Mme. Steinhilf Recovers Sufficiently to Describe Murderers of Husband and Mother.

Paris, June 2.—A sensation has been caused here by the murder of Adolphe Steinhilf, the well-known painter, and his mother-in-law, who were found strangled to death yesterday at the artist's residence in the Rue de Valenciennes. Mme. Steinhilf, who was gagged and bound to a bed by the stranglers, had somewhat recovered from the shock this morning and was able to give the police an almost perfect description of the assassins, all of whom were long black gowns.

M. Hamard, chief of detectives, says the crime was not a question of revenge and that the plot, which undoubtedly had robbery for its object, was perfectly planned, executed, and directed by some familiar with the fact that there was a considerable sum of money in the house derived from the recent sale of M. Steinhilf's pictures, but that murder may not have been intended.

The artist neighbors of M. Steinhilf think he probably was the victim of a model, as it was his custom to select models from the walks through the city, regardless of their antecedents or morals. This also apparently is the theory of the police, who say that a woman with bad associations, who posed for the artist and became familiar with the house, probably apprised her to loot the residence.

ABOUT THE STATE

State Laboratory Finds Many Samples That Fail to Comply With Law.

Burlington, June 2.—The quarterly bulletin of the state board of health just issued, contains an interesting report of the work in behalf of pure food of the state laboratory.

It appears from this that 218 samples of maple products have been analyzed, of which three proved to be below the standard. No samples were taken of sugar which was to be sent out of the state. Had this been done, a large number of adulterated samples might have been found. The result of these examinations were very satisfactory, as it shows that very little adulterated maple sugar and syrup is offered for sale in this state.

One hundred and sixty-one samples of milk and cream have been analyzed and of these only thirteen, or eight per cent, were below standard. Of the thirteen below standard two were submitted because of suspected udder disease, so that only eleven dirty samples were collected. While these samples do not include the entire state, and the percentage would doubtless be higher if it did so, it shows a very gratifying decrease in the amount of dirty milk being sold.

Twenty-six samples of species have been examined, of which eight were illegal.

Samples of miscellaneous meats have been examined chiefly to determine if the animal was healthy when slaughtered. The parasite trichina was found in three samples, which shows that wormy pork is more common than the general public suspects and all pork should be thoroughly cooked before it is eaten.

Twelve samples of headache remedies have been analyzed and eleven found to be illegal because of withholding the true name of the active ingredient. In most cases the amount of acetanilid was not stated on the label of the medicine and it was not in proper form. These samples together with those previously analyzed show that all headache remedies depend upon acetanilid or some of its derivatives, chiefly phenacetin for their curative properties. This is combined with caffeine, sodium bicarbonate, camphor, eucalypti, and some opiate. The amount of acetanilid or phenacetin contained in a dose varies from one to five grains. When we consider that acetanilid is a powerful heart depressant and that the average dose is four grains, not to be repeated inside of three or four hours, it will be seen how extremely dangerous it is to take the large doses and repeat them in one-half or even one hour, as is so frequently stated in the directions on the preparations. As these all contain practically the same drug, it makes no difference which one of the remedies is used, but great care should be taken that too large a dose is not administered.

The Best Pills Ever Sold. "After doctoring 15 years for chronic indigestion, and spending over two hundred dollars, nothing has done me as much good as Dr. King's New Life Pills. I consider them the best pills ever sold." writes B. F. Ayscough of Ingleside, N. C. Sold under guarantee at the Red Cross Pharmacy, Rickett & Wells' drug store, 25c.

Shaping His Plans. Capt. Peary Getting Ready to Sail For North Pole Again.

Washington, D. C., June 1.—Capt. Peary, the Arctic explorer, has been shaping his plans to sail from New York on the good ship Roosevelt on his quest for the North Pole on July 7, if it can be done. A necessary fund is obtained by that time.

The Roosevelt has been overhauled and repaired and has aboard about $150,000 worth of equipment. Capt. Peary says that $300,000 more will be necessary to complete the outfit for the expedition.

Capt. Peary prefers to stick to the old way of exploring the Arctic rather than fond his hopes of success upon the aeroplane or the dirigible balloons. At the suggestion that the achievement of the Wright Brothers in flying through the air might solve the problem of the North Pole, he laughed with apparent confidence in the old and tried way.

"While I have no doubt," he said, "that within a year or two we shall be traveling through the air, I don't think the achievement of the Wright Brothers is likely to make much difference in Arctic exploration. Air travel in the Arctic regions is as different from air travel down here in the warmer climates, as sea travel is. It is very easy to take a ship to Liverpool but it's mighty hard to navigate ice floes in the Northern ocean."

"The air currents would probably be different. Materials used in aeroplane construction would act differently. There would be trouble from excessive contraction and expansion. And while one could travel quickly while the machines went, it's a damn long walk back."

SOFTNESS OF SEALSKIN.

Seal skin is admired the world over for its softness and glossiness; and yet the human hair is equally as soft and glossy when healthy; and the radical cause of all hair trouble is dandruff, which is caused by a pestiferous parasite that saps the vitality of the hair at its root. Newberr's Herpicide is the only preparation that is fatal to the dandruff germ. Without dandruff there is no falling hair, but a luxuriant growth of glossy, soft hair is certain. Scouring the scalp won't cure dandruff. Kill the dandruff germ. Thousands of women own their beautiful tulle of hair to Newberr's Herpicide. Sold by leading druggists.
