

2700 Yards of Novelty Torchon Laces

SATURDAY.

Seventy-five different patterns of the prettiest novelties in Cotton Torchon Laces we ever put over our counters. They come in different widths from one and one-half inches to four inches wide and make a splendid wash lace for trimming underwear and cotton dresses. Hardly a piece in this lot but what would sell if bought in the regular way at from 8 to 10 cents a yard. Saturday you have the pick of the seventy-five pieces for 5 cents a yard or 50 cents a dozen yards.

Miss Gay of Windsor will be pleased to receive orders for facial massage, shampooing, chiropody and manicuring. Orders can be left at Mrs. D. F. Davis', 7 Maple grove, or by telephone at Davis' drug store. Miss Gay met with large patronage when here the first time and will be pleased to call on her former patrons and any new ones who may wish to take treatment.

Miss Grace Merritt, who will appear as "Mary Tudor" in Paul Kester's dramatization of Major's great novel, "When Knighthood was in Flower," at the opera house Friday evening, is one of the most talented and beautiful actresses of the day. In the opinion of some of the greatest critics in the theatrical world, her portrayal of the madcap "Princess Mary" excels that of Julia Marlowe, by whom the play was brought out. Miss Merritt is possessed of just the nature necessary for the exacting requirements of the part, and her ability to shade and repress is remarkable, considering the various emotions, at times violent, again bright and gay, then defiant, sad, broken-hearted, and lastly just sweet womanhood, she is called upon to interpret.

By leaving off the Me from the front of his name, Thomas McKiernan of Bethel escaped a fine for a second offense of intoxication in the city court this morning. He was arrested last night by Officer Carle and when arraigned in the city court this morning he answered to the name Kierman and though his name looked familiar to Judge Scott he was unable to find his name on the docket and he pleaded guilty to a first offense. He was unable to pay a fine of $5 and costs of $7.15 and went to the county jail for 20 days. Later, while looking over the docket, Judge Scott found the name McKiernan and recognized Kierman as the man having answered to the name of McKiernan several months ago.
