

TIRED AND SICK YET MUST WORK

"Man may work from sun to sun but woman's work is never done." In order to keep the home neat and pretty, the children well dressed and tidy, women overdo and often suffer in silence, drifting along from bad to worse, knowing well that they ought to have help to overcome the pains and aches which daily make life a burden.

It is to these women that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, comes as a blessing. When the spirits are depressed, the head and back aches, there are dragging-down pains, nervousness, sleeplessness, and reluctance to go anywhere, these are only symptoms which unless heeded, are soon followed by the worst forms of Female Complaints.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound keeps the feminine organism in a strong and healthy condition. It cures inflammation, ulceration, displacements, and organic troubles. In preparing for child-birth and to carry women safely through the Change of Life it is most efficient.

Mrs. Augustus Lyon, of East Earl, Pa., writes:—Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—"For a long time I suffered from female troubles and had all kinds of aches and pains in the lower part of back and sides, I could not sleep and had no appetite. Since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and following the advice which you gave me I feel like a new woman and I cannot praise your medicine too highly."

Mrs. Pinkham's Invitation to Women Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Out of her vast volume of experience she probably has the very knowledge that will help your case. Her advice is free and always helpful.

KNOUTING INNOCENT PEOPLE

Russian Troops at Lodz Revenging Themselves

FOR ATTEMPTS ON THEM

Brutality Excites Warsaw—Fresh Revolutionary Outbreaks Are Feared in Polish Capital—Wild Scenes Throughout Russia.

Warsaw, Russian Poland, March 15.—The conduct of the troops at Lodz, where the soldiers are daily knouting scores of innocent persons and beating others with the butt ends of their rifles, in revenge for the almost daily attacks made on soldiers by gangs of terrorists, is dangerously inflaming the people here, and fresh revolutionary outbreaks are feared.

The authorities of Warsaw have instituted the most strict preventive measures, and the public buildings are guarded by infantry, while Cossacks are patrolling the streets. This is still further exciting the populace.

Lodz, Russian Poland, March 15.—The situation here is increasing in gravity. Terrorists attacked another patrol yesterday morning, killing a policeman and a soldier and wounding two soldiers. A number of arrests followed.

The military governor has issued orders that hereafter all persons passing near police or soldiers must take their hands out of their pockets. Otherwise they will be arrested.

Yelisevetgrad, Russia, March 15.—On the occasion of the funeral Wednesday of a prominent reactionary who was killed by revolutionists, an attempt was made to start anti-Jewish excesses. Rioters began beating Jews in the streets and sacking the bazars and Jewish lodgings, but they were stopped by the prompt intervention of the troops.

Several Jews were wounded, one of whom died in the hospital. The local rabbi has telegraphed complaints to the lower house of parliament and to Premier Stolypin.

An estate in this vicinity was attacked Wednesday by robbers, who bound and then beheaded the proprietor, five laborers and a woman.

Two witnesses of the slaughter—a soldier who hid in a haystack, and a child—lost their reason, and the soldier subsequently died in a hospital in delirium. The body secured by the murderers amounted to $1,000.

Briansk, Russia, March 15.—Two paymasters from the arsenal here at noon yesterday were attacked in the principal street here by a number of robbers, who opened fire on them with revolvers, seized their money bags containing $6,000, and decamped.

St. Petersburg, March 15.—The Grand Duke Michael, brother of Emperor Nicholas, has given $100,000 for the relief of the famine sufferers, and has sold to the Peasant Bank for distribution to the peasantry 65,000 acres of his estates in Orel province at an average price of $14 per acre.

The Peasant Bank has now contracted to purchase 3,212,000 acres of land.

103 BODIES OF VICTIMS OF THE JENA RECOVERED.

So Badly Disfigured That Very Few Can Be Identified.

Toulon, March 15.—Up to the present 103 bodies of victims of the explosion, March 12, on board the battleship Jena, had been recovered. Very few of them could be identified.

The difficult task of recovering the dead from the bulk of the wreckage continued throughout Wednesday night, tens of survivors of the crew participating in the work. The bodies recovered were transported on gun carriages, covered with the tricolor flag, to the mortuary before daylight, in order to avoid harrowing spectacles and increasing the sorrow of the distracted relatives.

Most of the injured men are making favorable progress toward recovery.

Paris, March 15.—President Fallieres has decided to attend the funeral of the victims of the battleship Jena disaster at Toulon, which will occur March 16. The president will leave Paris this evening for the south.

The Times' Daily Short Story.

A DIPLOMATIC POINTER.

[Original.]

When Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Compton appeared in Washington, there was some difficulty in making them out. It was generally conceded that Mrs. Compton was of a superior grade to her husband—that is, she had the manners of society, which her husband had not. Mr. Compton laughed rather loudly, while Mrs. Compton laughed very softly, though an expert in caste would have detected that it was rather artificial than natural.

The minister from Auraná—there is no such country as Auraná; the name is used to stand for a kingdom which it would not do to mention openly—became devoted to Mrs. Compton. Either this or Mrs. Compton became devoted to the ambassador. We must have a name for the minister, so we will call him the Marquis of Caribas. He was regarded as one of the brightest of the diplomatic corps and withal the most reticent. He had a way of furnishing items to reporters without giving them information which, though it did not satisfy, never antagonized them.

"Marquis," said Mrs. Compton one evening when with the ambassador, "there is a rumor that the war between your people and the Wisterians"—another fictitious name—"is about to cease. I hear the United States will intervene."

"All depends upon the emperor of Wisteria."

"Indeed! What do you Auranians expect him to do?"

"We expect him to do nothing."

"That implies that he is bent on doing something."

"If so it is the first time he has ever done anything. He is the laziest sovereign on the face of the earth."

"I thought possibly that you would trust me just a little since we have become such good friends," said the lady, with a hurt expression. "I don't see how you diplomats ever marry; you must always have secrets from the woman who loves you."

As Mrs. Compton spoke the last words she looked up meaningly at the marquis.

"My dear Mrs. Compton," he replied, "I know nothing as yet of the subject you are mentioning. Ask me something that I know—the methods, for instance, by which we diplomats act—and I will show you that any woman who—loves me will be repaid for her devotion."

"Well, then, how do you communicate important information to your sovereign without having it known to the world?"

"By a cipher code."

"What is your code?"

"It is too complicated to make you familiar with it except by considerable instruction."

Mrs. Compton pondered; then she asked, "What's your word for peace?"

"Pax," replied the marquis.

"Pax? What a funny word! What's your word for war?"

"Vobiscum."

"Pax and vobiscum! Seems to me I've heard something like that somewhere."

Mrs. Compton had made a step in a plan she had formed and began to consider her next one. Presently she added:

"Promise me one thing."

"Anything."

"Telephone me when you are about to send your cablegram on this subject to your sovereign."

"If there is time."

"Keep me posted as to when you expect the matter to be settled, and I will go at a moment's notice."

"I promise."

A few days later Mrs. Compton was summoned to the Auranian embassy. Calling a carriage, she proceeded thither at a rapid pace. She was ushered into the marquis' private office.

"I am sending an important message to my government," he said. "It is impossible without betraying a sacred trust to show it to you. I am going into the other office for a few moments, and you will be alone here."

He looked meaningly at a paper lying on his desk and went out. Mrs. Compton rushed to the paper and ran her eye over a number of words which to her were meaningless. But one attracted her attention—the word pax. When the marquis returned she gave him a look indicating her profound appreciation of his act. Returning to her hotel, she found her husband waiting for her.

"Well!" he exclaimed eagerly. "It's peace."

Without a word he rushed to his telephone and, calling up his New York stockbroker, ordered him to buy a million in Auranian bonds immediately.

Mr. and Mrs. Compton's expectation that peace would be announced and the bonds rise in price was disappointed. There was no intervention, no peace. She did not see the Marquis of Caribas again, for he soon after took his vacation. The bonds sank in price, and Mr. Compton's were sold out at a loss.

One day the couple went to a Roman Catholic church to hear some fine music, and during the services the priest pronounced the words "Pax vobiscum."

They looked at each other meaningly. Later, meeting a priest, Mrs. Compton asked him what the words meant.

"Peace be with you," replied the priest, and Mrs. Compton thanked him and said good morning.

The marquis told the story when he reached home illustrative of the curiosity of Americans and American women especially.

"But how did you introduce the word pax?" asked a listener.

"Oh, the cipher includes certain check words here and there that mean nothing. I used pax for one of them."

MME. HELENA MODJESKA AS "LADY MACBETH," BARRE OPERA HOUSE TUESDAY EVENING, MARCH 19th.

PRaises ADMIRAL DAVIS.

Foreign Secretary Grey Replies to Question.

London, March 15.—The conduct of Rear Admiral Davis, U. S. N., at the time of the Kingston earthquake, was brought up in the House of Commons yesterday in a hypothetical question by Jesse Collings, who asked if it was in accordance with international law for an admiral of a foreign country to land an armed force in a British colony without the permission of the governor.

Foreign Secretary Grey in reply said: "No, and I may add, no such rights were claimed in the incident referred to. What I am convinced of is that while in the presence of such a catastrophe there naturally was a certain amount of misunderstanding, the American admiral was inspired by single-minded motives and a desire to relieve suffering. Any other construction placed on his action is most unworthy and untrue."

FIGURING ON OPENING.

Boston May Put Oberlin in Box on the First Game.

Little Rock, Ark., March 15.—There is already guessing as to the pitcher that will face the Boston nine in the first game of the season at Philadelphia.

Some here think Dyer will do the work with his split ball, some believe that it will be "Rube" Waddell, and then again others have it that it will be Plank. I would not be surprised in the least if young Oberlin was given a chance to win his spots in that contest.

He certainly looks good.

There will be some faces missing from the present array of players before the club departs from Canton, Ohio, for Washington, April 9.

Barney Dreyfus seems to be of the opinion that Oberlin will not be able to stand the gaff, but if Barney is correct in his forecast, he will have it on every one of the Boston array who have seen this young man pitch. Time will show.

The players of the Boston club were talking about Pat Hynes, the St. Louis ball tosser, who was killed in a scrap in a bar room in that city Tuesday.

He was with the St. Louis Americans in 1905, and won a game for them in the fall series with the Boston Americans by one of those wonderful one-hand running catches which are never forgotten. Collins made the drive to right center, and the ball looked good for three bases at least. It seemed fairly impossible for anyone to handle the ball, but Hynes made a great run and by a supreme effort succeeded in just reaching the ball with one hand, and it stuck there.

E. D. MORGAN'S HORSES BURNED. Valuable Stock on Long Island Estate Perishes in $100,000 Fire.

New York, March 15.—When Edwin D. Morgan's coach-house and stable on his estate at Wreatley Hills, the highest point on Long Island, were destroyed by fire, 30 horses, valued at $100,000, perished. The animals were blue-blooded winners, the property of Mr. Morgan, Mrs. Morgan and their daughter.

SCHOOL INCIDENT CLOSED

San Francisco Lives up to Its Agreement

RESOLUTION RESCINDED

Case in Federal Court Will Now Be Quashed—Passport Amendment Was Yesterday Signed by the President.

San Francisco, March 15.—The San Francisco Board of Education keeping its word with President Roosevelt has unanimously rescinded the resolution of last October by which Japanese were segregated in the San Francisco public schools and adopted an alternative resolution in accordance with the understanding reached at the Washington conference attended by the President, Secretary Root, the School Board, and Mayor Schmitz. The board then sent the following telegram:

"San Francisco, March 13.—Theodore Roosevelt, President of the United States:

"At a regular meeting of the Board of Education, held this afternoon, a resolution as agreed upon with you was adopted unanimously. Certified copy was given to United States District Attorney Devlin.

(Signed) "Lawrence F. Walsh, President Board of Education."

The President having telegraphed Mayor Schmitz that he would direct Mr. Devlin to dismiss the suits against the Board of Education in the United States Circuit court and in the supreme court of California, as soon as the action stated should be taken by the board, members of that body look on the Japanese incident as now closed as far as San Francisco is concerned. There is, however, it is said, an unwritten reservation to the effect that should the President's reciprocal promises to the Board regarding discretionary restriction of coolie immigration not be carried out the Board may feel at liberty to re-adopt the October resolution and again segregate the Japanese.

President Will Sign Immigration Bill today—School Case Dismissed

Washington, March 15.—Following the receipt of a telegram from President Walsh of the San Francisco board of education announcing the carrying into effect of the agreement reached at the recent conference here between the President, Secretary Root, the San Francisco mayor and school board and others, on the Japanese question, President Roosevelt today will sign an order putting into effect the passport amendment bill. The case pending in California, instituted by the Federal authorities to test the constitutionality of the law segregating Japanese children, will now be dismissed.

One Kind of Perfection.
