POSITIVE PROOF

Should Convince the Greatest Skeptic in Barre. Because it's the evidence of a Barre citizen. Testimony easily investigated. The strongest endorsement of merit. The best proof. Read it: G. W. Brown, carpenter, of 11 Brook street, Barre, Vt., says: "Since I gave my first statement recommending Doan's Kidney Pills some eight years ago I have never failed to advise their use whenever occasion has arisen. I had strained myself and it affected my kidneys and weakened my back. I paid little attention to it at first, but my back kept getting worse and worse and there was considerable difficulty with the kidney secretions, which were highly colored and very annoying especially at night. I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a box at E. A. Brown's drug store. After I had taken them a few days I noticed the pain in my back was not so bad and the kidney secretions were becoming more natural. I continued using Doan's Kidney Pills until entirely free from my former troubles. Since that time I have used them on different occasions when I have suffered from slight attacks and always with success, and I have recommended them to others time and time again. In the case of a friend who was suffering from a bad case of kidney trouble the use of this remedy absolutely cured him."

Where the Fore and After Boats the Square Rigger. The ability of the schooner to meet the requirements of present day conditions, while the square riggers have been found wanting, can be readily understood when we take into consideration the numerous advantages possessed by the fore and aft rig that are essential to the ideal carrier. Operating expense, that prime factor in all transportation problems, is here reduced to a minimum, for there is no motive power so cheap as the free winds of heaven and no other craft so well adapted to utilize and control this force. The sails are of handy form and can be readily handled from the deck by a handful of men or with steam power if desired. The schooner can sail several points nearer the eye of the wind than a square rigger is able to do. Built on the old clipper model, they sail like witches and owing to their peculiar construction can be readily loaded and discharged. They require but little ballast and having no heavy top hamper can, if necessary to the trade, take on immense deck loads. In the lumber traffic of the Pacific northwest we find these vessels leaving port with huge deck loads towering ten to fifteen feet above the rail. Occasionally they get caught in a blow and have to sacrifice a portion of the deck load, but where one meets such a mishap dozens reach their destinations safely and land their cargoes intact.—James G. McCurdy in Outing Magazine.

A GAME OF POKER.

It Was an Object Lesson on Playing Cards With Strangers. A card sharp well known to the stewards of the great ocean liners was a passenger on a recent trip across. He received a line at Queenstown, which had the effect of keeping him out of the large games in the smoking room. He contented himself with penmanship and bridge at 25 cents a hundred points. On the evening before landing one of his bridge party, none of whom knew that he was a professional with a bad record, proposed changing the game to poker. "It's had practice," said the card sharp, "to play poker with strangers. There's too much risk, but it's all right in this case." The others said there was no risk if a man had good sense and kept his eyes open. The deal fell to the professional, and when cards had been drawn by each man he said: "Now I'll show you how much you know. Mr. A, you have the winning hand. Mr. B, your three queens look good, but what show have they against Mr. C's four fives? And what good are they against A's four kings? Does it tally?" It did, and A said, "Well, it's my pot." "I was afraid that might happen, so I dealt myself a straight flush." He showed it, arose from his chair and said: "Give the steward what I put in. This was an object lesson—don't play poker with strangers."—New York Tribune.

THE BARBECUE.

The word "barbecue" is derived from the Spanish word "barbacoa" and is a native Haitian term for a wooden framework supporting meat or fish to be smoked or dried over a fire. In its popular sense it means a large social or political entertainment in the open air at which sheep or oxen are roasted whole and all the feasting is on a most liberal scale. Georgia is probably the native home of the barbecue and it is called the Barbecue State. Who prepared the first barbecue is unknown. Deer, bear and other game constituted the meat roasted in the barbecues of fifty years ago.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

THE BUTCHER'S SMOCK.

The butcher's smock was blue. It looked much neater than the white smocks of his friends, all smeared with dried blood. "Every butcher," said the man, "ought to wear a blue smock. Why? Because dry blood won't show on it. Dry blood turns bluish, and a smock of this color it is invisible. I am descended from a long line of butchers, and from father to son the word has been passed down always to wear, for neatness sake, a smock of blue."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

CROUTONS.

To cut bread into dice before frying, if it is to be used as croutons, is not the most approved method. When done in this way it becomes very hard and indigestible. The bread should rather be cut into thin slices and then stamped out in circles a little larger than a quarter or cut into squares of about the same size or in oblongs two inches long and over one-half inch thick. These tossed into hot fat and taken out almost instantly in the frying basket are the most palatable.

THE MODERN VERSION.

"I want my boy to be able to earn his own living." "To earn it, Mr. Merger?" "Well, to get it."—Washington Herald.

FOR OUR READERS

To Prove That Hyomei Will Cure Catarrh, Every Reader of The Times Can Have a Special Guarantee. If there is any doubt in your mind as to the power of Hy-o-mei, the medicated air treatment, to cure all catarrhal troubles, the remarkable offer made by Rickett & Wells should expel that doubt. They give their personal guarantee with every dollar outfit of Hy-o-mei they sell to refund the money unless it gives satisfaction. They take all the risk of cure, and no reader of The Times can afford to suffer longer with catarrh when an offer like this is made. With every Hy-o-mei outfit is a neat pocket inhaler, and Hy-o-mei, breathed through this inhaler, reaches the most remote air-cells of the nose, throat and lungs, destroying all catarrhal germs, and soothing and healing the irritated mucous membrane. Hy-o-mei really gives you a health-giving climate in your own home, so that when you breathe its medicated air your nose, throat and lungs will be filled with air like that on the mountains high above the sea level, where grow balsamic trees and plants, which purify the air with their volatile antiseptic fragrance, so healing to the respiratory organs. You will notice relief and benefit from the first use of Hy-o-mei, and it will not take many days' treatment to convince you that in this remedy you have found a complete and lasting cure for all catarrhal troubles.

DAD MURPHY'S BREVITY.

Old Dad Murphy, as he was affectionately known to the boys on the road, was a conductor on a trunk line transporting large shipments of live stock from the west. Dad had been in the service so long that the rules of railroading had become second nature to him, and the result of the superintendent's frequent orders to the trainmen to answer with military brevity all questions and messages, especially those by telegraph, to relieve the burden on the wires had reduced Dad to habitually short, concise replies, even to his conversation. On a baking hot July day, when not a breath of air was stirring and the sun beat on the car roofs till the pitch pulled the soles of the brakemen's shoes, Dad in looking over the train discovered that eight hogs had succumbed to the heat. When passing the next telegraph station he threw off a message to the superintendent: Burhans, Supt.—Eight hogs dead each heat, advise me. MURPHY, No. 2. At the second telegraph office he received his answer: Murphy, Condr. 2.—What is the present condition of the hogs? Ask ok. BURHANS. Dad grinned, shifted his load of fine cut and wrote as follows: Burhans, Supt.—Hogs still dead. —Judge's Library. What He Lost. A traveling man was leaning against the counter in the hotel gazing disconsolately at the floor. "Lose something?" queried the hotel clerk. A nod of the head answered. "Was it very valuable?" "Twice with the nod. "Sure you had it when you came in here?" A third nod. His face was growing wistful. "You should have put it in the safe." "Could not have done that very well." His voice quivered. The clerk stretched his neck and gasped, "Why, what was it?" "It was," the traveling man began, but he choked—"it was—my job." "Oh, pardon me a minute, the phone is ringing." And the clerk tiptoed softly away. A dismal stillness reigned.—San Francisco Chronicle.

ONION AS A DISINFECTANT.

There is, writes a London correspondent, a stratum of common sense in the advice given by a north country teacher to her scholars, "if you have cholera or scarlet fever in the house, put some onions under the bed and they will sweep away all disease," for the onion proved its virtue in a remarkable way years ago, when cholera raged throughout London. It was noticed with surprise that one of the most insanitary districts—Saffron Hill and its neighborhood—was almost exempt from the visitation. The majority of the inhabitants being Italians were great onion eaters, and strings of this vegetable were found suspended from the ceiling in nearly every room. The medical officer of health concluded that the onion, among its many virtues, contains a powerful antibiotic against cholera morbus and possibly other diseases.

HIS EXPLANATION.

"Henry," whispered Mrs. Smithers, straightening up in bed, "what's that noise in the library?" "Must be history repeating itself," muttered Henry Crowsley. "Go to sleep!" Not at All Easy. "Oh, it's easy! Easy as taking candy from a baby!" "Easy, eh? Ever try to take candy from a baby?"—Pittsburg Post. He that is proud eats up himself.—Shakespeare.
