EAST BARRE.

A Ridiculous Notion.

[A Rhode Island physician says that "the first-born child is practically always the best—best in brain, in build, in beauty, in everything!"]

Of all the evanant notions That sprang on land or sea, That grew on earth or ocean— This looks the worst to me! The ass has not the slightest Weal knowledge of weal men! How can the first be brightest When I am No. 10?

I hate a quacking gander, Whose stowies die so hard! I hate a howling slander, I hate a wile canard, And so this science artist I spurn and spurn again, Who says the first is smartest While I am No. 10.

There may be some foundation For this in other climes, Perchance in foreign nations, Perhaps in ancient times— But heed and now!—I'll vent one Plain case to blurt his pen: I'll prove the tenth's the best one— He, he! I'm No. 10!

ONLY GIRL DIVER.

She Is Making Her Fortune in Waters of the Great Lakes.

Miss Francis Baker of Detroit, Mich., enjoys the distinction of being the only girl diver on the Great Lakes, if not in the world. Miss Baker is 21 years of age, and has laid up a comfortable account by following her hazardous calling. Her first professional work was when she raised $2,000 worth of copper from the ship W. H. Stevens, which sank in 80 feet of water in Lake Erie several years ago. Miss Baker's father, Capt. H. W. Baker, was a captain of divers, and from the first time she was allowed to go down to the river alone she used to watch her father's wrecking ship leave the dock and long to go with him. The ambition to be a diver matured in her as she grew older, and she deplored the fate which had condemned her to be a girl.

At last her desire to become a diver overcame the objections of her friends and she began making wrecking trips with her father and soon became his inseparable companion. She made a study of every part of the machinery connected in any way with diving, and in time learned to command the wrecking boat with great skill and assurance. Her first descent was in Lake Huron, where a big wooden barge had gone down, and before the wrecking steamer had reached the spot where the barge had sunk the owner spoke to Miss Baker, regretting the loss of a diamond ring which was in the cabin.

Miss Baker immediately offered to recover it for him, as she had been planning for some time to make her first descent upon the first favorable opportunity. When everything was made ready for her to descend, her own father man- aged the compressed air apparatus, which meant life or death to her, as she calmly walked down the ship's ladder and without a moment's hesitation disappeared under the water.

In describing the sensations of the initial trip, she said the feeling at the outset was as if some great creature with a thousand arms was pressing her gently but firmly on all sides, and as if in a few minutes her breath would be cut off entirely, but she was far from frightened and continued her descent until the shadows of the sunken barge loomed up before her. She had a strange feeling of buoyancy, and the 20 pounds of lead attached to her feet seemed no heavier than leather soles as she followed her companion to the falls of the sunken ship and with his aid climbed over them.

At this point she experienced severe pains in her head and felt as if her nose was going in, but, still unharmed, she reached the cabin of the barge, where she entered, and with the aid of the electric light at her belt sought out the corner of the cabin which contained a small stand upon which was the tiny box containing the much desired diamond ring.

In her haste to reach it she stumbled and fell, and for the moment was consumed by a terrible fear, as the pressure of the water, together with breathing the compressed air, had now become almost overpowering; but she quickly regained her self-control, and with the box in her hand returned to the deck of the wrecker.

As a reward for this exploit, Miss Baker was presented the diamond ring she had recovered, and it is now in her possession.

The ring marked the beginning of her fortune, as she had proved that she could live under water, and to be able to do this means that a person is worth anywhere from $50 to $200 a day to a wrecking company. As 99 out of every 100 men who descend into the waters of the lakes will in a few minutes begin to suffer from bleeding at the nose, head-splitting pains and suffocation, that is why all good divers from one end of the Great Lakes to the other may be counted on one's fingers and toes.

Miss Baker now began following up her adventure with practical work, and she early discovered the fact that she was fitted for a captain of divers instead of a diver alone, as the locating of the best copper ship which has been searched for for years has proven—Exchange.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

The Plattsburgh, N. Y., Press, under date of Nov. 30 says: "Fabio Romani, or the Vendetta," entertained a fine audience at the theater last night. The company presenting Marie Currell's remarkable play is a good one. Edmond Barrett was excellent in the name part, and Miss Lottie Glennore as Countess Nina wore some handsome gowns and was particularly pleasing, especially in the mad scene in the last act. G. M. Brown also came in for a share of the honors, and as Respetti, the rage rickler, he showed wonderful dramatic talent. The attraction was quite above the average. At the Barre opera house to-night.

"Uncle Josh Perkins" is the title of a play that has scored a success this season unprecedented in recent years. It is to be given here in its entirety by the original company which first carried it on to prosperity and popularity. It will be produced here next Tuesday evening, December 17th, at the Opera house.

"Uncle Josh Perkins" is a comedy drama and there is a touch of tragic nature in it that excites to an intense pitch the emotions of the spectators, with all ending happily. The play is livened up by the excellent comedy and when the spectators are not in tears over the misfortunes of the beautiful young heroine and the shadows that appear to threaten her future, they are laughing and applauding uproariously at the funny antics of the comedians. Some new and exceedingly clever songs and specialties are introduced at appropriate stages of the play. A vast amount of new and appropriate scenery is used for the impressive stage pictures presented in each of the four acts of the play. Special prizes for the performers: Children 10c, adults 25c, 30c and 50c.

The Deltic Brothers' Ideal Minstrels have engaged a special vaudeville feature for this season. Mr. Leon Stanford, the wire cyclist. This young man performs the seemingly impossible feat upon the swinging wire, introducing a large number of novelty sensations, one of which is the actual riding of a unicycle in mid-air on the swinging wire. Deltic Brothers appear for one night only at the Opera house on Wednesday, December 18.
