national trade unions have adopted union label devices adapted to their respective trades, and this growth is accelerated by support received from associations of philanthropic persons who see in the union label movement a rational attempt of labor to better its conditions without resorting to costly strikes.

The wage earner joins the union to better his condition, to defend his interests, to maintain or increase his wages and expects other unionists to support his cause; hence, it is the plain duty of every member of organized labor to exercise due care that the wages received as a result of effort and sacrifice are not squandered upon the products of unfair labor in other industries.

"He that is not with us is against us" is a safe maxim to follow, and a member who expends a single penny upon the product of "unfair" labor has not only wronged his fellow workers, but has done positive injury to his own cause and interests. The only way the members can be sure they are not spending their wages upon their enemies is to insist that all goods purchased by them shall bear a union label, and their duty extends further to the extent of influencing their friends to purchase and tradesmen to handle and sell none but goods bearing the union label of the respective trades union.

Reductions in wages are checked, advances secured, hours of labor shortened, conditions of labor improved and many other beneficial results obtained by persistent agitation upon union label lines. Next in the field. The one thing needed is the whole souled cooperation of the workers and their sympathizers in purchasing only goods bearing the trademarks of organized labor, with which effort many of the abuses they now suffer will speedily vanish.
