THEY STAND OUT FROM THE CROWD

Men who study the Shoe subject thoroughly and impartially, study it in all its phases from the stand-points of style, comfort, fit, durability and price, must in the end become confirmed wearers of Shoes of Character and Individuality, of the kind "that stand out from the crowd."

That is the kind we sell. The tendency of footwear shoemakers is to specialize, to bring some certain shoe to perfection. Realizing this, the best shoes from the best makers are selected here and that is why you find so great a diversity of styles and leathers at this store. We haven't a "corner" on all the fine shoes made but certainly have the largest and best selection in this section.

That our efforts to give the maximum value at the various prices asked is appreciated is shown by the steadily increasing number of satisfied customers. Men's good Shoes $3.00 to $5.00.

The police had a call for their assistance from a house on lower North Main street last night, some boarders who had been turned off threatened to do dire things if they were not reinstated. Everything was serene when the police arrived.

The Montpelier fire alarm performed queer antics last night during the severe electrical storm. At one time the whistles sounded a series of calls and later the bell was playfully tapped once or twice when a current of electricity ran in over the wire. The storm followed an extremely hot day for the month of September.

A Graceful Farce-Comedy.
Nat M. Wills literally filled the Acaemy with laughter last night, says the Montreal Star. His show, "The Lucky Dog," is written to give full scope to the holy's dranks, and Mr. Wills loses no opportunities. With joke and gesture and catchy song he carries his audience easily along until he has them all in his power. There is no rough-house work or buffoonery about his acting. His humor is true, and he can turn it in an instant—as he does once or twice in the play—with a touch of pathos that commands perfect silence.

Mr. Wills plays the part of "Happy Holmes," the central tramp, whose misfortunes have made him lose all interest in life. He falls in with the hero of the play and acts as his messenger to his sweetheart, who is shut up in a boarding school. The school mistress is an aunt of Dalton, the villain, and aids him in all his schemes. Holmes has a new, along just as Dalton is proposing to the imprisoned girl. She rejects his suit and throws away his ring. Holmes gets his every wish, as the ring has magic powers. But Holmes is ignorant of its value, and gives it away. It falls again into the hands of Dalton, and he attempts to force the heroine to marry one of his friends. She has just consented when Holmes happens along, regains possession of the ring and put all right again. The girl happens to be his long-lost sister. Dalton and his associates are exposed; the ring is given to an Indian priest, from whose god it had been stolen, and all is well in the sequel.

The above company played at the Academy of Music in Montreal the past week, and is playing a week of one-night stands before opening at the Globe theatre in Boston next Monday. At the opera house Tuesday, September 11. Tickets now on sale.

Chauncey Olcott is appearing in "Eileen Ashmore," a new romantic Irish drama written for him by Theodore Burt Sayre. The play furnishes Mr. Olcott opportunity to sing several catchy songs of his own composition.

John C. Fisher has arranged to produce a musical comedy, yet unnamed, by Robert Smith and Raymond Hubbell. Miss Katie Barry and John C. Slavin will head the company as dual stars. The latter is now in England, but has been cabled to return.
