Cardenio F. King Charged With Stealing

SHOWS UP IN BOSTON

After Giving Himself Up, He Called for His Attorney—King Has Been Searched for by Police for Many Weeks.

Boston, June 12.—Cardenio F. King, the financial agent who has been missing since February 20, walked into police headquarters this morning and gave himself up. He called for his attorney and was closed all the morning with Chief Inspector Watts. He arrived here from New York. The warrant out for King's arrest charges him with stealing $3,000 in stocks bought for a customer and never delivered.

Was Long Sought by Police.

On May 1 police circulars were sent from Superintendent Pierce's office broadcast over the country calling for the arrest of King, in which the alleged fugitive was said to be a stock broker. The circular charged 31 counts of larceny, aggregating $25,338. Since the disappearance of the man, his office furnishings in the Boston Journal building have been sold at auction to satisfy claims against him. He had sumptuous quarters and was apparently doing a large business. He is said to have lost heavily on a newspaper enterprise which he conducted for a few months.

HORSE STEALING CHARGED.

Robert G. Kirkwood Placed in Jail at Newfane.

South Londonderry, June 12.—Robert G. Kirkwood of this village was taken to Newfane jail yesterday, in default of bail, to remain until the September term of the county court, when he will be arraigned on the charge of horse stealing. Kirkwood is 21 years old, and is charged with stealing a horse from Lee S. Haven Tuesday night. He was arraigned before Justice O. H. Clayton Wednesday night, but waived examination and was held in $500 bonds, which he was unable to secure. A short time ago Kirkwood sold a white horse to Mr. Haven. The latter turned it out to pasture Tuesday, and went after it at night, but was unable to find it. A place was discovered in the wall around the pasture where the stones had been taken down and replaced, and horse tracks led from that point to Kirkwood's home. Kirkwood and his carriage and harness were gone. The rig was traced through Arlington, Manchester and Sturdeant to Bennington by Deputy Sheriff J. W. Melendy of this town, and at Bennington the horse was found hitched with another horse to a dumpcart. It was easily recognized, and the driver said it had been hitched up for a trial, as a young man wanted to sell it. Mr. Melendy had no difficulty in finding Kirkwood. Kirkwood had borne a good reputation here.

AFTER THE VANDALS.

Manufacturing Company at Rutland Offers Reward For Arrest.

Rutland, June 12.—The Patch manufacturing company has offered a reward of $250 for the apprehension or for evidence leading to the arrest of vandals who Tuesday night destroyed several huge illuminated signs placed on cars containing machinery which is being shipped to a marble quarrying concern in Colorado. The company is filling the last portion of the $50,000 contract for quarrying machinery, one of the largest in the history of this state, and the material has been loaded on 14 cars, the signs bearing the name of the Patch company and the marble company which contracted for the machinery. The word "Patch" was cut out of the signs by the marauders, and the boards were broken. The culprits also wrote offensive phrases on the cars in chalk. Every effort is being made by the railroad authorities and the Rutland police to locate the guilty parties and at least one arrest is expected. It is said the railroad company will offer an additional reward for arrests or evidence leading to conviction.

REFUSES ORDER TO SELL.

Judge Martin of Brattleboro Will Not Allow Sale of Smith Factory.

Brattleboro, June 12.—Representatives of creditors of the National novelty corporation, who returned yesterday from New York, stated that United States Judge J. L. Martin of Brattleboro declined a petition which was presented to him in New York asking for permission to sell 11 of the 16 factories owned by the corporation, which are in the hands of a receiver. The receiver has received offers amounting to $400,000 for the 11 plants, of which the S. A. Smith factory in this town is one. The inventory of the property embraced in the offer is more than $1,500,000. It was shown that the offer was less than 75 per cent of the amount due creditors, and some of the creditors objected to the sale at that figure, claiming that a larger sum ought to be realized. The receiver was of the opinion that he could increase the amount somewhat. It is understood that the plants will be sold if enough can be realized to pay the creditors. The stockholders will lose about $1,000,000, it is claimed.

SENT LETTER TO GOVERNOR.

William Corti Said He Wanted A Garrett's Statement Corrected.

In addition to the records and data submitted by State's Attorney Gates on the conviction of Alexander Garrett for killing Eli Corti in Barre five years ago, as the result of a political feud, Governor Proctor, who has been asked to pardon Garrett from the state prison, has been sent the following letter from William Corti of this city, a brother of the man killed: "Dear Sir: Having read a report in the newspaper about a letter that A. Garrett has addressed to you, I wish to object to the statement in that letter that he was the victim of anarchist evidence and that he was convicted on perjury and fabrication. As an eye witness of the shooting and as a brother of the deceased, I firmly declare to-day in this letter as I declared before, that A. Garrett is the man who fatally shot my brother, Eli Corti, and that I saw him do the deed. If he was convicted of the crime that was because he did it. "It seems as though it were my duty to not let a false statement go by. "I remain, "Respectfully yours, "W. Corti."

THE PURPOSE OF EDUCATION.

The chief address of the evening was by John W. Gordon, and his remarks were listened to with great interest, as he traced the course of education in the various countries and then drew a comparison with the ideals of the schools of the United States, a comparison much to the advantage of the latter. He said that the systems of other times and other countries might have some points of superiority to that in this country, but would be unwilling to surrender what we have for the old ideals.

TOO HEAVY AN EXPENSE

Pleads Barre Railroad Before Railroad Commission

TO ABOLISH MAIN ST. GRADE

Favored Abolishing the Crossing at Ayers Street if It Must Do Away With Any—Would Prefer to Put in an Underpass There.

The State Railroad Commission of Vermont are giving a hearing at the city court room in Barre to-day at the request of the Barre railroad on the matter of abolishing one crossing on this railroad this year. The railroad this morning presented its side of the case and expressed a preference, if it must abolish a crossing, to have some other than that on South Main street. Through its engineer, B. M. Hayward, the road presented some of the difficulties that would be encountered if the commission ordered them to do away with this one. According to his figures and estimates, Main street would have to be raised 17 feet at the fork shop to allow an underpass, and to excavate for an underpass at this point would cost $20,000, to say nothing of the abutment walls that would have to be constructed.

THE AYERS STREET CROSSING, WHICH MR. HAYWARD APPEARED TO CONSIDER MORE FEASIBLE, HE SAID COULD BETTER BE ABOLISHED BY PUTTING THE STREET UNDER THE RAILROAD, SINKING IT 12 TO 14 FEET, AND RAISING THE TRACKS 7 1/2 FEET.

When Mr. Hayward had finished, the hearing took a recess for dinner, meeting at 1:30 this afternoon, when F. O. Scribner, an engineer employed by the railroad commission, told what he had found in looking over the situation.

Mr. Sinclair proposed sinking the railroad under South Main street 19 feet and raising the street grade 5 1/2 feet. This would lower the track across Hill street 12 feet and necessitate carrying Hill street around the hill to Ayers street for an outlet. The estimated cost of abolishing this crossing he figured at $77,000. To raise the railroad over Ayers street and lower the street to run under the road, he estimated would cost $33,000.

E. M. Smith, when he heard of it, declared he had another curiosity of nature at his cellar, in the shape of a hop vine. Mr. Smith explains the presence of the hop vine in his cellar by the fact that he had a keg of beer in the cellar a while ago and spilled some on the ground. From the beer came the hop vine, he says.
