CARPETS AND RUGS

If you need Rugs or Carpets, you will find them at this store.

We never boast or brag, still we do not feel that we can afford to let the day slip by without a word for our Carpet section.

The happy feature of this showing is that not one pattern or design is old or contains a blending of colors disagreeable to the eye. Everything breathes of newness and shows the choicest to be had in Carpets and Floor Coverings. Call and see them.

Cedarine Furniture Polish

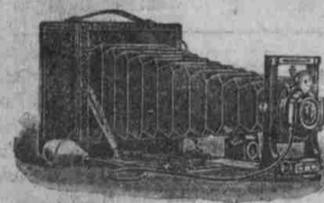

We are giving with each bottle of Cedarine Furniture Polish, as long as they last, pieces of Mount Vesuvius lava, obtained by the manufacturers of Cedarine last year during the eruption.

Those having used Cedarine will need no further explanation of its qualities. To those who have never used it we will say that for furniture, pianos, automobiles, etc., it is the very finest preparation in the world for cleaning and renewing all kinds of finished woods. It removes grease, scratches, fly specks, mars, finger marks, etc.

As a curiosity the chunk of lava is well worth the 25c you get the two for.

FASHION STRAWS.

Millinery Hints—Fads in Separate Wraps.

A smart little toque is made with a crown of pale pink neapolitan and a brim straight up and down, for it is more of a turban than a toque. This upright brim is of folds of shaded rose red taffeta silk arranged in little twist-like loops fastened tightly to the foundation. At the top, quite near the front larger loops form a loose choux, and from these two feathery quills start, one longer than the other.

One of the strictest veils for spring millinery is point d'esprit, with a border of lace bands applied by hand. Sage green, leaf brown and elephant gray are the colors in which it exploits itself.

Coats and skirts that disagree in material, but harmonize in color, are found at smart tailors'. A fetching costume of cameo colored pongee had a loose jacket of another oriental silk with an indistinct shadow effect in the weave. Perhaps the most predominant millinery feature of the season is the drooping effect in which the trimming is arranged at the back of the hat. It is not at all uncommon for the mass of feathers or feathers to reach nearly or quite to the shoulders, and long streamers of ribbon are much used.

The peculiarity of the present blouse is its trim shapeliness and small waist line. The touch which gave it its name is a mere memory.

The costume pictured is in one of the new brown panama cloths and is trimmed with silk braid. The collar and cuffs are of tucked muslin and lace in lingerie style. JUDIC CHOLLET.
