PRICE OF RARE CENTS DROPS.

Sale of 109 Specimens of the 1856 Issue Cuts Value from $15 to $7.

Philadelphia, Nov. 30.—The collection of rare coins of the late W. B. Leeds, the first mayor of Atlantic City, and that resort's oldest citizen, was sold here Tuesday and Wednesday at public auction.

Ten United States three dollar gold pieces netted $350; eighteen gold dollars, $182; United States dollar, silver, 1850, $37; half dollar, 1794, $25; an 1864 cent, $99.

Mr. Leeds and two other numismatists tried to corner the small United States cent of 1856, and 109 specimens of this coin were sold Wednesday. The price, which has heretofore ranged from 25 cents in 1856 to $15 at present, dropped to about $7. A Pittsburg collector holds 250 of these coins, of which date several thousand were struck.

The total amount realized for the 109 specimens Wednesday was about $763.31, single specimens reaching $30 each. The entire sale netted about $7,000.

Mrs. Dunlevy of Brattleboro Alleges Breach of Promise

DEFENDANT E. J. FENTON

He Will Fight the Case—Stenographer Claims That He Refused to Marry Her After Making Promise.

Brattleboro, Nov. 30.—A breach of promise suit in which the plaintiff asks damages in the sum of $15,000 is the subject of absorbing interest here. The suit was brought Wednesday by Miss Katherine G. Dunlevy, stenographer, against Edward J. Fenton, a well known merchant. Both are young people, Miss Dunlevy being about 30 years old. They have been together from six to eight years. Miss Dunlevy has worn a diamond ring several years, but her young woman friends has understood that it was the gift of a relative and not an engagement ring.

as bearing on the question of the engagement. Miss Dunlevy, who is an attractive and Schwenk and H. G. Barber of Brattleboro and Butler and Moloney of Rutland as counsel, and Mr. Fenton has engaged Robert C. Bacon of Brattleboro. Miss Dunlevy, who is an attractive young woman, formerly was private secretary to Congressman Kittredge Haskins. More recently she was stenographer in the office of the Vermont Farm Machine company at Bellows Falls, and she now has a similar position in H. G. Barber's office. Her home is in Brattleboro.

The suit is returnable at the April term of the Windham county court.

PRESIDENT R. R. KILLED

Prominent People of New York IN REAR END COLLISION

Samuel Spencer, President of Southern Railway, and Party on a Hunting Trip in Virginia, Killed Near Lynchburg.

Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 30.—Samuel Spencer, president of the Southern Railway, was killed yesterday as the result of a rear-end collision at Layfers, Va., distant eleven miles from this city. His body was so terribly burned as to render recognition all but impossible.

Philip Schuyler of New York, who was one of President Spencer's party, riding in a private car at the rear of the Jacksonville limited, was also killed. D. W. Davis, manager of the Southern Railway telegraph office at Washington, and who was acting as Mr. Spencer's special train despatcher, died as the result of terrible injuries, and Engineer Perly of the train which crashed into the car of the president, met instant death.

Charles B. Fisher and A. D. Redmond of Baltimore, members of Mr. Spencer's party, are missing. Mr. Merrill, private secretary to Mr. Spencer, was slightly injured. Mr. Spencer was on his way south with a party of friends for a brief hunting trip. Several members of the party were seriously injured, but it is said, not fatally. However, there is one unrecognizable body, which may be that of one of the party.

RHEUMATISM A Successful Rival

Mrs. Cota, Confined to Bed and in Constant Pain, Was Permanently Cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

Every Sufferer from Rheumatism Should Read This Statement of a Grateful Woman.

Rheumatism can be inherited and that fact proves it to be a disease of the blood. It is necessary, therefore, to treat it through the blood if a permanent cure is expected.

Remember Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do not act on the bowels. They make new blood and restore shattered nerves. In this way they carry health and vigor to every organ and fiber of the body. They tone up the stomach and restore impaired digestion, bring refreshing sleep, give strength to the weak and make miserable, complaining people strong, hungry and energetic. And they are guaranteed to contain nothing that can injure the most delicate constitution. They are sold by all druggists, or will be sent postpaid on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

The Times' Daily Short Story.

A Successful Rival

(Original.) It is not unusual for either a man or a woman to come between an engaged couple, but it is unusual for the course of true love to be turned away by a horse. The story begins back in the days when the Indians in the west were constantly breaking away from their reservations and slaughtering all palefaces who came in their way.

When a friendly redskin rode into the inclosure and announced the coming of his fellows, every man being needed for defense, Florence Brooks volunteered to ride to the nearest post, fifty miles distant, for succor. Lieutenant Howard Whiting, in command, placed her on his own Kentucky bred horse, Comanche, and sent her flying out of the fort, shouting after her, "Their lives depend upon you!"

And now the view of alkali plains surrounding Fort R. has changed to vacant lots on the outskirts of a city. Miss Brooks rides in a trolley car instead of on horseback, and Lieutenant Whiting spends the greater part of the day in a recruiting office in one of the dingiest streets of the city. But early in the afternoon he leaves his sergeant in charge and, mounted on Comanche, rides past Miss Brooks' abode. She is watching for him from an upper window. He raises his hat, and from behind the curtain she throws him a kiss.

But for one thing the lover would be supremely happy. He is jealous of Comanche. "Why," he asked on joining his fiancée after one of his rides, "do you always feast your eyes on my horse and pay no attention to me? This afternoon when I rode by you didn't even see when I raised my hat. You waved your hand long after I had done so."

formed her that he had sold Comanche. The reason he gave for doing so was that he had been ordered to rejoin his regiment in the west, and Comanche having become old, besides gone lame, the lieutenant would not feel warranted in transporting him so far, especially as he would need a serviceable animal. Miss Brooks looked astounded when the news was imparted to her and argued long and well against the necessity for the sale. But Whiting had nothing but his pay, which was not sufficient to keep so expensive a pet, and she was obliged to admit, which she did reluctantly, that he could hardly have done otherwise. They parted with an embrace, warm enough on the part of the man, but not the girl.

However, it gradually came over Miss Brooks—planning as she was for the coming wedding—that Comanche could not have been included in the calculations. Indeed, it was very difficult for her to figure out the problem of living on Whiting's pay, even without what Comanche would have cost. She had an income of $800, which she must relinquish upon her marriage. This left only a second lieutenant's pay, with commutation for fuel and quarters, on which the couple must live. After all, Whiting was right.

There is no doubt that all would have gone well had it not been for a certain inopportune meeting. One morning while Miss Brooks was out buying her trousseau she saw a man driving a cart with an enormous load on it. The horse was unable to get it up an incline, and the driver was laboring him unmercifully. Miss Brooks, naturally fond of horses, approached to protest. The horse turned his head, looked at her out of a pair of melancholy eyes and whinnied. He was Comanche!

Miss Brooks embraced him and wept! The next mail carried to Lieutenant Whiting a breaking of the engagement from Miss Brooks. No satisfactory reason was given. The real reason was that she loved Comanche better than Whiting. On her income, which, if not married, she would retain till death, she could live and take care of Comanche. She bought him for $50 and kept him in royal equine style.

Comanche lived five years after being rescued from the melancholy position into which his master had sold him. Then Miss Brooks, after a decent period of widowhood, began to think of her lover of other days. He, hearing that his rival was dead, sought her. They were married and went to live at the post where he was stationed.

"Whiting," said his colonel bantlingly one day, "I hear your wife kept you waiting five years while she lavished her affections on a horse. I didn't know I had an officer under my command with so little capacity for pleasing the fair sex."

"Colonel," replied Whiting, "I would much rather have been kept waiting for the woman I love by a horse than by some man I have known."

SCHMITZ NOW FACES HIS FOES

San Francisco's Indicted Mayor Arrives Home and Gets a Remarkable Reception from the Public.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 30.—Mayor Eugene Schmitz, who cut short his European trip to hasten home to face the charges of extortion and graft in office, on which he was indicted by the grand jury during his absence, was warmly welcomed on his arrival at midnight Wednesday night.

From 7 o'clock in the evening until after midnight four thousand people, among them many women, crowded the Dreamland Pavilion to its fullest capacity and hour after hour waited with remarkable patience for the mayor's arrival. Outside more than a thousand people who could not gain entrance to the pavilion, stood for hours in the street to get a glimpse of the indicted mayor, who was returning to his city under arrest, in the custody of a deputy sheriff, who served a warrant on him when he reached Truchee, Cal., Wednesday.

At the ferry about eight hundred persons, headed by a reception committee, gathered early in the evening to welcome the returning mayor, but as hour after hour passed and the mayor's train was announced as being later and later the chill wind drove most of the crowd home until it had dwindled down to the reception committee and about two hundred persons. When the mayor arrived he was quickly driven to the Pavilion at Post and Steiner streets.

The arrangements for the mayor's reception was in the hands of a committee of one hundred merchants, business men, and prominent union labor leaders, of which Fred L. Mathews was chairman. The mayor arrived at the Pavilion at 12:25. The police fought a passageway through the crowd in the entrance, and as he entered the place the entire house arose to its feet and cheered for four minutes. In a voice choked with emotion, Mayor Schmitz spoke as follows: "I can hardly express how grateful I feel in receiving such a reception after being so maligned by the worst set of newspapers that ever cursed a man's name."

DESPERATE FILIPINO KILLED.

Pedro de la Cruz Slain in Samar and Twenty Outlaws Wounded.

Manila, Nov. 30.—Governor Curry, of the island of Samar, reports a desperate fight between Filipinos and volunteers near Abalate on Monday. Pedro de la Cruz, an outlaw chief, was killed and twenty of his followers were wounded. La Cruz, who was second in command of the Samar bandits, was recognized as a desperate character and had been fighting since 1896. His followers believed him invulnerable.

ALL LOVED TEACHER.

Hammond, Ind., Nov. 30.—Miss Genevieve McGraw, the prettiest school teacher in Hammond, the idol of all the scholars and the acknowledged belle of the town, has been asked to resign because everybody falls in love with her. She was graduated from the Milwaukee normal school little more than a year ago. Her recommendations from the superintendent were in such glowing terms that Superintendent of Schools C. M. Daniels of Hammond knew he had a prize teacher.

Miss McGraw never missed a day at school, never neglected a pupil, never allowed her social duties to interfere with her professional work. She has been a model of propriety. She has been received in the best homes in Hammond. She is only 18 years of age, but her beauty has upset the social fabric of the city.
