The average daily circulation of the Barre Daily Times for the week ending Saturday was copies, the largest paid circulation of any daily paper in this section.

4,550

On account of the numerous accidents on a certain railroad in North Carolina, indictments have been returned against the railway by the grand jury.

Rev. C. J. Ferguson is giving the adjacent town of Barre some questionable fame by having selected it as the theater of his recent "prophecy" concerning the state's return on the basis of prohibition.

He was given a respectful hearing by the Universalists, but they didn't seem to jump to him, nor did they rush through a resolution endorsing his ideas.

OIL ON HIGHWAYS.

The Boston Transcript speaks of the "new" custom of putting oil on roads. It says it is of interest. The exceptionally dry summer through which we have passed has accentuated the dust problem, especially for the cities and their suburbs.

less appearance. They make one wish that they would stretch out into the country where the ashy depths of the highways have for some time robbed automobilists of half its legitimate pleasure.

A comparison of the much traveled smooth oil surfaces of our own thoroughfares with those that have not been thus treated is an ocular demonstration of the superiority of this method.

SOUTH BARRE.

The town schools began Tuesday. Mrs. William Stacy, who has been ill at her home for the past few weeks is better.

Milmore-Tatro.

St. Johnsbury, Sept. 5.—Miss Cleona H. Tatro, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall M. Tatro of Chicago, and Dr. Hugh H. Milmore of Chicago were married at the Tatro summer home.

Mayall-McGinnis Wedding.

Wheelock, Sept. 5.—There was a very pretty wedding at the Baptist parsonage last Monday night, when the Rev. Nelson Mayall was united in marriage to Miss Lizzie McGinnis of New Jersey.

MANY AFFLICTED.

It is surprising what a lot of people limp about suffering from corns. Suffering from such a cause is really unnecessary. Corns can be removed in two or three days without the least pain, injury or inconvenience.

MONTPELIER

Earle Billings who received a broken jaw bone last week while playing base ball is gaining in nice shape, but he still has considerable trouble in leading a square meal.

As a result of a house to house canvass of the city to tabulate the number of houses using city water, the water tax bills due October 1 will show about 200 changes, mostly an increase.

It is reported, though unofficially, that Rev. Andrew Gillies, pastor several years ago of the Methodist church of this city and who has since given his entire time to the Trinity church of Minneapolis, Minn., if conference before which the matter will have to come, decides favorably.

Rev. Dr. Daniel Dorchester of Pittsburg, Pa., pastor of Christ church there, accompanied by Mrs. Dorchester, visited at Montpelier seminary Tuesday afternoon.

T. B. Merrill, leader of the Montpelier Military band, received a letter this morning from Senator Fred L. Davis of Windsor county notifying him that the Montpelier Military band had been selected to furnish music at the first state fair to be held in White River Junction on October 1, 2, and 3.

Somebody broke into the gate house at the Montpelier reservoir the other day and stole a grindstone. The grindstone has disappeared, at any rate, and is believed to be stolen, although possibly it may have been dumped into the reservoir or pond.

The Dickerman-Whitney Lumber company of Brantree have filed articles of association in the office of Secretary of State and are to do all kinds of lumber business, consisting of sawing, manufacturing and shipping.

Football prospects at the seminary are rosy this year and the boys hope to make a first rate showing in the game. Practice will be commenced the latter part of this week and it is expected that there will be some 25 or 30 out for drill.

The city clerk has received a supply of blanks for licensing non-resident hunters. If reports are true several persons in East Montpelier and vicinity have violated the law since September 1 by shooting partridges.

JINGLES AND JESTS

Lost Silence. "Amongst art's faint, flourished long ago We mourn with grief sincere The art of silence, for we know 'Twill never reappear."

At morn the fierce alarm clock ring: Then bells and whistles sound; And whooping railway engineers fling Dire tumult all around.

The trolley and the motorist, The street piano-queer, Combine all ruthlessly to twist Your weary, aching ear.

The Needed Testimony. Irate Husband—"You have been staring at my wife, sir!" Starer—"I was quite unaware of it. Is she pretty, then?"—Simplificimus.

An Epitaph. This epitaph has been suggested for a dentist's monument: "View this gravestone with all gravity Below I'm filling my last cavity."—Judge.

Air Castles. The Muller's sorrow, Muse, unfold, Who raked in the summertime, good and old, But with no such rakes as poets sing—Sae'd only to drive and dump the thing.

The Judge came motoring down the road, And the way he handled his levers showed That he knew the law and remembered it. And he didn't scare Maud's horse a bit.

She raised her eyes, and let them fall—He goggled—er more—and that wall all. She mused, with a smile of the sad, and sort—"If he'd hit the pike like a dead game sport!"

And visions her mental optic fill Of herself mixed up in a bump and a spill, Of the judge, aghast at what he'd done, Coming to rescue her, on the run, With smothered hasty estimate: "Cheaper to wed her than pay the freight!"

Till her father bawled: "Now, Maud, this here's No way to raze!" And 'twas something here.

Of all the sad words of writing machine, The saddest are these, "It might have been." Oh, the fate that will hand to a lone, lorn maid, Such a bitter cup of lemonade! —Puck.

The Reduction Accepted.

During a match at St. Andrew's, Scotland, a rustic was struck in the eye accidentally by a golf ball. Running up to his assailant, he yelled: "This'll cost ye five pounds—five pounds!" "But I called out 'fore' as loudly as I could," exclaimed the golfer. "Did ye, sir?" replied the troubled one, much appeased. "Weel, I didna hear; I'll take fower."—Chicago News.

Big Attendance at St. Johnsbury.

St. Johnsbury, Sept. 5.—St. Johnsbury academy opened Tuesday morning with the largest attendance in years. At the forenoon session more than 200 students had registered and many more are to come.
