ONLY ONE "BEST"

Barre People Give Credit Where Credit Is Due.

People of Barre who suffer with sick kidneys and bad backs want a kidney remedy that can be depended upon. The best is Doan's Kidney Pills, a medicine for the kidneys only, made from pure roots and herbs, and the only one that is backed by cures in Barre. Here's Barre testimony:

C. A. Churchill, contractor and builder, of 35 Merchant street, Barre, Vt., says: "I recommend Doan's Kidney Pills, which I procured from E. A. Brown, druggist, through our Barre newspaper in a statement given eight years ago. I used them at that time and was so greatly benefited that I continued taking them until the symptoms of kidney complaint and weakness of the back and joints disappeared. I have on several occasions used Doan's Kidney Pills since then and always with the most good results. They are certainly worthy of endorsement and I have advised many friends and acquaintances to use them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

AN UNBEATEN CUTTER

The Daring Was the Fastest Racer in Our Navy.

HER MOST FAMOUS VICTORY.

It Was Over the Crew of the Iron Duke, a British Man-of-war, and Was Decisive—Why the American Band Played the British National Air.

The fastest racing boat that ever brought shekels and glory to the American navy or to any other, for that matter, was the cutter Daring.

When she went down with the Vandalia in the great storm which sank almost every vessel in the harbor of Samoa she left behind her an unbroken record of victories.

None of these was more sensational than the one she easily plucked from a crew of the Iron Duke when the Daring was attached to the Wisconsin, then on the Asiatic station. Appropriately enough, the crushing defeat was administered in centennial year, 1876, and it was the more significant because the English boat had given the challenge and had fairly rushed upon its fate.

When a bluejacket wants a race he goes about it in his own peculiar fashion. He doesn't write out a challenge and send it with due formalities. He does not appoint a committee to extend it. He does not "post notice in a conspicuous place."

He simply lowers his boat, climbs into it to the number of twelve or fourteen, pulls toward the ship whose crew he wants to race, tosses his oars as he comes under her bow, and there you are. The challenge has been given in the sight of the whole harbor.

This sort of invitation doesn't mean that the other crew is to hustle into its boat for a race right then and there. On the contrary, there is a lot of preliminary work yet to be done, much of it being of a strictly financial nature.

Thousands of dollars change hands over these races. The officers themselves are generally ready to back the honor of their own ship with substantial proof of their loyalty.

As for the average sailor man, he digs up every cent he can rake and scrape. As a winner of these shekels the Daring, as before mentioned, is of blessed memory, except to her rivals.

Of these latter none was more confident than the Iron Duke crew. The Wisconsin was already at anchor when the British vessel came into the harbor one fine day, her advent being greeted with the usual attention every newcomer commands.

She hadn't been in very long before she lowered a boat. The men on the Wisconsin idly watched. They continued to observe, but without much concern, as the British cutter was pulled toward the Wisconsin, heading across her bows.

Then the unexpected happened. To the surprise and intense delight of the Americans, up went the British crew, and a little thrill of excitement swept the widening ripple around the harbor. A challenge had been given. A race was to come.

And it was a race that meant a whole lot more than a mere contest between two crews. It involved a contested principle of boat building.

The British believed in a substantial, seaworthy, solid craft. The Americans made their cutters lighter and more graceful, contending at the same time that the fine lines which made their boats beautiful did not make them the less seaworthy.

The day for the race was set, a course of three and a half miles designated and the wagers piled up on both sides. But when the day came there was a high wind, making the going so rough that the Americans, thinking that it wouldn't be a pretty race, proposed putting it off.

Not much! The British thought they saw through the proposal. They insisted the Americans were afraid, and they saw a glorious opportunity to prove their wisdom in sacrificing beauty to seaworthiness. They were as firm as nobody but an Englishman can be. The race must go on.

And it did. You bet it did! And the Daring came skimming in a whole half mile ahead—a half mile, if you please.

While the Iron Duke's crew were plunging through the waves by main force the Daring cut across them and over them like the thing of delight she was. And, while she was as dry as a parlor cat, the Iron Duke's were bailing to keep themselves afloat.

Well, you can imagine whether there was joy aboard the Wisconsin. But the officers could afford to be generous in victory, so the band was ordered to play "God Save the Queen."

A British naval officer was standing with an American officer on shore watching the finish, and when the band struck up he turned to the American in bewilderment.

"That's funny," he said. "Your boat comes in ahead, and yet they're playing 'God Save the Queen.' I don't understand."

"Well," said the American, "if God won't save the queen now she might as well give up. Nothing earthly can."

The Daring was built at New York about 1871 and was so far superior to the boats she competed with that another cutter was constructed on very much the same lines, but with what were thought to be some improvements.

She was called the Magic, and, next to the Daring, she was the best racing boat in the navy. But up to the time of her loss the older boat was unbeaten even by her newer rival—Washington Post.
