

SCHIDLLOFSKI PAYS PENALTY OF MURDER

Electrocuted at Charlestown State Prison Early This Morning--His Relatives do Not Claim the Remains

WAS SUPPORTED TO DEATH CHAIR

Killed His Wife at Belmont, Mass., a Year Ago--Confessed That He Killed Her When He Was Drinking.

Boston, July 9.--The body of John Schidllofski, the wife murderer, who was electrocuted at the Charlestown state prison last night, was turned over to an undertaker this morning, and it will be prepared for burial. Relatives of the dead man called at Warden Bridge's office this morning, but made no claim for the body, and it will be buried at the expense of the state. It is probable that the interment will be made at Concord.

The Execution. Schidllofski made no statement after he was placed in the chair. He was in a stage bordering upon complete collapse as he entered the death chamber and his knees shook beneath him. Chaplain Walker and the guard, who were supporting the prisoner, gently guided him to the electric chair, and Schidllofski seated himself, apparently unconscious of what was going on about him. The prison officials quickly adjusted the fastenings. During the operations, he kept both hands closed and in one he held tightly a small crucifix. He moaned continually in an almost inaudible manner.

At exactly 12:08 o'clock Warden Bridges raised his hand as a signal to the electrician and the current was applied. Schidllofski was pronounced dead at 12:23 1/2.

The crime for which John Schidllofski, a barber, has been sentenced to die during the week of July 8, was the murder of his wife, Marcine, on the golf links at Belmont, July 12, 1905.

"CITIZEN" SAYS NO.

To Special Tax, But Get Money for the School by Temporary Loan.

Editor Daily Times: Our school commissioners call for more money. Give it to them--all they want. But do not furnish this money by raising a special tax. Rather authorize the city council to make for them a temporary loan. Then, when they build another schoolhouse, put this loan into a bond together with the money required to build the schoolhouse. This will be infinitely better for the city than to furnish the money by raising higher the tax rate. The high tax rate is already stopping the growth of the city. There was very little building last year--practically none this year. With the higher price of lumber and labor, the high tax rate becomes the last straw that breaks the camel's back. Don't lay that straw on at the city meeting this evening! Vote no!

A Curious Coincidence.

St. Albans, July 9.--By a strange coincidence two sisters residing in this city died within twenty-four hours of each other. They were Mrs. Cyrus K. Greene, who died at 5:05 o'clock yesterday morning, and Mrs. Milo Clark, who passed away at 12:40 o'clock this morning. Both were over 70 years of age.

DREYFUS REFUSES DAMAGES.

Frenchman Waives All Claims and Only Wants His Honor Restored.

Paris, July 9.--Maitre Mornard announced at Paris Saturday in concluding his argument before the supreme court in behalf of Alfred Dreyfus, that Dreyfus positively refused to accept the damages which the law accords a victim of judicial mistakes, and asked solely for the restoration of his honor as an officer, without any proceedings against the witnesses or author of the mistake. The arguments were then closed and the presiding judge announced that the decision of the court would be given at a subsequent session. A decision is probable by the middle of the week. Maitre Mornard's peroration was a brilliant tribute to Dreyfus, whose action in refusing damages the advocate described as a supreme act of moral grandeur. He added: "It is solely upon my client's order that I relinquish the right for damages. I struggled against his will, believing that public morality required reparation for the atrocious physical sufferings resulting from the monstrous judicial error, and the criminal prosecution of all the false witnesses and other authors of the former convictions. But I was compelled to cease before the unwavering will of Capt. Dreyfus as a soldier. He said: 'I have given everything to my country, health, happiness and future, and as my country gave me everything, so my country can take everything.' He is ready to bear alone all the misery and torture of Devil's island if his country will give him back only one thing--his honor. We renounce, then, all damages, asking you simply to quash the conviction without retrial, and ask you to grant this in behalf of the honor of the French arm and the public conscience of France."

PAY OF EUROPEAN STATESMEN.

Denmark is the Stigiest of All to Her Legislators--Norway Not Much Less.

The Norwegian member of Parliament gets only thirteen shillings a day, and if he hard worked legislator takes a day off he loses his pay. The same is the case with members of the Swiss Diet. They are rewarded with sixteen shillings a day, on condition that they do not absent themselves from work. To go further East, we find that Rumania pays her lawmakers worth 11 a day. Sixteen shillings a day is the salary of those who compose the Bulgarian Sobranie, but members who live in the capital get only twelve shillings a day. Denmark is about the stigiest of all European countries, so far as remunerating her lawmakers is concerned. Danish members of Parliament get but six shillings eight pence a day, but the other hand, they have the exclusive privilege of a free seat in the Royal Theatre at Copenhagen.

While the members of the German Reichstag are not salaried, yet the lawmakers of the various German States do not work for nothing. Saxo-Coburg members of Parliament are paid thirteen shillings, of Bavaria ten and of Hesse nine.

At first sight Hungary seems to do her lawmakers on the cheap plan, for her members get £200 a year in cash. But they are not so badly off, after all, for a liberal allowance is made into the bargain for house rent. Austria-Hungary's two legislative assemblies cost the country about £160,000 a year in all. Both in Austria and Hungary legislators can travel first-class with second-class tickets.

Besides the United Kingdom, Italy and Spain are the only countries which pay nothing to their members of Parliament. Nevertheless, the cost of the Italian Parliament is estimated at £83,000 a year.

In Portugal also the State does not remunerate legislators, but they receive free railway passes and their constitutions are legally permitted to pay those who represent them a sum of about fifteen shillings for each day of the session.--London Answers.

TO HOLD BACK BRITISH FLEET.

Agitation to Keep Ships From Coast.

London, July 9.--The political committee of the new reform club, of which Edmund Robertson, civil lord of the admiralty, is chairman, has started an organized agitation in London against the visit of the British channel fleet to Constanza, which is occasioning considerable surprise. The committee at a meeting Friday adopted a resolution denouncing the atrocities in Russia, and calling on the British government not to send the fleet to Russian waters, so as to avert further misunderstanding. In Friday's letter accompanying the resolution, which was sent to the newspaper, the secretary of the club urges the latter to support of the committee's action. In view of Foreign Secretary Gray's numerous explanations on this action in the House of Commons, this new trial to the part of the committee presided over by Mr. Robertson, a member of the government, has created a sensation, and it is expected that attention will be called to the matter in the House of Commons.

SHE CLAIMS SELF DEFENCE

Former Richford Woman Killed Forrest Howard

IN HER HOME LAST WEEK

Coroner's Jury Reported That It Was Self-Defense, But Murdered Man's Brother Has Mrs. Eva Tracey Arrested for Crime.

Richford, July 9.--Eva Beard Tracey, wife of Edward Tracey of Glen Farm, a village over the Quebec boundary line, is locked up in the jail at Cowansville, on a charge of murdering Forrest Howard.

The Traceys formerly lived in Richford and were married five years ago. The death of Howard occurred at Mrs. Tracey's home last Tuesday. The coroner's jury, which heard the evidence in the case, returned a verdict that Mrs. Tracey killed him in self-defense, but Howard's brother swore out a warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Tracey on the charge of killing his brother. A hearing will be held during the coming week.

Mrs. Tracey is 26 years of age. She admits killing Forrest Howard, but maintains that she was obliged to do it to protect herself. She claims that in the absence of her husband, Howard, who was acquainted with and called at the house and attempted to assault her. She says a struggle occurred, which ended when she took refuge in her bedroom, where she seized her husband's gun and fired it at Howard, who was a few feet away and about to renew his attack. Howard received the entire charge and died shortly afterwards.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., WAS THREATENED

Long Branch, N. J., July 9.--The bakery and hardware store of A. M. Towdney on Broadway was destroyed by fire this morning. The loss is $50,000. The flames were fanned by a strong wind and for a time the business section of the city was threatened.

WAS FLIM-FLAMMED, WANTED TO GET MAN

A Waterbury man came to Barre on Saturday afternoon to find the man who flim-flammed him out of $15 when the Robbins circus showed in Waterbury the other day. The $15 didn't look so big to him when he first lost it, but the more he thought about it, the more he wanted that $15 and satisfaction out of the man who worked the game on him.

So he came here and secured Deputies Camp and Slayton to help him in his detective work. The trio went to the circus grounds Saturday afternoon and began looking over the assortment of men that follow the circus. After a time the Waterbury man exclaimed: "There he is; there's the fellow."

The officers kept their eyes on the spotted one, but decided to make certain by looking further. Pretty soon their Waterbury friend saw another man that looked like the bunceur, and he thought he was all set. First he thought it was an old soldier, and finally he got so mixed up that the officers did not feel justified in making an arrest, although they were inclined to believe that the man had really been bunceured out of the money in a shell game.

Asked why he happened to get mixed up in the game, the Waterbury man declared that he didn't know.

"You're old enough to know better," he was told by an officer.

"Yes, I know it," sorrowfully rejoined the bunceur, "but I got excited. The man said he was an old soldier, and I'm an old soldier, too, so I just played."

"Do you know, I kinder think that you got mesmerized. When I lost the $15 I went after $200, but couldn't get it. If I'd got it, I'd have lost it sure."

"I went back to Waterbury without the money."

The local police report that there was very little gambling with the circus Saturday, if there was any. State Attorney Jackson had warned the officers to sleep on any game as soon as it was opened up, and the head man of the circus was told by Chief Brown that gambling would not be tolerated on the grounds. The performance in the big tent, while smaller than some seen in the city, was smaller than some seen in the city.

HAD LIBERTY ONLY A WEEK

Adelbert Martin Back In Insane Asylum

CAUGHT AT MORRISTOWN

Escaped From Waterbury Institution Last Monday--Tells of His Wanderings of Several Days.

Waterbury, July 9.--Adelbert Martin, the state prison convict who on last Monday escaped from the insane asylum, where he was being observed for signs of insanity, was captured in Morristown by Deputy Sheriff Andrew Smith late Saturday afternoon and was returned to the asylum here last night. Martin is serving a sentence of twelve years for entering the house of Stephen Trombley of Northfield and attacking Mrs. Trombley.

Martin's own story of his week's wandering was told yesterday in a cool, collected manner. He stated that it was his intention to earn enough money to take him out of this section of the country. But he had decided, he says, not to steal a cent of money even if he was caught and taken back to the asylum.

After escaping from the guard in the asylum grounds, where he was working as a "trusty," Martin concealed himself in a clump of woods on the asylum grounds, and there he remained all day and Monday night. On Tuesday morning he bought a breakfast for ten cents after starting his tramp. On Tuesday night he started out again and made his way, stopping in a bunch of woods within hearing of the electric railroad track between Waterbury and Stowe. Here he spent the entire Fourth, and last evening witnessed the display of fireworks at the asylum, from which he had escaped. Two times he started to return to the asylum and give himself up, but his desire for freedom compelled him to go ahead, and on Thursday morning he started. He passed through Stowe to Elmore mountain, where he stopped at the house of Frank Hamel to ask for something to eat.

Here was the beginning of his undoing. He was recognized by Mrs. Hamel, who, although greatly frightened, gave him food. While here he inquired for Myron Spaulding's. He found the place and spent Thursday night at the Spaulding's. Meanwhile Mrs. Hamel had notified her husband, who in turn passed the word to Morristown, who at once communicated with the asylum authorities, and Deputy Andrew Smith was put on the track. The deputy followed Martin to the home of a man named Wolcott and there captured his man, Martin having hired out as a farm hand.

Deputy Smith brought Martin back to the institution here Saturday morning. On his return here Martin turned over $2.75, which he had earned at the farm of Mr. Wolcott. Martin shows no signs of insanity while talking to a reporter yesterday.

LOCAL MASONS HOLD A PICNIC

Caledonia park was the scene of another merry picnic Saturday, when 60 members of the local Masonic lodges, with their wives and children, gathered there for their annual outing. The day was perfect, and the arrangements as made by the committee were successfully carried out, so that the picnic was one of the most successful that this order has ever given.

By far the most exciting affair of the day was the two-inning ball game between teams picked from the Granite lodge and from the foreign lodges. The outcome was doubtful until one of the E. L. men made the fatal error of circling the bases in the wrong direction on a four-base hit. As there were three men on bases, at the time, four runs might have been added to the score of the foreign Masons. After this accident, they seemed to lose courage and the Granite lodge won handily, with the score 9 to 3. The features of the game were the good work of the two rival pitchers, Bird and Trompe, the magnificent fielding of Jim Gohdes, and the work of Jim Marr as umpire, who used lots of latitude in his decisions. The lineup of the team was:

Granite lodge--Chesser, c.; Troupe, p.; Campbell, lb.; Melrod, 2b.; Brook, 3b.; Leslie, ss.; Morgan, H.; Young, cf.; Althoff, if.

Foreign lodge--Scott, c.; Bird, p.; Anderson, lb.; Roberts, 2b.; Conitt, 3b.; Patterson, ss.; Neal, H.; Smart, cf.; Milne, if.

The results of the races run during the afternoon were as follows: Married ladies' race--Mrs. J. Murray, Mrs. W. Gault, Mrs. J. Gaults.

Young ladies' race--Jessie Fraser, Rachel Young, Mary Thompson.

Girls' race--Loretta Stewart, Florence Merchant and Lizzie Smart.

Girls' race under 8 years--Bella Wood, Lilla Beattie, Mrs. Gault.

Boys' race--Walter Milne, George Williamson, James Stewart.

Boys' race under 8 years--Arthur Gault, Wallace Coult, and James Young.

Musical for the dancers in the pavilion was furnished by George Patterson and Alex. Colburn. The committee to whom the success of the picnic was in a large measure due was composed of William Stevens, J. Gordon, A. Troupe, A. McDonald, G. Williamson, A. Milne, A. Dundas and G. Crislesbank.

INSPECTED THEIR QUARRY.

The directors of the Wetmore & More Granite Co., went to the quarries this afternoon on a special train and an invitation was given the Inter-city ball players to go up on the same train for a view of the quarries. Most of the team went.

PROPOSED SITE FOR POST OFFICE

The fact that the government has already asked for bids for the sale of a site for the proposed postoffice building in Barre, is causing those who have available properties which they are willing to sell to get busy. There is also much discussion among citizens generally as to the possible location of the new public building. This is a matter that will be determined in a great measure by the desirability and price put on the sites offered to the government. If an owner of land on Summer street should submit a bid at a price that seemed most desirable to the government, the department would locate the building there as quickly as it would on Main street. In fact, the prospects of having the building on Main street are not so good as they are that it will be on some side street, unless the government should bid north of Granite street and take a lot. Several desirable Main street sites have been suggested, but it is most likely that the price the owners hold them at will preclude the government's taking them, though the owners of some of them may put in bids that will tempt the government to buy. A number of citizens have suggested locating the building on the rear of the library lot, facing it toward Elm street, and this may be brought up in tonight's city meeting for discussion.

Whenever the postoffice department is unable to obtain an acceptable site at a reasonable price by bid, it frequently makes selection and authorizes the department of justice to begin condemnation proceedings to acquire the same, the price being fixed by a commission.

DAN BARBER WAS DROWNED

Barre Boy Lost Life in Moosehead Lake, Me., ON SATURDAY EVENING

News of Accident Received in Barre This Morning--Body Will Arrive Home Late Today.

Dan Barber, son of Dr. C. N. Barber, and one of the most popular young men of Barre, was drowned in Moosehead lake, Maine, Saturday night, the information reaching here this morning. Beyond the added fact that the body was being brought home by Edward Belleville, also of Barre, who was engaged with the young man in railroad construction work, there were no further details of the sad affair. Dr. Barber and son, Newell, left this afternoon for Woodville, N. H., where they will meet Mr. Belleville and bring the body home late today.

The young man, with Mr. Belleville, was in charge of a large railroad building contract, taken by W. C. Jones of this city. They were building a track for the Bangor & Aroostook railroad from Millinocket to Woodville, which is in the Moosehead lake region, and some distance from any large place. Mr. Jones was in charge of a former contract at Somerset, Me.

Dan Barber was born on the farm, where his father resides, in the Town of Barre, near the East Montpelier line. He was born 23 years ago last May and spent all his life in Barre. He attended Spaulding high school and Montpelier seminary. On leaving school he entered the employ of E. A. Drown, druggist, and remained in his employ for several years. He then caused him to give up that line of work and looking about for outdoor occupation, he accepted a position in railroad construction work with W. C. Jones last summer. He did so well that when Mr. Jones took another contract last spring he again engaged the young man, and when still another contract was given, Mr. Barber was assigned with Mr. Belleville to take charge. It was while engaged in this that he lost his life.

The news of his death came as a distinct shock to the young man's many friends in Barre, for he was held in sincere regard by them, and was known for his many admirable qualities made him popular with all. He was a member of Vinitia lodge, Knights of Pythias. Besides his parents, the deceased leaves five brothers and sisters.

While awaiting the transfer at Montpelier, the body will be taken from the train at the East Montpelier station, which is only a short distance from the Barber home. On the arrival of Dr. Barber, announcement of the funeral arrangements will be made.

Friends can secure information at Drown's drug store or from Mr. Willey at the East Montpelier station, which if the funeral is to be held tomorrow afternoon.

JOHN HARRINGTON DROWNED LAST NIGHT

Troubles developed thick and fast at the electric power station of the Viles company at Middlesex this morning.

While a diligent search was being made for the body of John H. Harrington, one of the employees, who was drowned just below the dam last night, two transformers in the plant were burned out, shutting off the current and causing stone sheds, printing plants and others to be deprived of motive power.

The drowned man, who was Saturday night, Harrington, the victim of a bathing at 7:30 with two other employees, Edwin Metcalf and F. T. Carson. They were in a place which is known as the "eddy," fifteen feet deep and 100 feet wide. Harrington swam across the river and then without stopping re-started to swim back. About half way across the second time, his companions saw that he was in distress. The went to his aid and McGoff got hold of Harrington, only to lose his grip. Harrington sank and did not resume to the surface.

The search for the body was at once started and men worked late into the night, the water being run out to enable them to get down to the many crevices at the foot of the perpendicular cliff. Again this morning the water was run off, but without finding the body.

Harrington was 15 years of age and his home was in Randolph center. He graduated from the Randolph normal school in 1904 and came to learn the electric lighting business at the Viles plant.

There was the usual aftermath
