

GODDARD LOST FIRST

Montpelier Sem. Won Saturday's Game, 1 to 0

COULDN'T HIT THOMAS

Who Had the Remarkable Record of 14 Strikeouts—M. S. Lamentably Weak on Fielding, But Goddard Failed to Score in Spite of It.

Goddard seminary lost the first game of the series with her old rival, Montpelier seminary, played at the Intercity grounds Saturday morning, by a score of 1 to 0. Montpelier got its winning run in the first inning after two were out by bunting two singles and a double which scored Bishop. But for Goddard's left fielder, Spaulding, falling down just as he got under Bishop's fly, Montpelier would not have scored and the game would have been nothing to nothing at the end of the ninth.

Bishop was the second man up for Montpelier in the first half of the opening inning, Clark, who headed the batting order, having gone out on a grounder to short, and he rapped out a fly into short left field. Spaulding, who was running to catch it, tripped and fell in the long grass just as he was reaching up for it. Thomas, the third man up, went out on a foul fly to Harrison and Harvey then rapped a safe one by third, advancing Bishop to second. Godfrey next hit for two sacks into center field and Bishop crossed the plate with what proved to be the winning score. Harvey and Godfrey were on first and second, but they died there, as Currier retired the side on a grounder to Heath.

All the honors for the victory rightfully belong to Thomas, Montpelier's outpaw pitcher, who made the remarkable record of fourteen strikeouts and allowing but four scattered hits. His team made eight errors behind him and only his consistent pitching kept Goddard from hitting the ball at all, when men were on bases, saved the day for Montpelier. Time and again Goddard had men on third and at second when a single or a fielding error would have meant one or two runs, but it was then that the outpaw took no chances and retired the side on strikeouts.

In the seventh with Shaw at third and Berry at second with no one out, Goddard had its best chance of the game to score, but there was nothing to it, as Olsen, Heidel and Whelan after the other fanned the air. Shaw had hit a slow grounder to second and beat it out to first and went to second on Berry's grounder to Thomas, who fumbled it. A passed ball let them around to second and third and the spirits of the Goddard rooters went soaring, only to drop when the third consecutive strikeout was made.

In the last half of the first inning, Heath got to first on the third baseman's wild throw to first of his grounder, and then stole second and third. There was no one out and Heath then attempted the squeeze play, but Harrison failed to connect with the ball and Heath was caught between the bases. Harrison went out on a grounder to first and Shaw fanned.

Again in Goddard's half of the ninth, Harrison was first up for Goddard and rapped out a clean single to left and went to second on Shaw's grounder to Thomas, who threw a little wide of first, and the baseman stepped off his bag, giving Shaw his base. If then looked as though the break was due, but Berry fanned and the catcher dropped the ball and threw to third as Harrison had started for that base. Harrison went back to second and Berry, who was out, needlessly ran down to first and fooled Foote, who was running for Shaw, into running down to second and was touched out by Thomas. Olsen then popped up a fly into the second baseman's hands and he fuffed it. Heidel was next to bat and the best he could do was three strikes, and the game was over.

Capt. Heath was in the box for Goddard and for the first three innings was hit for six singles but for the remainder of the game he pitched very effectively, allowing only three more scattered hits. That Montpelier did not score again was due in part to her lamentably poor work at base running and to the clean work of the Goddard team in the field, which made but one error, that coming in the ninth when Berry dropped a low throw from Olsen. In the third inning Montpelier rapped out three clean singles and did not score. Clark, the first up, singled into center and went to second on Thomas' single to left after Bishop had fanned. Harvey rapped a safe one back of third, which Clark could have easily scored on had he not been slow in starting.

CONTINUOUS BASE BALL

Was Played During Racing at Granite City Trotting Park.

The two base ball games which were going on on the Granite City Park diamond continuously from one o'clock until six Saturday afternoon attracted a large crowd of people, who swarmed both sides of the diamond, and the outfielders had to dodge around groups of women and children whenever a fly was batted out to them. The first game was played between the Spaulding high school and the Montpelier high school nines, the latter team winning by a score of 9 to 7.

Spaulding had the game six to nothing up to the fifth inning, when Fisher, who was in the box for the locals, began to lead to dodge around groups of women and children whenever a fly was batted out to them. The first game was played between the Spaulding high school and the Montpelier high school nines, the latter team winning by a score of 9 to 7.

The second game, which was between Goddard and the Barre Independents, had to be called off at the end of the fifth inning on account of rain, the score at that time being 9 to 7 in favor of Goddard. Olsen was in the box for Goddard and Tierney for the Independents, and both pitchers were touched up hard. In the second inning Goddard pounded out five safe hits for six runs and in the fourth two singles and a double scored two more. The Independents scored once in the first inning, on two singles, once in the second on a single and a wild throw to third. They added three more runs in the third on two singles, a base on balls and two errors. In the fourth the first three men up singled, the last hit bringing in two runs. In the fifth, neither scored and at the beginning of the sixth the umpire called the game on account of the rain.

The Italian Athletic club base ball team added two games to its list of victories Saturday. The Italians left Friday night and Saturday forenoon played the Hardwick town team at Hardwick, winning the game with a seven to one score. The Hardwick bunch was easy for the Italians, and they had the game from the start.

COLLEGE SCORES.

University of Vermont Won Two Games on Saturday—Other Scores.

U. V. M. won two games from the Massachusetts Aggies at Burlington on Saturday. The weather interfered with the Yale-Princeton match, when the "Tiger" was leading. Harvard dropped another game, Brown winning on its own grounds. Trinity's act in taking its team off the field, because of a dislike for the umpire's decision, is one of the worst breaks of the year in college athletics. The act is unfortunate, as the college recently resumed playing after being at odds for some time. Dartmouth lost to Holy Cross for the third time this season. Pennsylvania won another game from Cornell, making it two straight from the latter. The results:

William 4, Amherst 1.
Brown 5, Dartmouth 1.
Holy Cross 3, Dartmouth 0 (5 innings).
Pennsylvania 9, Cornell 4.
Princeton 2, Yale 1 (4 innings).

Gown Gossip.

The Louis XIV. ruffe is worn at the neck, and very becoming it is to the face.

The very fashionable jacket is a cutaway of No. Louis XIV. style. It comes almost to a point in the back, while the front is cut away to show the waistcoat.

The waists with Dutch necks are liked by many for summer wear, and there come many really handsome lingerie blouses with neck either square or slightly rounded so that the whole throat shows.

It is considered the smart thing to wear a handsome jeweled ornament at the throat, and the frilly knot of lace, with its jabot, all hanging soft and fall over the waistcoat, is caught with a pin of artistic value.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Train and Track.

The Canadian Pacific railway is to build a second line through the Rocky mountains to the Pacific coast.

"Bond" is the universal Brazilian name for a street car. The first tramway built in Rio was financed from the proceeds of bonds instead of stock, the first instance of the kind. Cars drawn by mules are known as "mule bonds."

Lady Laurence, wife of Alma Tadema, is also a painter of note, while two of Sir Laurence's daughters have earned fame, one as an artist and the other as a writer.

Miss Martha Finley, author of the "Elsie Dinmore" stories, is still writing at her advanced age, nearly eighty. She lives at Elkton, Md., and her first book of this series was printed more than forty years ago, when she was a schoolteacher.

O age of light and learning!
O worthy of all praise,
When Wisdom's torch is burning
With such a brilliant blaze;
When Youth, no more blighted,
Declines to grow excited
O'er rubbish that delighted
Our simple boyhood days.

While yet brief knickerbockers
Lift bare my nether limbs,
My favorite fare was shockers
And fairy tales of Grimm's;
Boys' books I had in plenty
To fill my idle moments,
Verne, Ballantyne, and Henry
Amused my youthful whims.

But when on those romances
That our young fancy took
The enlightened babe now glances,
Contention grows its look.
No more the infant vogue is
For fables, maps, or bogies,
And only old, old foggies
Will read the "Jungle Book."

Where Indians, wildly whirling
Red tomahawks to kill,
Set my young scalp locks curling
With many a glorious thrill,
Of tender, tender ages
Of tender, tender ages,
Curls as they turn the pages
Of Nietzsche, Spencer, Mill.

Now bidding youth defiance,
The big-browed lantlings pore
Over works of social science
And strange eugenic lore,
Importing names and names
The learned babe immores
His soul in controversies
About the Open Door.

O happy, happy nation,
Where culture so can thrive,
Where one finds Education
So very much alive,
Where, by the grace of heaven,
We've savants of eleven,
Deep scientists of seven,
Philosophers of five!

QUINCY CUTTERS BACK AT WORK ONCE AGAIN

Agreement Reached on Friday Afternoon, and Signed by Both Committees—Returned to Work This Morning.

Quincy, Mass., June 1.—The strike of the granite cutters, which has been in progress for several weeks, was declared off Friday and the men returned to work today.

The final act in ending the strike took place Friday afternoon at 1:30, at which time the agreement was signed at a joint meeting of the executive committee of the Granite Manufacturers' association and of the Granite Cutters' union.

The strike was brought on by the refusal of the Manufacturers' association to sign the agreement as decided upon by the arbitration committee.

The local committee readily came to an agreement early in the year upon all but a few points, which were the close shop clause, apprentice clause and business agent clause. These were referred to the National Executive committee representing both the association and the union.

The finding of the committee was repudiated by the manufacturers on the ground that the committee was not properly constituted and because the acceptance of it would make them liable to civil suits at law if a man was refused work simply because he was not a union man.

The refusal to sign this agreement containing these articles brought on the strike.

Friday, May 22, the National Committee took up the matter, and the articles in relation to employment of union men were so changed as to eliminate the liability of the manufacturers.

Since that time the matter has been hanging fire as the manufacturers wanted interpretation of the several clauses in writing.

The last of these clauses was that in relation to visits of the business agent to yards.

The manufacturers desired this clause in the agreement so read that a business agent could visit a yard but one day and talk to a workman but five minutes. Thursday afternoon the wording of this clause was so changed that it was acceptable by both parties interested.

A joint meeting, therefore, of the two executive committees was called for 1:30 Friday afternoon. At this meeting the agreement was read, and promptly signed by both committees.

As stated above the men will return to work this morning and prospect for summer business are good.

PAPER MAKING EXPERIMENTS.

White Paper May Be Manufactured from Rice, or Wheat Straw, or Corn Husks.

Washington, June 1.—When Dr. Wiley of Poison Squad fame recently sprang again into the limelight by declaring that alcohol could be manufactured from potatoes, and when the Forest Service followed it up by announcing that waste sawdust was full of potential booze, there was joy among the thirsty.

Now there is a scheme being hatched for the cigarette smoker. Imagine the smoker of the future pulling out his sack of tobacco, and calmly tearing off a corner of his newspaper in which to roll the weed. Imagine newspaper printed on real rice paper!

Also newspapers printed on real wheat straw paper. And on corn husk paper. The cigarette of the future may have his choice of the three.

That is, if the paper-making experiments which the Department of Agriculture is now conducting, pan out. The Bureau of Plant Industry was given an appropriation of $10,000 by Congress this year to continue investigations into fibrous plants which promise results in paper-making, the object being to find a substitute for the present wood pulp news print paper, whose continued manufacture threatens the extinction of the forests.

Already Dr. Galloway and his experts have succeeded in making first-class paper out of the stalks of rice grown in Louisiana and Texas—utilizing a product that is now considered absolutely useless and is thrown away. Splendid news print paper, whose continued manufacture threatens the extinction of the forests.

The finding of the committee was repudiated by the manufacturers on the ground that the committee was not properly constituted and because the acceptance of it would make them liable to civil suits at law if a man was refused work simply because he was not a union man.
