EAST MONTEPELIER.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Farnham go to Morrisville this week to attend the fair. The campmeeting closed yesterday with a large attendance, and the various campers and preachers will depart for their homes this week. Mrs. Anna Stevens Robinson has returned to her home in Ferrisburg after spending a week in town. Mrs. Robinson is the widow of the late Rowland Robinson, often called the "grand author of Vermont." The condition of Mrs. C. C. Davis, who has been in Morrisville seriously ill for the past two months with nervous prostration, is little improved. Mrs. Davis is still being attended by her daughter, Mrs. Olin L. Tillotson.

THE INFINITE.

Beyond the Visible the Invisible, Beyond the Invisible the Unknown. In "Victor Hugo's Intellectual Autobiography" the great Frenchman writes as follows of the infinite after asking what vehicle shall be adopted to cross the spaces of the universe: "The locomotive travels fifteen leagues an hour. The hurricane travels sixty leagues an hour. The cannon ball travels 700 leagues an hour. The locomotive drags; the hurricane lumps; the cannon ball is a tortoise. Let us bestride a ray of light. This is a mount 4,000 times swifter than the cannon ball, 4,200,000 times swifter than the hurricane and 17,000,000 times swifter than the locomotive. It makes, as you know, 70,000 leagues a second. "Start. Light launches you from the earth to the sun in eight minutes, from the sun to Oceanus in four hours, from Oceanus to Centaurus in three years and eight months, from Centaurus to the pole star in twenty-eight years, from the pole star to the Milky way in 16,800 years, from the Milky way to the nebula of Canes Venatici in 5,000,000 years—you have not yet taken a step. "The apparitions of the universe will continue to loom. The unaccountable will remain before you in its entirety. Beyond the visible the invisible, beyond the invisible the unknown. Everywhere, everywhere, in the zenith, at the nadir, in front, behind, above, below, in the heights, in the depths, looms the formidable darkness of the infinite. "What, then, is there back of all this? Nothing, say you? Nothing? What! I, a worm of the earth, am possessed of an intelligence, and this immensity is without one? Oh, pardon us, Abyss of Infinity!"

LAW POINTS.

The drilling of an artesian well is held, in Holswich versus Harrington (85 D. 6), 6 L. R. A. (N. S.), 550, to be within the meaning of a statute giving a lien for labor on any building or other improvement on land. That an officer attempting to rearrest one who, having been arrested upon a warrant for a misdemeanor, has escaped from custody dangerously menaces his life is held, in State versus Durhan (N. C.), 5 L. R. A. (N. S.), 1019, not to authorize him to kill the officer in self defense. Failure on the part of a principal to dissent from or repudiate an unauthorized act of his agent within a reasonable time is held, in Thompson versus Laboring Man's Mercantile and Manufacturing Company (W. Va.), 6 L. R. A. (N. S.), 311, to be evidence of ratification of the unauthorized act.

Effects of Radium.

Many precious stones show a remarkable change of color in the presence of radium. In late German experiments a colorless diamond from Borneo became pale yellow after an exposure of eight days to impure radium bromide, deeper yellow in eight days more and was not wholly restored to its original colorlessness by heating to redness. The light blue of a sapphire turned to green in two hours, then to yellow, reddish yellow and after fourteen days to yellowish brown. The color disappeared on heating, a light yellow invariably reappearing, however, when the stone became cold. The rays did not affect the color of the amethyst, ruby, blue topaz or chrysoberyl, but a tourmaline with a green end became green at any other point on which the rays acted.

She Could Swim.

"Look here!" exclaimed the irate suburbanite as he bounded about in the green water and soft mud. "When I bought this lot didn't I tell you I had just been married?" "You did, sir," replied the land agent loudly. "Well, do you think this is the proper place to bring a bride?" "I do, sir. Didn't I hear you call her 'Duckie' two or three times?"—Chicago News.

BRILLIANT OSTENDE.

Belgium Has the World's Most Famous Bathing Beach. Two-thirds of the people go to Ostende, the Belgian beach, to gamble, but the remaining third is so large that the beach, in spite of splendid size, is always covered with the portable bath-houses, the mushroom and coffin shaped chairs. Even at night the chairs will be there, for with the lights from the buildings and the lighthouse it is almost turned into day. This lighthouse is quite a curiosity. It dates back to 1771, and now in its rebuilt and modernized state it throws a gleam over the country for forty-five miles round. We are fond of referring to Broadway, New York city, as an especially cosmopolitan street; but, if you will permit the expression, it is not in any way "in it" with the promenade at Ostende. All countries are represented, and every representative is in his Sunday best. On a sunny afternoon in the season the boulevards of Paris are not more brilliant than this far famed avenue. Here the German officer is not in uniform, but in the full glory of his spotless white flannels, his many colored wide silk belt and his imitation Panama hat. And as he passes a group of attractive ladies his waxed mustache will grow stiffer in its upward twirl, and his walking stick will cut the air even more jauntily than before. If his monocle be especially cleverly handled and his face show an unusual number of the much coveted saber scars, he may be rewarded with a murmured "Reitender Kerl." The tall, black bearded Russian will walk somberly along and show no emotion or interest in anything, but you may be sure that very little will escape his notice, and at the casino when the play is high you will always find him in close attendance.—Charles F. Peters in Bohemian Magazine.

Vinegar Caution

Vinegar may be vinegar, or it may be something else; and due regard for health demands care in the purchase of this article of universal consumption. Perhaps a so-called vinegar, composed of acetic acid and water may not be called strictly poisonous, but to use it is to treat the delicate lining of one's stomach rather harshly, to say the least, while its strong metallic taste destroys the flavor of everything to which it is applied. Or if it is doctored with tannic or sulphuric acid to improve its flavor, then it is doubly dangerous because more deceitful. It would seem, therefore, that one's only safeguard is to purchase a reliable brand from a reliable grocer and the absolute guaranteed purity and perfection of delicate flavor in all Heinz Vinegars will recommend them to discriminating people. We sell Heinz XXX Malt Vinegars in bottles, for salads, etc., incomparable. Heinz Pure Pickling Vinegar, the best obtainable White Vinegar—a Vinegar for all general pickling purposes. Heinz Pure Cider Vinegar for those who prefer cider vinegar, strictly pure. Each the best of its type. There is safety in buying your vinegar from us. We refund full purchase price if any package of Heinz Vinegar proves unsatisfactory. F. D. LADD CO., Leading Cash Grocers. Meats and Provisions.
