

MAGNIFICENT OBSEQUIES

For Sweden's Dead King, Oscar II, To-day

GREAT THROGS PRESENT

Special Representatives Were Present From Every Country in Europe to Do Honor to the Dead Monarch.

Stockholm, Sweden, Dec. 19.—The body of the late King Oscar the second was laid today beside the other dead Swedish royalties in Riddarholm's cathedral.

Outside, ranks of troops were drawn up to do honor to the dead king. The newly fallen snow brought out the mourning decorations in sharp relief.

BOSTON COLLEGE NO MORE

New Site Secured in Neighborhood of Chestnut Hill.

Boston, Dec. 19.—The announcement was made yesterday that Boston college which has occupied its buildings in the south end in this city for many years, will remove to Newton where a tract of thirty acres has been secured in the vicinity of Chestnut Hill.

The new site for the college is on high land sloping down to the edge of the great Chestnut Hill reservoir. The upper part of the land fronts on the Newton boulevard. It is planned to erect buildings which eventually will make this one of the most beautiful colleges in the country.

The new site is only about a quarter of a mile from St. John's Catholic seminary which also fronts on the boulevard but on the opposite side, and which is just across the line in the Brighton district of Boston.

ARE IN IGNORANCE OF RETURN ROUTE

Navy Office Officials Don't Know if the Battleship Fleet Will Return by the Suez or Not.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—If President Roosevelt told Admiral Evans that the battleship fleet is to return via Suez, as reported in unofficial newspaper dispatches from the battleship Louisiana, he has not confided his intention to the navy department.

"Peter Pan" Coming

The following is an outline of J. M. Barrie's successful play "Peter Pan," which Charles Frohman's company will present at the opera house on Saturday night, December 28.

In the first act we see Peter returning to the Darling house in search of his little shadow. The children are asleep and the nursery unguarded, and with the aid of Tinker Bell, whose mortals see only as a dancing ball of light, he finds his shadow. But he can't make it stick on. Fortunately Wendy wakes and sees the trouble that he is in, and being a motherly little soul, sews his shadow on for him.

The second act is in the Never-Never-Land, where Peter and his band of little boys are playing. And here we see the blood thirsty pirates and their wicked leader, Captain Hook, who is Peter's mortal enemy.

The third act shows the children's home underground, guarded by their faithful friends, the Redskins. The pirates attack the Redskins and drive them away, and Hook puts poison in Peter Pan's medicine glass, but Tinker Bell saves him by drinking it herself and is about to die when she in turn is saved by the reassuring message that all children believe in fairies.

The fourth act shows how Hook captures the little Darlings and the band of Lost Boys and carries them off to the pirate ship. But in the darkest moment of peril Peter comes to the rescue, and the band throw the pirates into the sea.

In the fifth act the children return to their mother, for the heart of a child goes home when the day of adventure is gone.

The last scene is a glimpse into Fairy-land itself. There Peter, in his little white high top in the tree-tops waves a friendly good-bye to all who believe in fairies.

Accept Without Comment. "I broke a record today. Had the last word with a woman." "Didn't think it possible. How'd it happen?" "Why, I said to a woman in the car, 'Madam, have my seat.'"—Philadelphia Ledger.

SUICIDE MANIA FINALLY WON OUT

Frank W. Miller, Dental Student at the University of Pennsylvania, Hanged Himself in His Room Yesterday.

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 19.—Frank Wise Miller, a dental student at the university of Pennsylvania, whose home was in Kansas City, Mo., committed suicide in his room at the dormitories of the institution yesterday by hanging himself to his fellow students, was undoubtedly a victim of suicide mania.

Since then at various periods he has talked to his companions about the best methods of committing suicide, and in consequence had been watched by students who knew him. It was this watchfulness that led to the discovery of Miller's body hanging from the hinge on the door of his room yesterday.

In one of Miller's pockets was found a note in which he had written "My last love to sister and parents." Miller is reported to have been well up in his studies and nothing is known of any trouble he may have had.

A SILVER WEDDING ON HILL STREET LAST NIGHT

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cordiner Who Were Married in Barre 26 Years Ago By Rev. Peter McMillan.

There was a pleasant gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cordiner on Hill street last evening to celebrate the silver wedding anniversary of the worthy couple. Over forty of their friends were there and the time was spent most enjoyably.

Mr. and Mrs. Cordiner were married in Barre by the Rev. Peter McMillan, and their wedding was one of the first weddings, if not the first, of Scotch people to take place in Barre. Many guests present at the wedding were at the gathering last evening. Mrs. Cordiner's maiden name was Barbara Alexander, and both came from Peterhead, Scotland. They have one daughter, Barbara. Mr. Cordiner is employed as a granite cutter.

COMES ALIVE, NOT AS CORPSE

Fred Krellinger Amazed His Sorrowing Relatives

AS HE WALKED OFF TRAIN

Mistake in Telegram Had Him Dead, and Preparations Were Made for a Double Funeral for Him and His Mother To-day.

Like Mark Twain, the humorist, once upon a time, Fred Krellinger is in a position to announce that the news of his death is greatly exaggerated, for, expected as a corpse, he stepped off the Central Vermont train in Barre yesterday afternoon in flesh and blood and in the best of health. The sorrowing relatives who
