$10.00, $12.50, $15.00 and $16.00 Suits reduced to $7.50. Never mind, we are going to take the loss cheerfully and are determined not to carry over a single Suit.

There are 35 Ladies' Suits in this lot, some are made with Pony effect jackets, all are up-to-date and are tastily trimmed. A few of this lot of Suits were $10.00 but the greater part were $12.50 and $15.00 and some as high as $16.00. All of these Suits go at the same price, $7.50.

There is no reason why you should not have that Suit that you have wanted. If you don't need it now, it will be a good investment to buy for the future. Be the first to make your selection from this lot, as of course the best are always picked out first.

Houses of the Nations.

Most civilized countries take a very reliable census of the number of buildings within their dominions. Thus we find that Russia heads the list in respect to the number of houses in any country. She has 11,438,000, or as many as the United Kingdom and Italy combined, for we have but 7,100,000 and make a poor second to France, with its 9,080,000. Germany has about 6,000,000 houses and Holland 729,000. But in point of value we are a long way ahead of any European power. Houses in the United Kingdom are worth $2,424,000,000, while Russia's are only valued at $701,000,000. France's building property is worth $1,704,000,000, being about $500,000,000 more than Germany. The United States is very rich in property, the value of her 11,400,000 houses being set down as $2,850,000,000.—Answers.

Ellis Island Restaurant.

There are some pretty big restaurants in New York, and some of them feed as many people in a day as would make up the whole population of a small town. But it is doubtful if any restaurant serves more meals the year around than that on Ellis Island, which caters to everybody from the commissioner down to the poorest immigrant who, for lack of cash, is awaiting deportation. On an average 4,000 meals a day are served on tables, to say nothing of the hundreds of meals packed in boxes to be carried away by immigrants going to the interior. And there are no deadbeats. Every meal served except to the restaurant help is paid for. The commissioner and his chief aids have a special dining room, with silver, china, glass and linen that no hotel would be ashamed of.—New York Sun.

The Irish Language.

The Irish language has only eighteen letters. The chief difficulty in learning it is that there are innumerable abbreviations for words and phrases. The words, too, are rarely a key to the correct pronunciation.

They Burned Cloves.

From the middle of the sixteenth century until 1824 the Dutch regulated or sought to regulate the clove trade and the price by annually destroying a portion of the crop in order to enhance the price of the remainder. The burning of cloves took place annually, from a quarter to a half of the crop being thus destroyed. The last clove burning was in 1824.

WOODSVILLE.

Postmaster F. P. Dearth and family have gone to Wells Beach, Me., where they have taken a cottage for a month.

Arrangements have been begun for the annual fair in aid of the Cottage hospital, which will be held October 31, November 1 and 2.

The Rev. C. F. McIntire, who began his labors as pastor of the Universalist church on the first of the month, is making a fine impression by his pulpit efforts.

Though the vote passed at the special Haverhill town meeting in regard to the North Haverhill and Newbury bridge was to unite with the town of Newbury in the purchase of the bridge for the purpose of repairing it and maintaining it as a free bridge, it should be said that no money will be expended in its purchase, since H. W. Keyes, who purchased the bridge of the stockholders a few months since, gives it to the town. The bridge is now closed, but the work of repair will be begun immediately.

COAST DEFENSE FORTS.

A Scheme That Will Make New York Practically Impregnable.

"Very new and modern are the all most automatic forts," writes C. M. Sullivan in Technical World Magazine, "no modern, indeed, that the installation of comparatively few of them has been completed. But so complete is the confidence of all the experts in their inviolability that $50,000,000 is to be spent at once by the United States alone in the perfection of its coast defense. Of this amount at least $1,000,000 will be expended at Forts Hamilton and Schuyler, guarding the harbor of New York.

"In coast defense work the first necessity is to be always prepared for attack, never to be caught napping. With this idea in view small ships of a new type and great speed are being built for scouting purposes. Telephone systems, supplementing the telegraph, are being built along the whole coast line, each station connected with the nearest fortress. Coast guards and lookouts are being furnished with portable searchlights, and each observer will carry with him a portable telephone, the receiver clamped to his ear so that he may be in constant touch with the officer in command of the fire control station. More remarkable still is the flying periscope, a scientific combination of telescope and camera, which will automatically take snapshots showing the details of everything visible on land and water within a distance of ten or even twenty miles.

"In practice it has been found possible to locate a target five or six miles away, make the necessary calculations, aim and fire a gun and drop a shot exactly on the specified spot, all within three or four minutes."

Americanization of Guanajuato.

Guanajuato! Fix that name of a state in Mexico in your mind. It is a name you will see constantly in print and hear frequently on the lips of investors from now on, for Guanajuato is today what California was in 1849 and what the Klondike was in 1897 and a little more, for Guanajuato is a gold and silver mining region of known enormous production. It is the application of Americanism in this district, however, in the shape of newly invented machinery and the most up to date methods in mining, that makes this a new El Dorado.

Cecil Rhodes in his last public speech before his death declared that the "richest mining country in the world is Mexico." "The consensus of opinion of scientists," added the gold mine king, "is that Mexico will furnish gold and silver for the whole world from the mines of the Aztec country."—Gleason Willet's Mexico Letter in Leslie's Weekly.

From the middle of the sixteenth century until 1824 the Dutch regulated or sought to regulate the clove trade and the price by annually destroying a portion of the crop in order to enhance the price of the remainder. The burning of cloves took place annually, from a quarter to a half of the crop being thus destroyed. The last clove burning was in 1824.
