The trustees of the university of Vermont have decided to place two large Barre granite pillars in front of the Merrill hall, which is now being erected on the college campus in Burlington. The pillars are to be of light stock, 28 feet in length, two and a half feet in diameter and highly polished. The building has already been erected to the second story.

The find of the season seems to be the Tufts freshman baritone soloist, Mr. E. D. MacCurdy. His voice has that wonderfully pleasing combination of brilliancy and sweetness which characterizes the best baritones. He appears in several numbers serious and humorous, but his "piece de resistance" is his solo in Bullard's "Sword of Ferrara." You can hear him at the opera house Friday night, February 8.

The greatest clearance sale of the season is now on at A. A. Smith & Brothers.
