

BIG VESSEL WAS WRECKED

The Thomas W. Lawson, Of South-west Coast of England

ONLY ONE SURVIVOR FOUND

Largest Sailing Vessel in the World Found Her Seven Masts Topheavy in Last Night's Storm and Tipped Over.

London, Dec. 14.—The Thomas W. Lawson, the only seven-masted schooner and the largest sailing vessel in the world, was lost early to-day off Scilly Islands, to the southwest of the English coast.

The Lawson, which sailed from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, on Nov. 21, with a cargo of crude oil, got into trouble last night, and after being piloted past the dangerous reefs by one of the lifeboats the crew anchored from the storm.

Several men who afterwards proved to be members of the crew were found on Annell island, an uninhabited rock forming one of the Scilly group.

This survivor is George Allen. He remained consciousness later and said that the Lawson did not break her cables, but was literally rolled bottom upward by the terrific seas.

NO FOUL PLAY SHOWN

Report of Dr. Gerrish in Case of Mrs. Smith.

North Shapleigh, Me., Dec. 14.—Death by drowning and the entire absence of any indication of foul play was the substance of the report of Dr. F. P. Gerrish of Portland to the coroner's jury at the conclusion of an autopsy yesterday upon the body of Mrs. Andrew Jackson Smith, which was found in the Little Ossipee river Thursday morning.

The inquest was resumed at noon, and at the conclusion of Dr. Gerrish's report half the jury retired to deliberate. The first and most important heard was the husband of the dead woman, who had been taken into custody pending the outcome of the investigation of suspicious circumstances. Others were Charles Ham, who found the dead woman, and Esther S. Thon, who on Tuesday morning shortly after the disappearance of the woman, assisted Mr. Smith in searching for her, as the latter thought she might have carried out a previous threat to commit suicide.

FALL LOSSES MAYORALTY.

A Record of Votes Shows The Republican Candidate Elected in Maiden.

Malden, Mass., Dec. 14.—Prof. George Howland Peck, the candidate, who in the face of the returns was elected mayor of the city by a small majority last Tuesday, lost his title to the position as the result of a recount of votes held last night. Professor Peck's plurality over George Louis Richards, the Republican candidate, was 60, according to the returns, but the recount gives the election to Richards by a plurality of 39. Mr. Fall is a professor of Roman at Boston university. He has been a candidate for mayor each year for the past five years, and has stated that he proposes to continue to be a candidate each year until he is successful.

TO VERMONT COUSIN.

Request of $25,000 by Judge George Baldwin of Wisconsin.

Appleton, Wis., Dec. 14.—The will of Judge George Baldwin was made public yesterday, and except for a bequest of $25,000 to a cousin and her four daughters in Vermont, the entire estate, estimated at $5,000,000, is left in trust for 10 years to the widow, Mrs. Catherine M. Baldwin, and two sons, George B. and Charles Baldwin. At the expiration of 10 years the estate is to be divided share and share alike among the three.

Banks in Fine Condition.

Luther A. Cobb of Island Pond, inspector of savings banks, was in Montpelier yesterday. Mr. Cobb says the savings banks of Vermont have not been seriously affected by the money stringency in other parts of the country, not a savings bank in the state has had even the slightest suspicion of a run during the recent financial panic, and they all today are in an excellent condition.

AMOUNTED TO $3,000

Residence of Mrs. Caroline Alexander Partially Destroyed, The Principal Damage Being Confined to Upper Part of House.

Bellows Falls, Dec. 14.—Fire broke out in the home of Mrs. Caroline Alexander on Front street yesterday afternoon at 1:45. The fire department after one hour of hard work had the fire under control. The third floor where the fire started was badly damaged. The loss on the building is about $3,000, covered by insurance.

PHYSICIANS WERE RESCUERS

Novel Sight at a New York Fire Last Night.

New York, Dec. 14.—The novel sight of a score of physicians impelling their own lives to save several firemen from a building was witnessed in East Eighteenth street last night when one of the six buildings of the Hayler candy factory was filled with deadly gases generated in some way by a fire started among a pile of paper boxes. Fifteen fire fighters were overcome and of these three are in a critical condition. One Vernon McKenna it was said could hardly survive the night. The damage by fire was comparatively small.

Several of the doctors were, themselves, overcome, and, in turn, were rescued by others. One physician who found an elevator man, who, because of the rules, refused to operate an available elevator, immediately rapped the punctilious employe over the head, and with such good effect that the "lift" was soon carrying injured men to the street. When the fire started 50 employes were in the building but it is thought that all escaped. Several priests also braved the gas and smoke and, going to the eighth and ninth floors, administered the last rites to firemen who appeared to be dying.
