MAGAZINE REVIEW.

In the April number of The North American Review Senator J. B. Foraker presents "A Review of the Testimony in the Brownsville Investigation." Senator Foraker goes into the testimony in this famous case with minute particularity, with the purpose of showing not only that the colored soldiers discharged from the army were innocent of the crime of "shooting up" Brownsville, but that if the testimony in question is true they could not have been guilty. He concludes: "The conclusion seems inevitable that the shells were found in the streets of Brownsville because some one, for some purpose, had taken them from the box and scattered them there on the night of the raid. Surely the soldiers would not have done this. Hence even the microscopic investigation by the War Department shows conclusively, not that the soldiers were guilty, but that they were innocent."

Frugal Though Rich.

The life of Mrs. Eddy continues to enliven the pages of McClure's Magazine. We quote from the April number: "Although Mrs. Eddy was now a wealthy woman she was still admirably prudent in the use of her money. There was nothing ostentatious about her manner of living, and she never spent money lavishly, even upon herself. Her lace and jewels, even the diamond cross which is conspicuous in many of her photographs, were given to her by devoted students. "Mrs. Eddy's little economies are always interesting and characteristic. On one occasion she summoned Dr. Foster's old friend, William Clark, of Barre, Vermont, to come to Pleasant View and be her gardener. She wanted of Clark in a little while, decided that he ought to be a teacher of Christian Science instead of a gardener, and sent him away. While Clark had worked on her place Mrs. Eddy had paid him gardener's wages, but she felt that he ought to be reimbursed for the expense he had incurred in moving to Concord and quitting his former occupation. Accordingly, she called Dr. Foster into her study and handed him three hundred dollars, telling him to offer the money to Clark, but adding grimly, 'It will prove a curse to him if he takes it.' Dr. Foster warned Clark to that effect, and Clark, rather reluctantly refused the money. Mrs. Eddy had for some time been promising Dr. Foster a diamond ring for his little finger, and they had looked over jeweler's catalogues and discussed the sizes and prices of stones. In the end Mrs. Eddy had decided upon a smaller stone than the one Dr. Foster selected. He now took a hundred dollars of the money which had been offered to Clark in such a forbidding fashion, added it to the appropriation made for his ring, and got the diamond he wanted. The rest of the money Mrs. Eddy put into a stained-glass window for the 'Mother Room' in the Boston church, the window which represents Mrs. Eddy sitting in the skylight room at Lynn and searching the Scriptures beneath the rays of the star of Bethlehem."

Seen Through a Key-Hole.

In the April American Magazine Lincoln Steffens tells the story of Detective Burns and how he caught the crooks in San Francisco. Burns is the greatest detective in America, and this was his hardest job. Following is the story of how Roy bribed Loneragan, an alderman. Burns was in an adjoining room, looking through a key-hole. He and Roy had put up the job on Loneragan. "Loneragan came. He walked into Roy's office, and it was all up to Roy. Well, Roy is a wonder" says Burns, who watched him. His voice was steady, and his hand. He invited Loneragan to sit down; Loneragan didn't care to sit down, but Roy insisted and when Loneragan moved the chair to obey, Roy put it back. Roy was performing his part with precision and finish. "Loneragan," he said, "we skating-rink men have made up a purse to pay you fellows for beating this ordinance and to protect us hereafter. Will you stand in?" "Sure," said Loneragan. "All right," said Roy. "Now here's your money," and so that the witnesses might see and hear, Roy counted the money out bill by bill. "Fifty, one hundred, two, three, four, five hundred dollars, is that right?" "That's right," said Loneragan. "Five hundred plunks. And I'll be your friend as long as you live, Roy." "Good," said Roy, and for the stenographer to take down he added: "But there is no writing, of course, so that must be understood between us, that you accept this money and you agree in consideration thereof to vote against that ordinance," etc., etc., giving the exact terms of the corrupt contract, as dictated by Henry to fit the law. "Is that understood?" asked Roy. "That's understood," said Loneragan. "And there'll be other things—Roy said."

CZAR'S TROOPS INVADE PERSIA

Russians Burn Several Villages in Their Campaign

TO PUNISH THE KURDS

Continuing Their Advance—The Whole Frontier in a State of Alarm and Cossacks Are Sent to the Front.

Tiflis, Transcaucasia, April 17.—Russian troops have invaded Persian territory in the vicinity of Lenkoran, a port on the Caspian sea, for the purpose of punishing Kurdish leaders. This step was taken in consequence of the renewal of the attacks upon the Russian garrison at Helesuvar, a frontier post. The trouble began April 12, when a detachment of Russian troops from Belouvar met a band of Kurdish brigands and lost several men in the subsequent fighting. The brigands also suffered. They prepared to attack Helesuvar in force in revenge for their treatment by the Russian soldiers, and they descended on the garrison in large numbers. Orders were issued for the garrison, which is supported by artillery, to enter Persian territory, and punish the Kurds. The Russians in force then crossed the frontier and destroyed several villages. They also scattered the Kurds, who numbered in all about 4,000.

Paris, April 17.—Antony Aubin, counsel for Paul L. Roy, the Frenchman who is accused by his American wife, known as Glacia Calla, of killing her brother, George A. Carkins, last January at Newington, N. H., has written a letter to that state's attorney, in which he says he would be most pleased with an investigation of the case. He declares that Roy earnestly wished to be speedily freed from the undesirable and embarrassing situation in which the accusation places him, and he states further that he would welcome the opportunity to exonerate himself formally before a court of justice.

BOSTON BANKER SPENT LAST EIGHT YEARS IN MISERY

Carlton H. Hutchinson, a leading banker and broker of Boston, with offices at 3 Congress Street, in that city, has recently come out with a very strong statement.

In the widespread discussion over Cooper's new theory and medicines which has spread over the country so rapidly, Mr. Hutchinson has taken the side of those who say that Cooper's theory is correct and his medicine all that he claims. Mr. Hutchinson's emphatic statement is as follows: "Anyone afflicted with chronic ill health and a general run-down condition caused by stomach trouble, who does not try this man Cooper's medicine, is very foolish. I say this after a most remarkable experience with the medicine. "I heard of Cooper's success first when he was in Chicago, as I have a private wire to that city in connection with my business. Later, when he came East, I learned more of him and his theory that stomach trouble causes most ill health. I have had no faith in anything not prescribed by a physician for each particular case after careful diagnosis, but after eight years of constant suffering, during which time I spent over $1,000 with absolutely no relief, I felt that it would at least do no harm to try the medicine which I was hearing so much about. "During these eight years I have been forced to go without solid food for five and six weeks at a time. I always had a sour stomach, was troubled with formation of gas, and led the usual miserable life of the dyspeptic. I was dull, tired, nervous and gloomy all the time, and was always constipated. "I have taken Cooper's medicine a comparatively short time. For the past month I have not had the slightest sign of stomach trouble. I can eat anything with no bad effect whatsoever. I have a fine appetite, am gaining flesh very rapidly, am cheerful, full of energy, and my nervousness has disappeared. My bowels are in perfect condition for the first time in eight years. "I don't hesitate to say that I would not take $50,000 and be back where I was. My relief and thankfulness is beyond description. "We sell Cooper's famous preparation described in the above statement. —C. H. Kendrick & Co.

STRAY PICKINGS OF LOCAL INTEREST

Like Heinz' products, of which there are 57 varieties, has been the capricious weather during the first half of this month of showers, sunshine and sunburning. If there haven't been 57 varieties of weather exhibited in that time, there certainly have been 50. A continuing person starts out, of a morning, certain that the early morning sun indicates one of Judge Shute's "brilliant and fair" days. He gets no further than the end of the street than down comes a patter of raindrops. So back to the home domicile he hikes for an umbrella, only to be met by sunshine again as he emerges into the open. But believing that discretion is the better part of valor, he decides to carry the umbrella. By the time he has reached the end of the street again, the flour-sifter up in the sky is emptying its contents in the shape of snow, beautiful snow. Then cometh the wind and whirrs the snow-lakes in helicopter fashion. Weather—well, rather!

Saratoga, N. Y., April 17.—Holart W. Dock was expelled from the Troy Methodist conference yesterday on a charge of forgery. "WARNING TO SINNERS."

Engineer Cut off Fingers Because of Hallucination.

New Castle, Ind., April 17.—Urged on by an impulse that the Lord had directed him to maintain himself in some manner as a warning to sinners, Eugene McDowell, former city engineer, took an axe and severed a finger from his right hand yesterday. Several months ago McDowell resigned from his position as city engineer, giving as his reason that he was no longer important work to do.

They say that every dog has his day. Other things than dogs have their day. Now it's "The Merry Widow" that's having hers. It's the Merry Widow that's the Merry Widow that and the Merry Widow the other. Not satisfied with "The Merry Widow" one-step, they went and put on a companion piece in the shape of a "Merry Widow" waltz or vice versa—which, we can't say, "The Merry Widow" hat, looking like a man's moth plate and tilted at a paragon angle, and most bewitching, came in the usual order; to be followed soon by "The Merry Widow" tie. How many more Merry Widows we shall have thrust upon us, we venture not to say. And then there's the real "Merry Widow" bless her! May she never lose her charm! And may she continue to gladden smiling sentiment! Fact is, we wouldn't give much for this world without a "Merry Widow" or two, or three. Would you?
