The British "Eiger" was certainly a destroyer-of human lives.

Thursday night's tragedy at Proctor goes to prove that the course of love often follows the bullet's path.

Dr. Edward Everett Hale, chaplain of the Senate, was 80 years old yesterday, but he prays just as vigorously as ever.

The power of the press was felt by the Bradford young woman who lost two toes in one of Parker's big Octopus presses.

The usual order was reversed in Vermont the other night, when a burglar fled, leaving two of his own pocketbooks containing jewelry.

For various colleges the silly season has opened; the students of Stanford and New York universities are out on "strike." Spank 'em!

The cackling of geese may have saved Rome, but it got a Bennington county farmer into lots of trouble, for he shot the cacklers and had to pay a fine.

All eyes are turned toward the conference in the local granite situation. And there's reason enough, for the matter is of the gravest concern to every person in Barre and Washington county.

A MISTAKE IN FIGURES.

There appears to be a discrepancy between fact and figures in the fire loss accredited to Barre for 1907 by the state insurance commissioners in their pamphlet, just issued, extracts of which were published in yesterday's Times. The report gave Barre's loss as $9,577 in 34 fires. As a matter of fact, the total loss in this city for the year was $1,380. These latter figures are not an estimate, but are the result of actual computation by the chief of the fire department, after investigation of each fire and exchange of figures with the various agencies, in which the property was insured. Chief Gladding's figures, moreover, are in excess of the figures of losses presented by the insurance agencies.

It is possible that in accrediting the fire loss for the city the reports may have included the losses sustained in Barre Town. That is the only explanation which may be advanced to account for the total published in the report. If such be the case, there is a manifest error, as the town and the city are separate corporations entirely, as separate as Barre is from Montpelier; and consequently neither the city nor the town should be saddled with the other's losses. The city's fire loss was so low last year that the people have naturally disliked to have an incorrect report go out, as also do the firemen who have contributed so much to that satisfactory condition.

HEADING TOWARD A REVOLT.

Things are heading toward a contest over in the first district for the Republican nomination for congressman, as evidenced by the action of Congressman Foster in attempting to secure several slices of the political pie. There are signs of dissatisfaction with his position all up and down the district. In the north section, The Messenger of St. Albans has expressed displeasure at Foster's "balancing feat." To the extreme south, the Bennington Banner thrusts forward Frank L. Fish of Vergennes as a possible candidate for the House if Foster decides that he would rather try for the Senate. Between these two is the Rutland Herald, which yesterday added its testimony as follows: "In Addison county, where Mr. Foster, by the way, has lost ground very rapidly of late, Mr. Fish would probably command the county following as a unit. Elsewhere, Mr. Foster's hold upon the district is being rapidly loosened by his 'vaunting ambition that o'erleaps itself' and there are strong indications that he may 'fall on either side' unless he decides, very shortly, whether he intends to run for both offices or confine his efforts to one."

Thus far F. L. Fish's name is the only one brought forward in connection with the nomination, but it is possible that the name of a Bennington county man may be presented. Whether or not other names are announced, there are surface and under-surface indications that Foster has got a hard row to hoe before the next convention.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Do It For The Children.

Dear guardian of the library fortress: Boys are little animals and their brains are unformed. One should not try to imprison young and wild creatures. Neither should they be too rigidly restrained when they voluntarily come in to the house. And, best of all, dear librarian, remember that you are just as much the children's employe as the professor's. In fact, your duty to the little ones is the more important. When they come in be good to them. They will amply repay the kindly care in later years.—Rutland Herald.

Birthday Surprise Party For Oscar N. Waterman.

A very pleasant company gathered last evening at the home of Oscar N. Waterman, in honor of his 60th birthday. The occasion was in the form of a surprise, as neither Mr. or Mrs. Waterman were in any way prepared for the visit. A large number of guests were present until new sugar was served. Mr. Waterman was presented a fine desk chair, the presentation being made by the first vice president of the W. C. T. U., Mrs. Bates, who spoke in behalf of the Union, those present and the many friends who had assisted but were not able to be there. Mr. Waterman very feelingly responded. The small hours drew near before the company were aware of the fact and they hastened over the rough roads, facing the winds blowing that they had been well repaid for the effort required to assist in this very enjoyable occasion, and leaving best wishes for the host and hostess.

Now sugar was served to the members of the W. C. T. U., at their meeting with Mrs. Addie Waterman yesterday afternoon.

At the W. C. T. U. meeting yesterday Mrs. Bates' 50th birthday was very pleasantly remembered by the Union in a society of birthday good wishes.

We wish to correct a misprint of last Wednesday as set out Mrs. W. C. Nye was not attending the social day 13 or 14 of the month last of this week.
