Are You Billious?

Yellow complexion, dull eyes, sick headache, constipation, coated tongue, bad taste in the mouth, are indications that the liver needs regulating. Your liver will work properly after you have taken a few doses of Beecham's Pills.

NOT THE ONLY ONE

There Are Hundreds of Barre People Similarly Situated. Can there be any stronger proof offered than the evidence of Barre residents? After you have read the following, quietly answer the question.

M. I. Spaulding, painter, living at the corner of Warren street and Maple avenue, Barre, Vt., says: "I had more or less kidney trouble for five years, and think it was brought on by conditions which any man working at my trade is subject to. After a hard day's work there would be such an aching in my back that I could hardly sleep at all. Dark spots floated before my eyes at times and the action of the kidney secretions plainly showed that the kidneys were disordered. The use of two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at E. A. Drown's drug store, stopped the backache and corrected the kidney weakness so that the secretions were regulated and became natural in color. Doan's Kidney Pills are the best kidney remedy I know of, and I have advised their use to friends whom I have heard complaining of their back or kidneys."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

REPUDIATE CONTRACTS.

Western Federation of Miners Curtails Power of Local Unions.

The annual convention of the Western Federation of Miners has by a vote of 345 to 25 delegates deprived local unions under its jurisdiction of the power of making contracts with employers. The preamble and resolution adopted read as follows: "Contracts entered into with the employing classes are of benefit only to the owners. Such contracts divide the workers in their struggle with the exploiters, chain one body of workers in subjection while war is being waged upon another body, often compel one union to sear upon another union, destroy the class instinct of the workers by a false sense of temporary security to cease taking an active interest in the affairs of their organization while such contracts are in force and have absolutely no place in a progressive labor organization; therefore be it Resolved, By the fifteenth annual convention of the Western Federation of Miners that any and all signed contracts or verbal agreements for any specified length of time that may have been entered into by any local union or unions of the Western Federation of Miners are by this convention declared null and void."

Bad, but Still Good. A judge from one of the African crown colonies, now home on leave, is telling this story: It is the custom in the local courts to administer to the natives the form of oath which they consider most binding. One day a Christian colored gentleman, of whose good faith the judge entertained some doubts, was about to give evidence. At his own request he was allowed to take the oath of a Christian. Then the judge intimated that he must also be sworn in the native fashion. The man was visibly disconcerted. "Oh, no, massa," he pleaded. "Not dat. No very bad native, but me very good Christian."—Manchester Guardian.

NEW IDEA IN LABOR FIELD.

Colorado Building Trades Plan a State Organization.

Colorado, always coming to the front with something new—sometimes startling—in the labor field, now proposes the organization of a state building trades council. Building trades councils covering a city or the cities and towns in a compact area of certain limits are quite common, and some years ago a national building trades council was organized, though it was not very successful. But Colorado unionists are the first to try to draw all the building trades unions into an organization which will direct the affairs of the many trades employed in that industry.

In some of the towns of Colorado there is absence of organization in one or more of the building trades due to the small number of men usually employed or to other causes. The proposed state council plan makes provision for dealing with all such conditions.

The purpose is to send out from the state council, which will have its headquarters in Denver, business agents who will make regular visits to all the cities and towns in the state. Efforts will be made to equalize wages and working conditions and to bring the whole state up to the Denver standard. In this way the men who go from Denver and the other strong union towns can be kept in line. Unions can be organized where advisable, and members can be recruited and attached to the nearest union.

To a limited degree the plan has already been tried in Colorado. Several trips have been made over the state by business agents of the Plumbers' union of Denver, and in every instance the result has been increase in membership, and in some cases wages and working conditions in the towns visited have been improved.

The present plan is to get every building trade to co-operate and to contribute funds to carry out the idea to its full extent. At least one business agent will be kept at this kind of work all the time.

AN IMPLSION.

It is the Opposite of an Explosion and Less Familiar.

Every one knows what an explosion is, but its opposite, an implsion, is less familiar. At great depths in the sea the conditions are favorable for its production. At 2,500 fathoms the pressure is, roughly speaking, two and a half tons to the square inch—that is to say, several times greater than the pressure exerted by the steam upon the piston of a powerful engine.

An interesting experiment to illustrate the enormous force of this deep sea pressure was made on the Albatross, a government vessel engaged in deep sea exploration.

A thick glass tube several inches in length full of air was hermetically sealed at both ends. This was wrapped in flannel and placed in one of the wide copper cylinders used to protect deep sea thermometers when they are sent down with the sounding apparatus. The copper cylinder had holes bored in it, so that the water had free access inside, round the glass. The case was then sent down to a depth of 2,000 fathoms and drawn up again.

It was found that the cylinder was bulged and bent inward, just as if it had been crumpled inward by being violently squeezed. The glass tube itself, within its flannel wrapper, was reduced to a fine powder, almost like snow. The glass tube, it would seem, as it slowly descended, held out long against the pressure, but at last suddenly gave way and was crushed by the violence of the action to a fine powder.

This process, exactly the reverse of an explosion, is termed an implsion. —Chicago Record-Herald.

MASTERY OF THE NILE.

The Method by Which the Flow of Water is Controlled.

Every morning from a little room of a great white house on the eastern shore of the Nile at Assouan is clicked by telegraph to Cairo the question, "How much water?" The answer comes so many thousand gallons more or so many thousand gallons less. A button is pressed, the water which flows under the iron bridge at Cairo is increased or diminished some ten days later in accordance with the telegraph answer, and the intervening valley between Assouan and Cairo has a little more or a little less water on its surface. The man at the button may bring joy or sorrow to thousands of little farms—it is all according to the message he receives.

From the great white house there extends across the river a granite wall or dam 150 feet high. Halfway up this wall and stretching its entire length a line of shutters opens or closes by a pressure of the button. In the winter months a huge lake expands to the southward, which has every appearance of being a flood, for in certain places the tops of palm trees are discernible above its surface, and the summits of inundated ruins apparently mark the sites of sunken cities. As the days go by and Cairo demands more and more water the palm trees and the ruins seem to rise from their watery beds until in June and early July the river flows freely with all its historic indulgence.—New York Times.

Never Touched Him.

Nodd—Would you mind returning the book you borrowed of me last year? Todd—Some one borrowed it of me and hasn't returned it yet. Did you ever see anything like the way some people act about a thing like that? They have no sense of honor.—Life.

It is about time to plan for potato digging. Will we do it by hand this year, or buy one of the modern machines? I have on hand the Hallowell O. K. Digger and the "Iron Age." One costs $75.00, the other $115.00. As soon as the potatoes are fit, I am going to have a public trial of these diggers on my early potatoes, at Sunnyside Farm, and shall buy and afterwards keep on sale the one doing the best work. I want every potato grower in this section to see this trial and help me decide on the merits of the machine. Will give notice in this space a day or two before the trouble begins.
