JACK MCKNIGHT'S SUCCESS.

Has Made Good With the May Hillman Company.

Jack McKnight, who appears on the Barre opera stage tonight with the May Hillman Co., is well known in Barre, where his home was until he ran away in August, 1905, to join the May Hillman company at Sherbrooke. His parents were much opposed to their son going on the stage, and his good bye as he left Barre was: "Mac, it's a long, hard walk from Sherbrooke."

The juvenile man of the company was suddenly taken ill, and on a two hours' notice Jack took his part. His success encouraged him to settle down to good work and study, and as a result he is engaged by Mrs. Hillman to go with a big one-night stand production, which she is to exploit next season.
