

22d Anniversary Sale

It not only gives us pleasure but it also gives us a great deal of confidence in our way of doing business to have the people of Barre and surrounding country respond so liberally and so quickly to our 22nd Anniversary Sale. It increases our faith in the fact that it is not the lowest prices but the best quality the people want.

Twenty-two years ago this concern was started with a belief in the idea that it was not a question of prices so much as it was quality of the goods they had to buy. To-day we are pleased to attribute our success principally to this idea, now an established fact.

Now we want to thank you for your show of appreciation and at the same time will state that for the year 1908 our policy shall be the best and that at the lowest price compatible with good business.

The highest price ever given for a single stamp is £1,875, which sum was paid by the German Postal museum in 1902 for a specimen of the twopenny blue Mauritius. In 1894 the Prince of Wales bought at auction another specimen of this rare stamp for £1,450.

Fall Flowing.
Thorough plowing of the land during the fall and winter is not only the means of destroying many bollworm pupae, but is of importance from an agricultural standpoint in exposing the soil to the action of rain and frost, thus helping to break up its compactness and render them more readily absorbed and consequently available for plant food. Fall plowing is also a

POISONED GLOVES.

They Had Their Home in Italy With the Borgias and Medicis.

Perfumed gloves have contributed largely to the bright and cruel side of romance, of fact and of fiction. They had their home in Italy, the home of the Borgias and De' Medicis, and it is said, with how much truth will never be known, that many an untimely death was caused by wearing perfumed gloves whose scented palms concealed a deadly poison. It seems to have been a favorite pastime of the notorious Alexander VI, and of his more notorious son, Caesar Borgia, to invite a friend to dine, show him every attention as a guest, present him with a beautiful pair of perfumed and poisoned gloves and next day send flowers to his funeral, accompanied by a little note, polite, but firm, requesting the immediate transference of all the property of the deceased to the coffers of the Borgias.
There is an interesting and very ugly story of a famous poisoner of the fifteenth century who confessed under the water cure to having murdered for a consideration about fifteen people by means of poisoned gloves. The poison she employed was so slow in taking effect that for years she remained undiscovered and finally came to grief through her own foolish boasting—Kansas City Star.

TALES OF CITIES.

It is stated that Philadelphia is at last to have fathouses.
Jay, Me., can boast of the biggest brick tower in the east, with a million bricks in it.
Fond du Lac, Wis., is enforcing a law requiring pictures of all its stony drunkards to be exhibited in every one of its saloons.
New York city is making a marvelous growth in the direction of cheap amusements. There are now 400 one cent, five cent and ten cent places of entertainment where there was not one ten years ago.
