Hood's Sarsaparilla

MANSFIELD GREW RICHER ONLY TO ENRICH WIFE.

Actor, Who Became Worth $1,000,000, Kept Turning Over His Profits to The Woman He Loved So Well.

New York, Sept. 7.—Worth $100,000 when he was married, Richard Mansfield in the years that followed kept turning over and over the profits to the woman who bore his name.

Certainly no man ever rode a shorter will than this one: "After the payment of my just debts it is my desire that my entire estate both real and personal, go to my wife, Beatrice Cameron Mansfield."

This will is one of the shortest on record. It was made in 1904, when Mrs. Mansfield, who had then been the wife of the actor two years, retired from the stage.

The three New London estates and the home on Riverside drive, his rights to all plays, scenery, his stock and cash in the banks will amount to about $900,000, with some $50,000 life insurance.

Mrs. Mansfield has broken down, following the weeks of strain at her husband's bedside. She is now under the care of the family physician at New London.

WILL OUTLINE 1908 POLICIES.

President Roosevelt to Map Out Campaign in His Message.

Washington, Sept. 7.—President Roosevelt has nearly completed his annual message, according to information from high and authoritative official sources.

He expects to have it practically done, subject to slight revision by the time he returns here on Sept. 25.

The message will be a remarkable document. It will be the longest of Mr. Roosevelt's messages, which means the longest of American presidential messages.

Not by any means does the President expect to get all the legislation he will recommend at the coming session. It is said he does not want it, preferring to leave some issues for the campaign of 1909.

Far reaching recommendations will be made for stretching federal control over inter-state corporations and for fuller and stricter control over railroads.

Sociological as well as industrial matters will be given attention. No demand for immediate tariff revision will be made, but further than that it is not known here just what the President will say on the tariff.

COTTON MATHER WAS IN PLOT

To Sell William Penn Into Slavery

OLD LETTER REVEALS IT

It's Developing the Country—Then, too, the Timber It Owns It to Be Saved for the Benefit of Future Generations.

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 7.—The controversy over the question whether Cotton Mather of Boston entered into a plot to capture William Penn and sell him as a slave in the Barbadoes has been settled, it is said, by the finding of the letter from Mather to John Higginson of Newport.

The document in the possession of George A. Reynolds, clerk of the fire board of this city, shows that the letter of Cotton Mather was as follows: "Boston, Sept. 10th, 1682. To ye aged and beloved John Higginson."

"There be at sea a shippe called 'Ye Welcome', R. Greenaway Master, which has aboard an hundred or more of ye heretics and malignants called 'Quakers', with W. Penn, who is ye chief scamp at the head of them."

"Ye general Court has accordingly given secret orders to Master Malachi Huxett of ye brig Propose to waylaye said 'Welcome' as near ye coast of Coddle as may be and make captivetye of ye said Penn and his ungodly crew."

MAN WHO SERVED JAIL

Sentence Because He Did Not Summon Doctors When His Daughter Was Fatally Ill Upbraids Those Who Then Disowned Him.

New York, Sept. 7.—Clarence A. Byrne, a self-styled Christian Science healer, who was released from Blackwell's island last Saturday after having served a 30 days' sentence imposed in special sessions for having allowed his six-year-old daughter, Violet, to die without medical attention, rose in the testimonial meeting at the First Church of Christ (Scientist) at Ninety-sixth street and Central Park West Wednesday night, and repudiated the faith of Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy in no measured terms.

He said that while he was suffering under his cross of punishment for the faith that he had held, the members of the First Church had disowned him, and had denied that he was a member of their creed. The followers of Mrs. Eddy's faith had strayed too far from the path of the true faith to have his further loyalty, said the man from prison.

"When I was ordained I believed it was a bad example to my flock, so I resolved to give up the habit, much as I loved it. Time and again I made my resolve, but always the memory of the delight of my pipe would get the better of me."

Judge Stout Promises to Protect W. S. Taylor. Says Ex-Governor May Safely Return to Kentucky.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 7.—Judge Robert L. Stout of Versailles, judge of the Fourteenth judicial district, in which the Goebel murder was committed seven years ago, gave out a statement yesterday declaring that he alone is authorized to grant immunity to W. S. Taylor, Kentucky's fugitive former governor.

"Taylor was right when he gave out the statement in Indianapolis that neither Governor Rockham nor Commonwealth's Attorney Robert Franklin has power to grant him immunity from arrest," said Judge Stout. "To be sure, the governor could pardon him outright, but it is powerless to do so unless he does issue a full pardon. Mr. Franklin is powerless to enforce a promise of immunity."

"The bench warrant for Taylor's arrest was issued from the Franklin circuit court, and is returnable there and there only. If Taylor will consent to return to testify in the Powers case, I will not only see that he is not arrested, but I will see that he is safely returned to Indiana."

ALCOHOL NO CURE IN TUBERCULOSIS.

The Henry Phipps Institute Declares It Neither Cures Nor Prevents Consumption.

Philadelphia, Sept. 7.—Alcohol neither cures nor prevents consumption, as many people believe, according to the annual report of the Henry Phipps Institute, one of the leading institutions in the United States for the treatment of tuberculosis.

"The report which has just been issued says: 'As our statistics on alcoholism in tuberculosis grow, it becomes more and more manifest that all extreme views upon this subject will have to be abandoned. That alcohol neither prevents nor cures tuberculosis is evident from the number of alcoholics who have come for treatment; and that it does not strongly predispose to the disease seems to stand out prominently from the vast preponderance of non-alcoholics among the applicants for treatment.'

"Neither can it be shown that the children of alcoholics are more prone to tuberculosis than the children of non-alcoholics."

It is pointed out that nearly one-half of the patients treated at the institute followed some occupation while undergoing treatment, because their poverty would not admit of their not doing so. This fact accounts for its observation: "It is society doing its only duty by these people." Sick horses are not perfectly sought out and humanely cared for. Sick brothers and sisters, however, not only are permitted but are compelled to work even at laborious occupations. How strange that there are no societies for the prevention of emphysema to human beings."

At the opera house Thursday evening, September 12th.

Catching Butterflies.

To catch butterflies you must reach out after them. As a rule you won't catch many in your hand. You must use a net. It is the net that scoops them in.

A hand reach in catching butterflies is no better than a handbill in catching business. It is the net that counts.

The net is the newspaper. This reaches out to all the people and scoops them in. Experience of several generations has shown that the newspaper is the best business bringer.

Take, for instance, this paper. (Most people take it.) An announcement in this paper goes into the homes of the people whom you must reach if you get the business you are after.

There is, indeed, a very much larger net that scoops in the business butterflies. It is stretched out not only over this community, but over every similar community in the land. It is the mail order net, made up of big catalogues and of advertisements in periodicals which are circulated broadcast to catch the unwary.

To prevent that great net—which is really an octopus with a thousand tentacles—from catching your trade away from you, wisdom suggests that you use your home net—the local newspaper.

Usually a word to the wise is sufficient. If you want to keep your patronage or build it up, you must compete with the butterfly catcher from the outside. The Dollar is the Butterfly. It has green wings, and is attractive to merchants in the big cities just as it is attractive to you.

If you would catch these pretty butterflies that are circulating around home, you must use the net that circulates around home.

Could anything be plainer?
